At the conclusion of the breakfast, Professor Dixon thanked the Governor-General for his kindness in attending that morning, and spoke of the encouragement which he had always given so graciously to the work of the society.

NEW ARRIVALS.

The Chairman then gave a list of the animals which had been received at the Gardens since the last monthly breakfast. These were.—A badger, presented by Mr. R. Pearle, of Dublin; four Java monkeys and four green monkeys, purchased by the Society; two palm civets, presented by Mr. H. Beresford Barrett, of Rockfield House, Co. Galway, who sent them from Burma, and a Himalayan bear, presented by the Calcutta Zoological Society, and sent to Ireland by them. T is Himalayan bear was the largest that had ever been in Ireland.

They were also grateful to the Governor-General for presenting to the Society a copy of Stuart Baker's monograph on "Pigeons and Doves of India," and a number of volumes of the Journal of the Bombay Natural History Society.

A new and interesting study was being undertaken by a well-known English naturalist, Major Flower, of Tring, who was endeavouring to find ort the length of time which wild animals of all kinds lived in captivity. Major Flower had sent inquiries to all the zoological gardens in the world to aid him in compiling the necessary facts and figures.

DUBLIN ZOO "RECORDS."

They were hopeful, said Professor Dixon, that the Dublin "Zoo" would hold "records" for three or four animals at least. The Superintendent, Dr. Ferrar, and Mr. C. B. Moffatt, the Irish naturalist, had been looking up the records, and it was known that a lioness had lived in the "Zoo" for twenty-two years and a Polar bear for twenty-eight years. A striped hyena was believed to have lived for twenty-five years. These animals were now all dead.

At present, however, they had a leopard that had been in the Gardens for seventeen years, a tigress for thirteen and a half years, and a yak for twenty-two years. A South African condor had lived in the "Zoo" for forty-two years, and a crested pelican for thirty-six years. Mr. Moffatt believed that the cinereous vulture, which lived on the rock work at the far side of the lake, had been there since 1905. Of course, everyone was aware of the wonderful tunnels, which had lately attracted so much attention, and which had been in the gardens since 1911, when it was presented by the late Dr. Henle.

Professor Dixon announced that a lady who was interested in the work of the Zoological Gardens, but who did not wish her name to be disclosed, had presented a beautiful piece of needlework in the form of a firescreen, which was to be raffled in aid of the funds of the Society. As soon as arrangements had been completed formal notice would be given to the members.

HELP FROM IRISHMEN ABROAD.

The Chairman went on to read an extract from a letter from Mr. A. B. Monks, of Sierra Leone, stating:—"I have collected a bright young chimpanzee, male, with good manners, friendly and docile also a civet cat, two crown cranes, male and female, and a baby alligator. If you are interested in these I shall be delighted to present them as an offering to the 'Zoo.'"

Commenting on this letter, Professor Dixon said that were it not for the kindly interest and action of Irishmen abroad like Mr. Monks it would not be possible to carry on the Zoological Gardens in Dublin. Since the Society had been founded many years ago the majority of the animals in the Gardens had been presented by patriotic Irishmen resident abroad.

Professor Cecil West sent a subscription towards the funds of the Society in reduction of the bank overdraft, stating in an attached note:—"We have had a lovely day here (the "Zoo") and enjoyed it thoroughly."

Colonel Sandford Moore, Woodland, Shankill, was elected a member of the Society.

THE GUESTS.

The Governor-General was attended by Captain J. C. O'Sullivan, A.D.C..

Among the visitors present were:—Mr. G. H. Carpenter, D.Sc., Curator of the Museum, Manchester, formerly Hon. Secretary, Royal Zoological Society of Ireland; Mr. Percy McElwain, Singapore; Major Eric McElwain, Indian Army; Captain P. J. MANY VISITORS TO DUBLIN.

A HURLING ATTRACTION.

"Up, Tipp." was the slogan in the streets of Dublin yesterday afternoon. Earlier in the day "Up, Dublin," was frequently heard, but after the decisive victory of Tipperary in the All-Ireland Hurling Championship final (2-7 to 1-3), Tipperary had cause for rejoicing, and the supporters of that famous hurling team let themselves go in the most good-humoured fashion. Favours of both teams were much in evidence, and the greatest interest was taken in the match.

The weather was fine, and special trains and buses from all parts of the country brought large numbers of followers of this popular game.

There were probably 25,000 people at the match, which was played at Croke Park in a sportsmanlike manner, the victors coming in for a great ovation.

In order to cater for the crowds many restaurants remained open specially, and these did a big business, as did also the hotels. The public-houses in the city had closed before the conclusion of the match.

Prior to the big event the All-Ireland Minor Football Championship between Dublin and Mayo was played.

VOYAGE FROM DUBLIN TO SUNNY LANDS.

On September 20th next the steamer Alondra, of the Yeoward Line, will leave Dublin on a voyage to Lisbon, Madeira, and the Canary Islands, returning to Dublin without change of vessel or break of journey. This is the first time a liner will leave Dublin on a pleasure cruise to sunny lands. Fifty-four hours will be spent on shore at Lisbon, twelve at Madeira, twenty-eight at Las Palmas, twenty-eight at Santa Cruz, and fourteen at Orotava. Inland excursions by motor, at moderate cost, have been arranged at all these places. The fare for the twenty-two days' cruise is only thirty guineas.

BREAKFAST WITH THE BEASTS

NEW ARRIVALS AT THE DUBLIN "ZOO."

DEBT TO IRISHMEN ABROAD.

Few people have breakfasted in the midst of wild animals, with the roar of the lion and other beasts as an accompaniment; yet, that is what happens once a month in Dublin, when members of the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland and their friends and special guests of the Society assemble in the Zoological Gardens. It is considered an honour to "breakfast with the beasts," especially, as in this case, it can be done with perfect safety.

Inside the refreshment-room of the Gardens, where breakfast was served last Saturday, all was warmth and comfort; the company was large and good and the food was excellent. Professor A. Francis Dixon, the President of the Society, was at the head of the long table, and at his right hand was seated the Governor-General of the Irish Free State, Mr. James McNeill, who was the guest of honour.

At the conclusion of the breakfast, Professor Dixon thanked the Governor-General for his kindness in attending that morning, and spoke of the encouragement which he had always given so graciously to the work of the society.

ARE YOU AN "INDOOR GARDENER"?

The Bulbs To Use And How To Plant Them.

Paris Millinery.

Another "capeline," and one of the latest and best creations of a Paris milliner, which has been carried out in tortoise-shell coloured velvet, with trimmings of gros-grain ribbon.

[Sketched in Paris.

DEAR MARY,—Bulbs for indoor growing are now on sale, and I hope you will follow my example by replenishing your stock of bulb-bowls, buying fibre and bulbs, and starting to plant right away. If you begin now and plant at intervals of a fortnight until November, you can have an indoor garden in flower from the very beginning of December well into the spring.

I intend to have a really good show this season, and have been busy collecting information on the best bulbs to use and the best methods of planting them. Roman Hyacinths and Polyanthus Narcissi—with clustered flowers in several different shades—are sure to be out in time for Christmas decoration if planted at once. As Roman Hyacinths are not always easy to obtain it is as well to know that three French varieties may be had which will flower about the beginning of December, and successive plantings will ensure a supply at Christmas. After these you can have Incurcus, Daffodils, Narcissus, Poeticus—or Pleasant Eye—Tulips, and many varieties of Hyacinth. Some Tulips will also bloom by the end of December. The best for the purpose are the dwarf Due van Thos Tulips, which can be had in scarlet, yellow and white.

Most of these bulbs do best in fibre, and a few simple rules will prevent any failures. First choose bulbs that feel heavy and solid. Even if they are small these will produce sturdier flowers than larger and lighter bulbs. Next be sure the fibre is uniformly moist—not wet—before planting. The best way of moistening fibre is to mix a quantity with water in a basin, kneed it thoroughly, then lift it out and squeeze it with your hands till all surplus water runs out. Pack the fibre in the bowls till bulbs placed on top are barely level with the rim, then cover them, and press the fibre down lightly. It is a great mistake—as I found to my cost last year—to pack the fibre too tightly, because bulbs have "fleshy" roots which cannot make their way through a hard soil.

"Planting" in Water.

A few bulbs will grow splendidly in water, and it is a joy to watch the roots spreading out bravely, while whiter bowls out of doors! But you must use rain or well water to obtain a really good result, and a few pieces of charcoal should be thrown in to keep the water sweet. Hyacinths grown in this way should not be started till October, and the special bulb vases sold by seedsmen are the safest containers; for the bulb should scarcely touch the water.

Polyanthus Narcissi do well in water, too, but are "planted" differently, and you can begin putting them down at once. Fill your bowl three-quarters full with small pebbles; then pour in water, and fix the bulbs firmly in their stony bed. Narcissi grown in this fashion in glass or figured white china bowls have a charming Chinese air, which can be enhanced by the introduction of goldfish—not red ones, but Italian fish made of blown glass, or little ducks, floating ducks and swans. As with the hyacinths, rain-water and charcoal should be used.

By the way, it is worth while to ensure proper and invisible staking for fibre-grown bulbs from the outset. In a Dublin seedsman's window the other day I caught sight of a useful gadget called "Staket," which consists of a green stake mounted on a circular metal base, that can be put in the bowl before the fibre is packed in. A single length of green raffia attached to this will keep unruly leaves and stems in order. Of course, this stake could also be fixed underneath the pebbles.

Avoid Draughts.

The next important step after planting is to ensure the growth of roots before any foliage pushes up. Bulbs should not, in any circumstances, be placed in a hot press, or on shelves in a warm room, as this forces the flower out before roots are well established, and the result is straggly blooms. They should be left in a cool cellar or dark outhouse, out of reach of floor draughts, till the spike shows about half an inch. In a flat, where cellars and outhouses are but a distant dream, a table on a dimly lighted landing is about the best place for the bowls; but they should never at any stage be placed on high shelf or on top of a cupboard, where they will get only the used-up air which rises continually towards the ceiling.

Bulbs in fibre should be watered regularly but not saturated; it is a good plan after watering to hold the fibre in and tip the bowl sideways, so that any accumulated water may drain off at the rim.

When growth is well started bulbs should not be immediately exposed to sunshine, but kept away from the windows for two or three days. They may then be placed in the sunniest, airiest spot you can find, and should be turned about often, so that the light reaches the plant on all sides and promotes straight stems. If you have ever found the leaf-tips turning brown it was probably due, not to frost, but to a sudden transition from darkness to sunlight.

Bulbs in Turf.

An enthusiastic "indoor gardener" of my acquaintance has succeeded in growing bulbs in a novel fashion which will appeal to country dwellers when fibre is not easy to obtain near at hand. Take a sod of light turf, not the dark, heavy sods; scoop out holes to contain each bulb separately and soak the sod in water; then let it drain for a day and then put the bulbs in their nest. In every other way these bulbs are treated like those in fibre. Crocuses answer best to this method, and in spring an enchanting effect is obtained by scattering grass-seed over the turf—in ten days you have a flower-starred meadow in miniature.

Yours, AILEEN.

ARE YOU AN "INDOOR GARDENER"?

What Paris Has To Offer The Sports Girl.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

THE new collections of the dressmakers are teeming with novelties, some of which may be worn, while others seem to have been presented merely as suggestions. One after another, types of clothes which women thought were dead long since, are returning to fashion. They have been brought back to life, but in a somewhat different form.

What Paris intends to do is a continuation of what she began to do last autumn, when the "big fight" started. She has removed the box and lead pencil silhouette and substituted for it a natural one, with the waistline where it ought to be and with outlines copied out of Nature's style-book. Stiff corsets for street and office are not, nor have they ever been, part of the Paris fashion programme—as anyone who ever saw the Paris Style Shows will testify. Fashions have come back to an honest-to-goodness foundation.

Simple Fashions.

There is a simple side to Paris fashions for those women who can at will be healthy, vigorous young things, or who are naturally born that way. These fashions are made to order. They are intended for moving about and they make no bid for attention, apart from their suitability to the spotive scene. On the simple side of Paris fashions you will find that waistlines are natural, hemless, and just below the knees, and no seams are fitted. No cutting up and sewing together of bands and what not disturb the real, true simplicity of these styles. They are what they seem, and their accessories are just as uncomplicated.

Hats of homespun cloth, stiff tricot hats and berets and tiny caps are the fashionable simple millinery for such clothes. Gloves of chamois minus the tiniest button fastening, slip on easily because they are worn a bit too large, so as to leave the hands quite free inside them. Jewellery is not worn. A large bag of leather to match the shoes—which have low heels—is what the particular Parisienne carries with such a frock.

While simplicity is smartness itself, beware of the simplicity that is also "dumb." Nothing monotonous is ever smart. The sweater and skirt are out of fashion. Having grown too familiar, they are bores. The cardigan jacket is a drug on the smart market for the same reason. The sleeveless dress is rarely worn alone. Very short sleeves are new, and they are smart because of this. The sports dress that is going to be worn for games like lawn tennis usually has little capes instead of sleeves, because they leave the upper arm free for a wicked upstroke, and they are just as smart as the short, fitted sleeve that interferes with the game.

Details of the Sports Dress.

The sports dress invariably has a wide skirt, and if this skirt is fitted at the top, the fitting is never very tight. The ordinary pleated skirt is not the most fashionable type for simple sports fashion. Some of the smartest Paris sports frocks have circular skirts; others have box-pleats distributed at intervals round the skirt. Others are both circular and box-pleated, giving a new and tricky line.

This kind of skirt is shown on a model designed for Miss Helen Wills—Mrs. Wills-Moody, as she now is. It is made of Irish green and white tweed, cut in a complete circle, and then stitched down into four box-pleats at side of front and back. These pleats are stitched flat to below the hip-line, from which point they flare. There is a wide belt at the waistline, sewn on to the white piqué blouse.

THE NURSERY TOOTHBRUSH.

A novelty toothbrush, accompanied by a special appropriate poem, is the latest addition to toilet items for the nursery. The toothbrush is exactly the right size for a child to use, and is made with a dainty blue, pink or other pastel-coloured handle. It is fixed on a jolly-looking card, round the edge of which runs a delightful design of small children doing the jolly things that make children do—small boys on Tommy's card, and small girls on the card that holds Matilda's toothbrush. Beside the picture there is a poem, printed in good lettering, in the centre of the card, which tells Matilda and Tommy what will happen to them if they neglect to use their toothbrushes regularly. The toothbrush card is the work of an artist well known in the nursery world, and makes such an everyday item a sought-after present with the little ones, especially if, when the brush is removed for use, the card is hung up in the bathroom or nursery as an ever-present attractive reminder.

Scotch Shortbread.

Mix together six ounces of flour, two ounces of rice flour and four ounces of sugar, rub in six ounces of butter, and add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Knead into a smooth paste and leave for half an hour. Shape into a round, leave to rest for fifteen minutes, and bake in a quick oven until the mixture begins to cook, and then in a slower oven.

***

Tea Cream.

Make three-quarters of a pint of tea, and strain it on to the yolks of three eggs, which have been mixed with three ounces of castor sugar. Add half an ounce of gelatine, and cook, and add half a pint of whipped cream and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Put into a wetted mould and turn out when set.

A SANE DECK CHAIR.

A new type of deck chair which will not collapse is a safeguard against pinched fingers or rough tumbles. The frame is made of specially selected unvarnished wood, and is designed so that the chair can be used in four different positions, these being acquired by an unusual method of a drop wooden wedge. Inexpensive to buy, and finished with strong striped canvas, this new chair is extremely suitable for beach use.

No one need fear getting damp feet, no matter how wet the sand, if a foot rest is always to hand. A convenient type of article for the purpose is made of plain white wood, and raised about one inch from the ground, whilst its very small cost enables a sufficient number to be provided for the use of everyone. The rest measures twenty inches by fourteen.

PARTRIDGE SHOOTING.

Partridge shooting has begun. On the whole, grouse shooting seems to make more appeal to women than sport with the partridge or pheasant, but a certain number can run the men very closely for prowess when they do join the "guns."

Lady Ancaster, whose husband has such splendid shootings on his Lincolnshire estates, is a very fine shot. So, too, is the Duchess of Sutherland, who, like Lady Ancaster, has often done big game shooting.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN ORANGE.

The South African orange season is at its zenith at the moment. In this fruit the housewife has an orange full of juice and delicious in flavour, fit to set before her guests and her family for dessert. The fruit is not dear, and varies in price according to the time of purchase during the season, which began as early as June, and will continue until the end of October.

In the past ten years the industry has doubled and trebled. From ten thousand cases up to a million and a quarter now are sent to England in a season.

The flared overcoat is adapted to tall or short figures, and "goes with everything" for street wear.

HIDDEN TEA-SET.

There is a vogue just now for furniture to be almost anything but what you imagine it is, and here the concealed tea apparatus will find appreciation. Just an oak cabinet on legs, looking as though it holds a wireless set. One side lets down (after the manner of the bag or small writing desk) and provides a little flap table. Inside the cabinet are small dresser hooks on which tea cups hang. A thin wooden batten across the bottom of the cabinet—close to the side which does not open and let down—provides a rack behind which tea plates are stacked. There is ample space for the small caddy, kettle, sugar bowl, milk jug and cake tin. Failing the homely gas ring in your fireplace, a small methylated spirit stove can be added. A dainty lace cloth completes the outfit. By the way, the girl who prefers lemon to milk in her tea is doubly independent, and neither the milkman nor the milk curdling weather can spoil her morning, afternoon, or evening tea cup.

Remedies For Freckles.

While there are a few really handsome dark girls who can have freckles without these detracting from their looks, to the fair girl freckles are a real detriment. Sometimes sunburn leaves just a few freckles on the face, while at other times so many are apparent that they blend one into the other.

When there are just a few, a lactic acid lotion will be found very effective. A chemist should be asked to prepare one. The freckles must be painted with the lotion, using a camel-hair brush.

If there is a regular crop of these blemishes, a peroxide of hydrogen lotion is usually effective. Buttermilk is another useful remedy. Very strong preparations should never be applied.

A girl who freckles every summer should use a special lotion every night, or (unless her face is overheated) even on coming indoors, and in such a case a piece of peroxide of hydrogen should be applied.

While a freckle remedy is in use, although it is perfectly harmless, it may have a tendency to roughen the skin. To counteract this effect, a simple toilet cream or a little plain almond oil must be applied occasionally.

CAREFUL CURTAIN CLEANING.

At this time of the year, when wise housewives try to get out of doors as much as possible, hints that shorten washing day are always useful. Here is an excellent one for cleaning what the Americans call "glass curtains." It is equally suitable for lace or net, and nowadays, when all up-to-date windows are hung with one or the other, anything that helps to keep them in good order is welcome.

The method is much the same as that recommended for cleaning light-coloured furs. Thoroughly warm some bran in the oven; rub it gently into the curtains and leave them lying flat for an hour or so. After this, hang them on the line, and thoroughly shake and brush them, using a soft-bristled clothes brush for the purpose. It will be found that the bran has absorbed all the dirt, especially when this is of the greasy, sooty type that is the bugbear of town dwellers.

This method of curtain care obviates shrinking, and entirely does away with the back-breaking ironing that is such a trial in hot weather.

It takes a genius to make even the most perfect fur look well on an evening frock, because fur, is so obviously out of place there.

For the same reason, beware of broad collar trims. Remember that a neck-line can do much to achieve a tall, slender look.

Modify the mode to meet your needs; do not accept fashion dictums slavishly. Every woman can dress becomingly, and, at the same time, smartly, if she will.

As the summer advances georgettes and chiffons will grow in popularity, and flat crêpe seems to have just the right texture to express the new soft, slightly full, silhouette.

Ivory-handled knives and forks which are badly stained may be cleaned by means of a cut lemon dipped in salt.

Household Hints.

To clean rush mats wipe them over quickly with a cloth damped with salty water quite often. This method prolongs their wear considerably.

When whitewash gets on the windows it can be removed by hot vinegar. Afterwards diluted ammonia or metal polish should be rubbed over, when the glass gets bright again.

When making egg custard mix the beaten eggs with milk that is slightly warm, and there will be no fear that the custard will turn watery.

Bananas, when cut up for cooking purposes, will not turn brown if sprinkled with lemon juice.

To clean knives thoroughly rub them well with half a potato which has been dipped into some bath-brick. This will rid them of any stains, and will not scratch them.

After boiling beetroots, plunge them into cold water and the skin will peel off like a glove.

To keep the stove clean when frying fish or meats, place an inverted colander over the pan. This prevents the splashings of grease, yet allows the steam to escape.

SOME SALAD RECIPES.

Here are a few recipes for salads that are worthy of a trial:—

Smooth down a cream cheese with two tablespoonfuls of cream. Mix in half a green pepper and half-a-dozen stalks of celery, both cut up fine, and half a pint of walnuts. Add a pint of whipped cream, and turn into a mould packed round with ice and salt in equal measure. Leave for two and a half hours, and then cut in slices and serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing.

Excavate good-sized tomatoes, already peeled, and drain them. Mix the pulp with fine chopped green pepper and cucumber, add mayonnaise and a little grated horseradish. Replace in the tomatoes, and serve on lettuce.

Mix half a pint of cut-up pineapple (canned slices or cubes) with a pint of shredded cabbage and a fine chopped green pepper, two tablespoonfuls of pineapple juice and a tablespoonful of white sugar. Place in a salad bowl lined with watercress, and serve with mayonnaise.

A Delicious Fruit Novelty.

Yellow tomatoes, which have been a feature of the Ballsbridge show and which I have just bought at the greengrocers', are more highly esteemed by vegetarians than the red variety; they are, moreover, a British product, and I am told that the present supply is from a South coast grower. They have a milder and less acid taste than the red tomato; in appearance they are rather like large yellow plums.

The skin of tomatoes is easily removed if scalding water is first poured over them and they are drained on a cloth.

"Globe 'chokes,'" as they are called in the markets to distinguish them from the "Jerusalem" variety—are also obtainable now, although their season is generally considered to be from January to April.

Tomato and artichoke salad is a welcome change in the menu. The artichokes must first be washed thoroughly; the stems are removed and, if necessary, the leaves are trimmed. They are then put into boiling water, with salt in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a quart, and boiled quickly for half an hour, or until tender, the saucepan being left uncovered. They are then taken out and drained. As only the bottoms are wanted for the salad, the rest may be served as a vegetable.

Split into halves, the artichokes are interspersed with the sliced tomatoes, and served with a little sauce. A decorative effect is obtained by using red and yellow tomatoes alternately.

SILVER FOX FARMS.

PROFITABLE INDUSTRY IN CANADA.

The first country to develop the breeding of silver foxes in captivity, Canada has so maintained her position that she is regarded as a world leader by all other countries.

The Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association is the largest breed society in the Dominion, and registers annually a larger number of pedigreed animals than is to be found in any other species of live stock. The 70,583 silver fox pups born in 1929, and registered by the Association, are descended from less than a score of silver foxes taken from the wild by the pioneer breeders. The industry was nursed through its infancy on Prince Edward Island.

Silver fox farming has been firmly established in practically every province of the Dominion, and farms are operated on a very large scale, more particularly in the province of Quebec. Silver fox farming has also become established in a great number of European countries, and heavy shipments of live foxes are made annually from Canada. Last year 2,553 were exported from Prince Edward Island alone.

A large number of the silver fox farms in Canada are no longer interested in the sale of live foxes. They prefer to breed for the production of pelts. During the past four years there has been a rapid increase in the number of silver fox pelts coming into the market, and, as the number increased, a wider interest was shown in silver fox furs by the fur buyers, and by the fur trade as a whole. That resulted, generally speaking, in a steady increase in the prices obtained for silver fox furs.

During the last two decades of the nineteenth century before foxes were raised in captivity, it has been estimated that between 2,000 and 3,000 silver fox pelts were placed upon the market annually. For the past two years over 100,000 silver fox pelts have been absorbed each year by the fur trade, and, as the number of captured wild animals has not increased, it is estimated that wild pelts comprised only about 2,000 of that number.

"SUMMER SHAPE."

At a little supper party last night, where all the dishes had been prepared by the hostess, a fresh fruit shape was voted particularly delicious. In response to my request my hostess told me how she had made it. The fruit she used on this occasion was peach:—

First prepare a quarter pound fruit pulp, and have ready one ounce cornflour, three tablespoonfuls of condensed milk dissolved in one and a half gills of water. Mix the cornflower with a little of the milk, and put the remainder to boil in a saucepan. When it boils stir it on to the cornflour. Put it back in the saucepan and boil it for five minutes, stirring all the while; add the pulp and pour into a wetted shape. Serve, when set, with fruit syrup poured round the mould.

This is a method that can be applied to any kind of soft fruit, fresh or preserved.

CURD CHEESE CAKE.

Here is an American recipe for curd cheese cake. You will require one cupful of milk (fresh), one cupful of sour milk, one cupful of sugar, the yolks of four eggs, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, a quarter-cupful of almonds (blanched and chopped), and quarter-teaspoonful of salt.

Scald the sweet and the sour milk, and strain through cheesecloth. To the kurd add sugar, the yolks of eggs (slightly beaten), salt and lemon. Line patty-pans with paste, fill with mixture, sprinkle with chopped almonds, and bake till the mixture is firm to the touch.

A NURSE'S WAY WITH WOOD.

During the week-end I spent an hour in one tiny, but exquisitely-kept, kitchen of the District Nurse's cottage. Everything made of wood—table, chairs, clothes-horse, bread-platter, window-sills—was so white that I exclaimed: "You must spend all your off-duty time in scrubbing!"

"Not a bit of it," she laughed. "I never scrub my wood. I do it all with hot, soapy water and my saucepan cleaner. The metal removes the dirt like magic, and unless you put too much vigour into it there is no need to scratch the wood."

There are some fashion accessories that are well worth adopting. One of these is the new way of wearing artificial flowers on your evening or smart afternoon dress. The smartest women in Paris are wearing father large bunchy-looking flowers on the front of the bodice at the lowest part on the décolletage, instead of the bunch of flowers on the shoulder that has been so fashionable in the past.

AIREDALE TYPES.

EXHIBITS PRAISED AT DUBLIN SHOW.

The annual Show promoted by the Airedale Terrier Club was held last Saturday afternoon in the Rotunda, Dublin. There were ten classes for Airedales, and with the number of entries high in all, competition was keen. Two classes for any variety of terrier also were very well supported.

Mrs. Dean, who acted as judge, expressed herself as pleased with the quality of the exhibits, some of which, she said, were outstanding types of the Airedales. Results:—

POLAND AND THE BOLSHEVIKS.

THE BATTLE OF WARSAW.

A PERIL AVERTED.

We reproduce the following article which Viscount D'Abernon has contributed to the Gazeta Polska:—

There are few incidents in the recent history of civilisation of greater importance than the Battle of Warsaw in 1920; there is none which has been less understood. The European world passed through a moment of dire peril; the peril was averted and the whole episode was forgotten. Had the Battle of Warsaw resulted in a Bolshevist victory, it would have been a turning-point in history; there can be no doubt that the whole of Eastern and Central Europe would have been open to a tide of Communistic propaganda and Soviet invasion. It could hardly have emerged intact. There is ample evidence, in speeches made in Russia before and during the Polish campaign, that Soviet ambition had views extending far beyond the defeat and destruction of Poland. Preparations had been made in the large manufacturing towns of Germany, and the fall of Warsaw would have preceded by a few days a declaration of Soviet rule in those cities. I welcome, therefore, the decision of Poland to draw renewed attention to the events of 1920 and to bring out the importance of Polish action in that year. On many historic occasions Poland has been the bulwark of Europe against Asiatic invasion; at no time were the services of Poland more important; at no time was the peril more grave.

THE GENIUS OF PILSUDSKI.

From another point of view the occasion merits attention. Victory was achieved mainly through the strategic genius of one man, and through action so perilous that both inspiration and audacity were required. Nothing could appear more certain in the days preceding the final Soviet attack on Warsaw than that the city would fall, after a brief resistance. The Soviet forces were flushed with victory; they had driven the Poles back for forty consecutive days at an average rate of ten miles a day; every attempt at organised resistance by Polish commanders had been overcome, partly by infiltration, partly by propaganda, partly by turning movements. The Polish forces were dispirited and appeared incapable of offering resistance to a concentrated attack on the capital of the country. It required supreme resolution to break contact with the advancing Soviet troops by retiring more rapidly than the Russians could pursue. The manœuvre gave a respite for re-forming, and the original Soviet plan was subverted.

Enormous risks had to be taken. The forces defending the capital were depleted at a moment when they were already too weak for the task allotted to them. Troops had to be massed secretly on the left of the Russian attack, such troops having to be drawn not only from the defence of Warsaw, but also from the South, thus leaving the important district of Lwow practically undefended. The body of forces thus collected, badly equipped and badly armed, was composed of very different elements. They had been collected into the Polish Army from different, and sometimes from hostile, sources. Some had been fighting for the Austrians, some for the Germans and some for the Russians. As can well be imagined, troops drawn from such different sources were necessarily lacking in cohesion and in tactical practice. They were armed with a variety of rifles, some German, some Russian; in the matter of uniforms and boots there was a grave scantiness of supply. Could a force thus composed be inspired with the will to victory? Could it be infused with the requisite aggressive spirit? None but a national hero could achieve this miracle. Pilsudski alone enjoyed the necessary prestige, and by Pilsudski the miracle was achieved.

COUNSELLORS.

Poland's allies from Western Europe—France and England—contributed moral support. They despatched a diplomatic and military mission to Poland. This mission conferred with the Polish leaders and gave what Poland most needed—an assurance that a full supply of military material would be forthcoming: not only this, but a guarantee that the avenue of supply to Poland would be kept open, and that hostile elements at Danzig should not prevent free transit from western Europe to the battle front. Moreover, in General Weygand and General Radcliffe, two soldiers of the highest reputation, enjoying the prestige of recent success in the Great War, stood beside the Polish Commander. Whether the problems to be solved in Poland were directly similar to those present in the Great War may, indeed, be doubtful, but the value of the advice and co-operation of the French and English generals was inestimable in more spheres than one.

The story of the fighting which occurred between August 12th and August 20th, 1920, has been narrated with unprecedented frankness by Marshal Pilsudski in his volume, "L'année 1920." Nothing could be more interesting than his description of the birth and early life of the strategic plan; nothing more dramatic than the story of its eventual execution in the face of overwhelming difficulty. The interest of the volume is greatly enhanced by the inclusion of a lecture given by Commander Toukhatschevsky a year after the events of 1920. We have thus, from the military standpoint, material of technical importance almost unprecedented in the history of the War.

THE BARRIER OF THE WEST.

It now remains for political writers to give an equally full and frank account of the political developments which led up to and accompanied the campaign of 1920. Their task is to bring the European public to understand that, in that year, Poland saved Europe; further, that the maintenance of a strong Poland—in harmony with western European civilisation—is necessary as a bulwark against the ever present danger of Asiatic invasion. It is for Polish writers, more than those of any other nation, to bring out the essential truth; but I hope at some future time to make a contribution to historical knowledge of the events of August, 1920, by publishing personal recollections of the Anglo-French Mission.

From my experience of those fateful days I have retained profound admiration for the Polish ability to rise to a supreme crisis and to act heroically in the face of what appeared to be overwhelming forces.

THE SPIRIT OF JOURNALISM.

A CANON'S VIEW.

"I thank God for a remarkable change in the spirit of journalism since my boyhood, the breakdown of the attitude of icy reserve as regards the religious side of life," said the Vicar of Buxton, Canon C. E. Scott Moncrieff, preaching at Buxton Parish Church yesterday to a congregation consisting largely of delegates attending the annual Conference of the Institute of Journalists.

Articles in some newspapers to-day, he said, gave clear indications of the way in which the finer spirits of our time were grappling with life's problems. The chief obstacle to such writers lay not in themselves, but in the Christian public for which they wrote. They could go much further if the Church were not divided against itself. The re-union of Christianity would mean, among other things, a tremendous spiritual uplift in journalism.

Lightning Yawns.

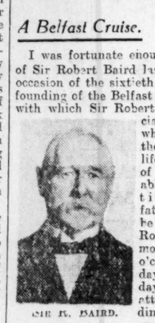
I noticed many Dubliners yawning the day after the thunderstorm, writes a friend. It would be interesting to establish a definite relationship between yawns and thunder. Yawns are generally associated with the liver, and thunder is said to "clear the air," and, therefore, one would imagine, incidentally refresh human beings. The first person I saw yawning whole-heartedly on Thursday was a schoolboy outside a shop in O'Connell street. He struck me specially, as the schoolboy age is generally regarded as a yawnless one. I met various nondescript people after that who yawned, but they might have been yawning equally well any other day. In the evening I saw a gentleman, however, obviously a professional man, driving his car past Grafton street and yawning, with an open mouth unprotected by his hand, in the same way people do who are swamped in a fit of yawning. It was then that I began definitely to relate this phenomenon to the weather.

Keeping the Lightning Out.

There is a widespread notion that it is a prudent thing during a thunderstorm to leave a door or a window open for the easy egress of the lightning should it have got into the house. During the recent thunderstorm I noticed several houses in which the windows were open at the top and at the bottom, evidently with this intention. At one time in Paris, when it began to thunder and lighten, they used to ring the great bell at the Abbey of St. Germain, which, they believed, would make it cease; and bells are still rung in some parts of Switzerland, where thunderstorms are apt to be more dangerous than with us.

A Belfast Cruise.

I was fortunate enough to be the guest of Sir Robert Baird last Saturday on the occasion of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Belfast Evening Telegraph with which Sir Robert himself was associated. Sir Robert, who is well beyond the allotted span of life, must be one of the most remarkable veterans of his time. Nothing fatigues him. He can be in his office in Royal avenue every morning at eight o'clock, do a hard day's work—and his day's work is hard—attend a public dinner in Belfast that evening, and be in Fleet street on the following morning discussing newspaper matters with the leaders of the trade. He is noted for his hospitality, and on Saturday he excelled himself. He chartered the Ulster Prince, and, in conjunction with the directors of the Ulster Imperial Company, entertained some eight hundred people to a delightful cruise along the Antrim coast. Unhappily, the weather was bad, but Sir Robert's guests, as usual, enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The coast of Antrim is one of the loveliest in the world. We sailed luxuriously as far as Tor Head, passing Larne en route, and although the "visibility" was poor, even heavy mists could not spoil the grandeur of that coast line.



SIR R. BAIRD.

Up Cork!

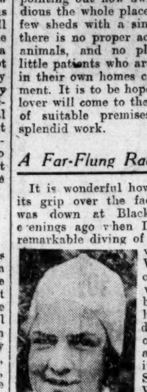
There was a rather amusing incident on the way back. Out of the eight hundred guests I suppose ninety-nine per cent. were what the Americans would term "one hundred per cent. Ulster Unionists"—some of them, indeed, of a rather higher percentage. There was some excellent community singing, organised and directed by a gentleman named Irvine, who really ought to come to Dublin. We had sung almost every conceivable song. The orchestra entered into the spirit of the thing, and we were getting along famously, when a young girl started "Dolly's Brae." I had never heard this famous song before, although I knew all about it, and was rather surprised to find it so tuneful. In my ignorance I always had been under the impression that it could be played only with bleeding knuckles on a colossal drum. Among the audience were several members of the Cork Harbour Board, who had come up to Belfast as Sir Robert's guests, as a return compliment for the Belfastmen's trip to the South a few months ago. When we had finished "Dolly's Brae" a large gentleman, with a strong Shankill accent, called for the "Soldier's Song" "in honour of Cork," as he put it. For a moment there was consternation—at any rate, I felt it; but Belfast is a great city. The orchestra was more than equal to the occasion. It struck up the "Soldier's Song" with gusto, and, mirabile dictu, everybody seemed to know the words, which is more than could be said of Dublin. Everybody joined in; and I think you will admit that the border problem is not so formidable after all.

The Blue Cross.

The other day, seeing a Blue Cross dispensary beside Baggot Street Bridge, I stepped inside, and found that it was in temporary premises, owing to the fact that circumstances beyond their control had obliged the workers to vacate their fine place off Leeson street. The surgeon in charge courteously showed me round, pointing out how awkward and incommodious the whole place was, being merely a few sheds with a sink. This means that there is no proper accommodation for the animals, and no place for beds where little patients who are too ill to be nursed in their own homes can be kept for treatment. It is to be hoped that some animal-lover will come to the rescue with an offer of suitable premises to carry on this splendid work.

A Far-Flung Race.

It is wonderful how this island spreads its grip over the face of the world. I was down at Blackrock Baths a few evenings ago when I was struck by the remarkable diving of a young girl. She was Miss Oonagh Whitsitt, the young champion of Natal, who is on her way back to South Africa, having just won the diving championship of the British Empire at the recent games in Hamilton, Ontario. She is a niece of Mrs. Whitsitt, of Anglesea road, Dublin, and a cousin of the late J. R. Whitsitt, the brilliant young Rugby player, who fell in the War. So the South African champion of the British Empire, who won her title in Canada, is an Irish girl.



MISS O. WHITSITT.

A Queer Exchange.

Peculiar and unexpected incidents happen sometimes under the most prosaic conditions, but the following is one of the queerest I have heard. An elderly spinster, who lived in a two-pair back, was greatly attached to a cat which she had kept as a pet for many years, and became disconsolate when the animal took some mysterious sickness and died. Soon, however, she was faced with the problem of disposing of the body, and shrank from the idea of committing her favourite to the Corporation cart. After some thought she determined to take a journey into the country, and bury the cat in a field that she had known in her youth. Having made a neat package of the remains she went forth, took a seat in a 'bus, and placed the parcel on the floor near her. There were a good many people travelling on that day, mostly women who had been shopping in the city, and, although the old woman was hustled and almost sat on, at last, after a long and tiring journey, she arrived at her destination. Having made quite sure that she was entirely alone, she selected a suitable spot, dug a hole with a trowel, and, in order to have one last look at her pet, undid the parcel. To her complete surprise it contained a small round of beef.

The Nomenclature of the Ring.

I have never been a particularly enthusiastic partisan of the ring, but now and again I derive a little quiet amusement from a contemplation of the "stage names" assumed by, or conferred upon, boxers. We are accustomed on this side of the Atlantic to a comparatively limited set of such titles, almost all of which have a definite relation to the prowess of their holders. "Battling So-and-so," "Licker Thum-and-thus," "Bombardier A," "Sledge-hammer B," "C the Knacker," are common enough. I find, however, after contemplation of a back number of the American Mercury, the magazine in which Mr. H. L. Mencken talks nicely to the U.S.A. about its sins, a locus classicus for such epithets. In the section entitled "Americana," wherein he holds up for judgment the idiosyncrasies of the American people, as revealed in the American Press, I find the following item of social and sporting gossip from the enlightened town of Pisgah, Cal.:—

"Among the notables who visited Carlo Curtis's famous Main Street Athletic Club last week were Squirrel-Ear Earl Perior; Dindaling George Hussey, the Mulligan Stew Poet; Eczema Jerry McCarthy, Tiger Schultz, otherwise known as the German Tanker; Cigar-Box Yokel, former trainer of Johnny Gill; Underwraps Pop Barrett, the Coffee Demon; Dimer Demps, also known as the Hill Brothers' Kid; Two-Ton Tony, and Step-and-a-half Joe, brothers of Fidel La Barba; Kid Broad, the Bubonic Plague; Spike Robinson, known as the Vanishing Tuppence; One-Punch Barney Dempsey; Big Feet Benny Miller, Jackie Mandell, whose right name is Jakie Mandelefsky; Bull Anderson, the Hunian Storehouse; Cry Baby Homer Sheridan, known as the Oklahoma Plumber, and Joey the Loafer."

A Suitable Job.

The following story is told of a certain wealthy baronet, who was asked to provide a job for a youth in whom one of his friends was interested. He consulted his head gardener on the subject, and it was arranged that the lad should be given something to do in the garden. The gardener, however, soon discovered that the youth was incorrigibly lazy, and became rather indignant that such a wastrel should have been thrust on him. Some time afterwards the baronet inquired how the youth was getting on. "Well," said the gardener, "I tried him at different kinds of work, but it is only within the last few days that I found a job that really suits him." "Oh," said the baronet, "I am glad to hear that. What is the job?" "Hunting snails off the walks," was the reply.

The Sinking of the U. 15.

Sixteen years ago the first of the 200 U-boats sunk by our ships during the war was sent to the bottom of the North Sea by H.M.S. Birmingham. The Birmingham (Captain—afterwards Vice-Admiral—Arthur A. M. Duff) was cruising in the North Sea, and, in company with the cruisers Nottingham and Southampton, was to the northward of Kinnaird Head. In the dawn of a wet and misty morning, about 3 o'clock, the conning tower of a submarine showed between the Southampton and the Birmingham. A few shots were fired, but the Birmingham joined the issue by turning at a sharp angle and, rushing at the U-boat, rammed her fairly and squarely before she had time to submerge. A few patches of oil showed where the U 15 went down.

In the darkness of the morning there was some danger of our ships firing into each other, so sudden was the appearance of the U 15, but that is a thing which British cruisers do not do.

Sir Hamilton Harty.

Sir Hamilton Harty, whose outspoken criticisms of the work and effects of the B.B.C. have caused a considerable stir, is an Irishman, most of whose early training was acquired in Dublin in the days when Sir Robert Stewart was a power in the land.

He is somewhat of a stickler for etiquette at his concerts, and recently raised a heated controversy when he stopped a performance whilst a number of the audience left their seats in order to catch last trains, etc.

SIR HAMILTON HARTY.

Sir Hamilton Harty, who will not be fifty until December, has a bright future before him; for most of our great conductors seem to thrive on their work (Sir Edward Elgar is seventy-two). He is fortunate in having a wife who is able to appreciate his work and, if necessary, to advise him; for he married Agnes Nicholls, the well-known singer, in 1904.

Smoking in Ireland.

How many people, I wonder, are under the impression that smoking was first introduced into Ireland by Sir Walter Raleigh? It is of interest to those who make a study of antiquities to learn that the habit of the "pernicious weed" was known here long before Sir Walter was even thought of; indeed, it seems to have been enjoyed by the native Irish centuries before the invasion of Henry II. and his Normans.

In a great number of sepulchral mounds throughout the country quaint little bronze pipes have frequently been unearthed, whilst in an old account of the Abbey of Corcumroe, in Clare, which was founded by the O'Briens, there is a description of the tomb of Donogh O'Brien King of Thomond, who was slain in 1267, and who is buried there. Over his grave is the usual recumbent effigy, and, so the report states, in his mouth is a short pipe. I have not had the chance of inspecting this tomb myself, but it would be interesting to know if the pipe, or, rather, "dudeen," is still to be seen.

One wonders what substitute for tobacco was used by those Irish princes who smoked nearly three hundred years before the custom was re-introduced by Elizabeth's favourite.

A Quaint Reply.

A little girl of eight was brought one day to tea at a friend's house. During the course of the afternoon the relative who was looking after her went off to talk to somebody else, and the little girl was left alone until a benevolent old gentleman came up and said a few words to her. "Have you any little sister to play with at home?" he inquired. The child pondered for a moment. "No, sir," she replied, "but I've got two brothers, and they've got a little sister, and I'm it."

THE BOYS' BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS.

DUBLIN PROTEST AGAINST CHANGE TO LONDON.

The headquarters of the Boys' Brigade is to be moved from Glasgow, where it was founded nearly half a century ago, to London. It was decided at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the Council at Liverpool, on Saturday, when five hundred delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom, and China, Australia and the West Indies, were present. Glasgow was in favour of the change, which was proposed by the Executive.

It was stated by Sir A. Steven Bilsland that it was felt that sentiment must not stand in the way of opportunity and efficiency.

It was left to two Irishmen—one from Dublin and one from Belfast—to make a last-ditch stand for Glasgow.

Mr. G. W. Shannon, of Dublin, who resigned from the Executive as a protest, urged that the strength and support of the movement came from Glasgow, and that the transfer would lead to dissatisfaction in Scotland and Ireland, and would be the first step to the disruption of the Brigade.

"Gentlemen, and men from England," said Mr. R. Lowry West, of Belfast, amid much laughter, "London may be the heart of the Empire, but it is not the heart of the Boys' Brigade."

The headquarters should be at the heart, and not at the circumference, declared Mr. West; but all the Irish eloquence only induced twenty-five delegates to vote for Glasgow.

MARNE ANNIVERSARY.

FRENCH MINISTER'S WAR WARNINGS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PARIS, Sunday.

There was a great gathering of notabilities to-day at Meaux to celebrate the victory of the Marne. That locality is situated on the Marne, and served as headquarters for the French during the momentous operations of September, 1914.

A speech was delivered by M. Maginot, Minister of War.

After the eulogy of the conduct of the officers and men in the historic battle, the Minister said the cruel experience of 1914 ought to be a lesson for France, for whom the duty of security was a permanent duty, because the national defence could not be improvised.

Since the war France had taken action time and again to bring closer together the nations that war had ranged one against the other. French public opinion had even regarded some of these steps as painful sacrifices, but it was true that the sacrifices of the past, even of the recent past, were no longer taken into consideration by some people, or merely served to give rise to fresh pretentions. Did they think that such a mentality served the cause of peace, and did they understand that the desire to bring the question of the treaties governing the new Europe up again involved a danger of rekindling the blaze that all men of good-will were striving to avert?

France was as desirous of peace now as in 1914; but she might be called upon to defend herself, because, although the Pact of Paris outlawed war, a denunciation of the criminal had never prevented crime. The best means of preventing war was by giving the peace-loving peoples the means of protecting themselves against aggression.

The victory of the Marne, though it revealed their greatness, also enabled us to gauge their weakness. Might the lesson be of use to them, and, open to all hopes of peace as their minds might be, let them not forget the past, and, above all, not shut their eyes to realities.

A SOUTHERN LETTER.

TRUTH ABOUT CORK HARBOUR SCHEMES.

Official Denial of Reports : Schemes That Are "Dreamt About" : Impracticability of Air Mail Services from Queenstown : Corporation and Minister's Letter : City Boundary Extension.

From Our Special Correspondent.

CORK, Sunday.

THE many reports and rumours which have been circulated far and wide concerning gigantic schemes for the development of Cork Harbour not only as a distributing centre for Europe, but as a most important air base and mails depôt, have given rise to feelings of suspicion and uneasiness in the South. It might be well just now to arrest that suspicion before much harm is done to the prestige of the port. It will be opportune at this moment to put before the people who take, perhaps, only a casual interest in the port, as well as the people whose interests are wrapped up in the prosperity of the port, the hard facts as they now are. To begin, not one single definite proposal, with foundation in fact, has been approved by the Port Board, and so far only one proposal—that by the Ireland Corporation of America—had been placed before the Board. That proposal is at the moment undergoing the closest examination by the Minister for External Affairs, who will have Mr. Barry Egan, T.D. for Cork, to explain details of the scheme, which provides for the erection of wharfs and piers at Cuskinny, to enable Atlantic liners to come right into the harbour and there discharge passengers and mails.

The reports of other alluring proposals are fictitious. The story that an extraordinary battle is being fought on the waters of Queenstown Harbour between German and English airway companies is purely mythical. The spoils of this "war" have been stated to be that the winner will get enormous rights to use Queenstown Bay as a seaplane base and mail depôt. Mails will be taken off Atlantic liners, so the report states, and will be whisked away to London in the twinkling of an eye. It all sounds so easy, but really it is not so. It must strike one who understands even the elementary principles of local government that before any move can be made to develop the schemes of a foreign combine in this country the local harbour board, who are trustees of the port for the people, should be consulted and permission sought.

Such has not been done in Cork. Mr. R. W. Wallace, the Chairman of the Cork Harbour Board, when speaking to me this week regarding these rumours, was emphatic in his denial of them. He described them as "sheer imagination," and added that the schemes outlined in the newspapers publishing those reports were "what we dream about;" but they had not got any farther than dreaming about them.

MAIL CARRYING SERVICES.

Returning to the suggestion that a mail depôt is to be established at Queenstown, it might be asked, does anyone really believe that such a scheme would be practical as well as profitable to those concerned in it? The American mails, under the present arrangement, are taken off by tender and sent to England via Dublin and Holyhead. On last Sunday over thirty tons of mails were thus taken off the White Star liner the Baltic. This is a small consignment, but it will suffice as an example, as was explained to me by Mr. W. Ronayne Harman, a shipping agent at Queenstown. At the present stage of aviation development aeroplanes may carry about three tons of mails each. If, say, a mail-carrying service were started at Queenstown, it would mean that to transport a thirty-ton consignment of mails to England ten 'planes would be needed, and after all that expense one single day would be saved in the delivery of those mails.

The experiment of transporting mails to England from an Atlantic liner calling at Galway, which was tried last year, has not been repeated. It is not likely to be tried at Queenstown until another stage in the development of aviation has been reached.

BALLINCOLLIG AERODROME.

The natural advantages of Ballincollig Aerodrome as a landing place for aeroplanes travelling to the South of Ireland was again illustrated when three English newspaper men landed there on Sunday morning last in search of Jack Diamond, the American, who was supposed to be on board the s.s. Baltic, calling at Queenstown. The pilot of the machine stated that he made a perfect landing without any difficulty, adding that there was plenty of space for machines larger than the one he was flying. Within the past few months statements have been made that a German syndicate have been carrying on negotiations to acquire Ballincollig Aerodrome to enable them to start flying services to the Continent and to England.

A well-known Corkman, who is stated to be acting as agent for the German firm, declines to make a statement on the matter, or even to confirm the report that the ground at Ballincollig is being levelled to facilitate the landing of machines. Government officials have stated that they know nothing whatever of the alleged negotiations, while an official of the Board of Works—the body that has the Ballincollig ground under its control—states that there is no foundation for these rumours.

A COBBLER'S WAGES.

Few things of late have created so much discussion in Cork as the proposal of the South Cork County Board of Health and Public Assistance to pay a shoemaker the weekly wage of four pounds ten shillings for mending the boots of inmates of the institution. Why such a high wage should be paid has not yet been made known, and there are many public officials in receipt of salaries below this figure, who hope that further inquiry will reveal the circumstances. Nurses employed by the Board which now makes this offer in a public advertisement are paid salaries ranging from £80 to £100 a year. The conditions of service for nurses are far more rigid, apart from the responsible work that they are required to perform in caring for the patients in the hospital and home.

One wonders whether the shoemaker, whose work at such high remuneration should be a "lasting" pleasure, will be required to have a knowledge of the Irish language.

CORK CITY MANAGEMENT.

As was anticipated, there has been some severe criticism by members of the Cork Corporation of the attitude of the Minister for Local Government towards the application of the Corporation for increased powers under the Cork City Management Act, 1929. The Corporation made several requests in resolution form, but all, with one minor exception, were refused by the Minister. Alderman French proposed a resolution, which was passed by twelve votes to two, calling upon the Minister to honour the undertaking arrived at in conference with the Council, adding that the Council regards the Minister's letter of the 5th August as very unsatisfactory and a breach of the undertaking given by the Minister at that conference. Alderman French said that the present measure did not meet the wishes of the people of Cork. It did not express the wishes of the Minister who preceded the present Minister in office. The whole thing was tied up by permanent officials who at one time acted for Dublin Castle. There was no doubt, he said, that the present bill was rotten so far as Cork was concerned. They had grievances with regard to it, and they intended to carry such grievances into the future.

Mr. Good, another member of the Council, said that the action of the Minister was an attempt to drag down democracy in Cork. The bill, as it stood, was impracticable in the interests of the people of Cork. Mr. Foley, opposing Mr. French's motion, said that what the citizens of Cork wanted was a Council of twenty members with executive officials and local control. Failing that, there was no necessity for any change from the present system of administration.

EXTENDING CORK CITY BOUNDARY.

The question of extending the Cork city boundary is again before the Corporation, which has decided that a committee of the whole Council shall examine the suggestion made at the last meeting. It is felt that by extending the boundary somewhat the rates of the city might be relieved, or, failing that, more money would become available for future improvements. The suggestion was originally made some twenty-five years ago by the late Sir Edward Fitzgerald, but was not carried into effect.

The Council now realise that any extension must be carried out gradually lest those who contemplate house-building might be deterred by the fear that they would be included in the city area, and would be, therefore, liable for city rates.

HELP FOR SAILORS' HOME.

An appeal for funds has been made on behalf of the Royal Cork Sailors' Home. Sir John Scott, at the annual meeting last week, stated that a responsibility rested upon the citizens, especially those engaged in the overseas trade, who made their money out of the work of the sailor, to contribute generously. In return for the help given to British sailors the Admiralty should be asked to increase the grant and thus enable the good work to be continued. A flag day is being organised, and it is hoped that generous support will be forthcoming.

AT ANDREE'S CAMP.

REMAINS OF THIRD BALLOONIST FOUND.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

STOCKHOLM, Sunday.

The whaler Isbjoern, which was dispatched, with newspaper representatives aboard, to White Island, Spitzbergen, reports that a landing party has visited the camp of the balloonists, and that among the remains of the camp have been found part of a man's skeleton, which are presumed to be the remains of the third member of the fatal flight, Fraenkel. A number of scientific instruments and weapons have been discovered, pieces of the gondola, and Fraenkel's note-books.

The camp was in excellent order, and it appears that the death of the three men might have been caused by some swift catastrophe, such as a blizzard.

FISHGUARD-ROSSLARE ROUTE.

PLANS FOR TWO NEW STEAMERS

From Our Correspondent.

WATERFORD, Saturday.

An important step is contemplated by the Great Western Railway Company for the Fishguard-Rosslare route. On reliable authority it was learned to-day that the company have plans ready for the building of two new steamers for this route.

They will be sister ships, with oil-burning turbines.

The demand to-day for cabin accommodation is for two-cabin berths, and the new ships, it is understood, will possess a large number of such cabins. The old boats on the route had only four berth cabins.

It was rumoured some time ago that the old Fishguard-Rosslare steamers would be replaced by others already on service in the Channel Islands, but experts regarded them as unsuitable for this exposed route.

ROAD ACCIDENTS.

When motor cycling in Newtownmountkennedy, Co. Wicklow, last night George Roberts, a native of the village, came into collision with a motor car. He sustained serious injuries and was taken to the Royal City of Dublin Hospital, where he lies unconscious.

James Casey of Swords, was detained in the Mater Hospital, Dublin, suffering from injuries to the body, received when he was knocked down by a motor car in Swords last night.

MESSRS. GALLAHER'S NEW FACTORY.

The establishment of a new factory, and the consequent creation of a new source of employment, is an event that must always arouse public interest. Dublin's latest factory, that of Messrs. Gallaher's, Ltd., promises to be one of the most important in the history of the metropolis. It is planned on the most modern lines, and when completed will not only be equipped with the latest type of plant, but will be one of the largest in the country.

The Dublin management have expressed every satisfaction with the start that has been made. "To inaugurate our opening," said a representative of the firm, "we have brought to the Irish Free State two entirely new sixpenny cigarettes of the luxury class. We have every reason to believe that these will become firmly established in popular favour. Certainly, they have had a great reception. The sales to date have been remarkable.

"Of course, we are selling all our established brands as well. We found that many smokers wanted the old fourpenny packets of cigarettes, with which our name has so long been associated, so we brought them back in a greatly improved wrapping. We also added a cork-tipped 'smoke,' since many people now-a-days definitely prefer a tipped cigarette."

Associated with the Gallaher cigarette is a coupon scheme, offering a number of handsome gifts, many of which are on view in the tobacconists' windows.

ARMY'S MARCH ON BUENOS AIRES.

HOW REVOLUTIONARIES CARRIED THE DAY.

PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINA FORCED TO RESIGN.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT SET UP BY GENERAL URIBURU.

GENERAL JOSE URIBURU, nephew of the former Argentine President, has successfully led a revolution which had for its object the overthrow of President Irigoyen. President Irigoyen has resigned, and General Uriburu has issued a proclamation, in which he states that a Provisional Government has been set up.

Open revolution broke out on Saturday, when the Second Division of the Argentine Army, accompanied by armed students, marched into Buenos Aires, where it was joined by troops of the garrison of the city. The revolutionaries were accompanied by military aeroplanes. Government House was surrendered in the afternoon.

Skirmishes took place between the revolutionary forces and the police, and a number of lives was lost. One report states that there were a thousand dead, but a later message gives the total casualties as 15 killed and 190 wounded.

The Navy supported the Army during the revolution. On Saturday the Admiral commanding the squadron of thirteen warships in the harbour sent a message to the Government that the Navy would fire no shots against their colleagues led by General Uriburu.

NEW LEADER'S PROCLAMATION.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT FORMED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

In a message addressed to the nation, General Uriburu, the leader of the successful revolution and head of the Provisional Government, says:—

"Responding to the desires of the people, and supported by the Army and Navy, we have taken the reins of government in order to avert a definite national debacle. The country could no longer put up with the inertia, administrative corruption, anarchy, economic waste, and international discredit. Our action is inspired by a high ideal—the country's welfare—not by any desire for vengeance or any political interest; for we are not tied to any political party.

"The Provisional Government intends to respect the Constitution and desires the resumption of normal conditions and free elections.

"The members of the Provisional Government undertake not to accept candidature for the Presidency of the Republic. The present Parliament will be dissolved, its servile majority having paralysed legislative action and debased the dignity of Parliament.

"We invoke the country's name and the memory of the heroes of independence."

General Uriburu has meanwhile decreed a state of martial law with a view to the prevention of looting.

LED FROM THE AIR.

TROOPS MARCH INTO BUENOS AIRES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

Starting at seven o'clock yesterday morning, the Second Division of the Argentine Army left Campo Mayo, accompanied by thousands of armed students, to march upon the capital.

Military aeroplanes went on ahead with a view to obtaining the support of the regiments forming the garrison of Buenos Aires.

The column stopped near the racecourse on being faced with the machine guns of the First and Second Regiments of Infantry, who were stationed in the wood of Palermo to defend the city on the north side, but these two regiments themselves went over to the revolutionaries.

An enthusiastic crowd, composed of women and girls, marched beside the column, crying: "Long Live the Revolution. Long Live the Army and the men, armed with revolvers, rushed into the building, followed by the mob, a number of whom gained admittance to the "white salon" of the President, where excited speeches were delivered.

Firemen succeeded in getting a fire at the offices of the Irigoyenist newspaper, La Calle, under control, but the mob then burst into the building and broke up the furniture.

Enthusiastic scenes are being witnessed in the streets, soldiers and sailors fraternising with the populace.

Nothing could be more indicative of the way in which the revolution came about than the fact that during yesterday a number of taxis and tramcars plied the streets in their usual manner.

Meanwhile the whole population was awaiting with frenzied interest the arrival of the column of revolutionaries which was advancing slowly on the city.

A RUMOUR.

The troops loyal to Dr. Martinez and the Government, who were massed in Government House, issued a rumour at 3 p.m. that the revolution had come to nothing, and that the loyalist troops had defeated the rebels. At the same time, however, rebel military 'planes were swooping over Government House and daringly coming within 150 feet of the roof, some even looping the loop.

Dr. Martinez, the former Vice-President, remained in Government House until 6 p.m., when the Government abandoned its authority.

A group of people sang a hymn in front of the building, while other bands of people marched through the streets bearing banners on which were drawings of an animal called "Peludo," the nickname given by the crowd to the former President Irigoyen.

AT EX-PRESIDENT'S HOUSE.

An enormous crowd gathered in the neighbourhood of the residence of ex-President Irigoyen intending to attack it, but concentrated their efforts on the local headquarters of the Radical Party (Dr. Irigoyen's), where they have wrecked furniture and portraits of the former President.

The former Minister of the Interior, Dr. E. Gonsalez, and Señor Benavidez, former Secretary to the President, were arrested at the infantry barracks.

The declaration of martial law has been extended to the entire Republic.

Among the casualties of the day's fighting were the following:—

Killed—Commandant Torres, Chief of the Flying Corps, and Flight-Lieutenant Manni.

Wounded—Colonel Crespo.

STORY OF THE REVOLT.

REJOICING TROOPS AND CROWDS.

PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL TELEGRAM.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

Notwithstanding that nearly all the troops of the Buenos Aires garrison were involved in the revolutionary movement, the success of yesterday's revolt against President Irigoyen's Government was mainly due to the Cadets of the Military College, says an Associated Press despatch from Buenos Aires.

The fourteen hundred Cadets were the first to answer the call when a revolutionary aeroplane circled round the capital sending out signals that the moment had come to overthrow the Government of President Irigoyen.

The aviation and communication forces stationed at Palomar Aerodrome also largely contributed to the success of the revolt.

The Chief of the Air Force, Colonel Crespo, and some of his principal officers, such as Major Parodi and Captain Martinez Legria, were arrested, and as they were quickly spirited away it was at first thought that they had been killed. The command of the revolutionary aviation forces was taken over by Captain Pedro Cas Latinfor.

Squadrons of aeroplanes flew continually over Buenos Aires yesterday. Two revolutionary aviators were killed through their machine crashing at Campo Mayo and catching fire.

The military Cadets entered the suburb of Belgrano, where they were joined later by a company of the military communications forces from Palomar.

POLICE STATIONS CAPTURED.

As they advanced the rebels captured the police stations, disarming the police. Meanwhile, in the suburb of Liniers, the 1st Artillery Regiment and the 8th Cavalry Regiment marched through Rivadavia street to where the 3rd Infantry Regiment was encamped. Neither the intentions nor the political colour of this regiment was known, and great anxiety was felt when the regiment, instead of marching into the city, proceeded towards the 8th Cavalry and the 1st Artillery Regiments.

The anxiety was quickly allayed as they soon fraternised and marched together to the Plaza Mayo, being cheered by the crowds as they passed through the streets.

At that time it was announced that the 6th Infantry Regiment, in garrison in the City of Mercedes, in Buenos Aires province, was coming to Buenos Aires with all speed to help the revolution.

The leaders of the revolt were disappointed over the attitude of the eight regiments garrisoned at Campo Mayo, which were expected to form the bulk of the rebel forces.

But these troops did not attempt to move, and their inaction gave rise to the report early in the afternoon that the revolution had failed.

General Uriburu ordered guns to be trained on the buildings from which the firing came, and the soldiers shot down the policemen who had been firing on the crowd.

The soldiers then occupied the Congress House, making 200 prisoners, who were shut up in the interior of the building.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE SURRENDERED.

Government House was guarded by 1,000 troops, commanded by Colonel Soto and Captain Vallotta, of the Navy.

These two officers would make no reply to the ultimatum issued by the revolutionaries, but finally, at 5.15 in the afternoon, a white flag was hoisted on the roof of Government House, and fifty young

GREATER DUBLIN CORPORATION.

THE DISCUSSION OF POLITICS.

NEW PARTY PLEDGED TO TALK BUSINESS ONLY.

A group which is being formed to contest the Dublin Municipal elections is to be known as the Greater Dublin Constitutional Group. Its object, according to an official statement, is to point to the fact that a new beginning is being made in the government of the municipality, and that different duties and greater responsibilities will lie upon the shoulders of both citizens and the municipal representatives in the future.

"The conduct of the government of Dublin, now that it is the capital of an independent nation," the statement proceeds, "will require the development of a new civic spirit, and it is to organise this new progressive spirit that the Constitutional Group is being formed. The greatest danger that is likely to confront the municipality is the intrusion of political party questions into a sphere where they have no place. Party rancour and party disputes have already done a considerable amount of damage in the national sphere, where there is some excuse for them."

REPRESENTATIVE OF ALL THE CITIZENS.

"It is felt that the interests of the Dublin Municipality should be altogether different from those of national political parties, and that it would be a disaster to the citizens if the vast amount of business, involving the complete re-organisation of the city which will come before the new Corporation, should be confused by continual discussions on questions which can better be decided elsewhere.

"The Greater Dublin Constitutional Group proposes to provide candidates for the Municipal elections, who will make it their business to be representative, not of any single class or party, but of all the citizens. The Group recognises that the interests of the citizens will require the most impartial and unprejudiced discussion of strictly municipal problems, and for that reason they propose only to bind their members by a pledge that they will debar all political discussion from the meetings of the Corporation, and that they will confine themselves altogether to conducting the city's business in the most efficient manner possible.

SUGGESTED CANDIDATES.

"Amongst the names likely to be put forward by the group are:—

"Mr. J. J. Reddy, Dawson street, Dublin.
"Mr. John Ryan, Peace Commissioner, Clontarf.
"Mr. Benson, out-going member, Rathmines Council.
"Mr. Brittain, jun., Pembroke.
"Mr. Bat. O'Connor, T.D., Donnybrook.
"Dr. Myles Keogh, T.D.
"Sylvester Leigh, Mary's Abbey.
"H. B. Hill, Bachelor's Walk.
"Major-General Sean MacEoin, T.D.
"Mr. M. Cahill, Aungier street.
"Mr. P. S. Doyle, T.D.
"Mr. Liam Gogan, Fairview."

Anyone interested in the group is asked to write to the Hon. Sec. of the Greater Dublin Constitutional Group, Gresham Hotel, Dublin.

AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE.

Mrs. Kettle, who has been Chairman of the Rathmines Council for ten years, announces that she proposes to go forward as an independent candidate for No. 6 Area (Rathmines and Pembroke).

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

OUTBREAK IN YORKSHIRE.

The Department of Agriculture in Dublin were officially informed by the British Ministry of Agriculture, London, on Saturday night that an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease had been confirmed at Holbeck, Leeds, Yorkshire (West Riding). The Ministry have taken the usual precautions to prevent the spread of the disease, and have issued an Order, with immediate effect, prohibiting the movement of animals over a large area surrounding the infected place.

In view of the above outbreak, and as a precaution against the introduction of the disease, the Department of Agriculture, Dublin, have suspended the importation of all live-stock from England and Wales until further notice.

As regards the proposed importation of pedigree animals from Scotland to the Free State, the Department have made special arrangements for the importation of such animals on certain specified conditions. If these conditions are complied with, and Scotland remains free from foot-and-mouth disease, the animals in question may be allowed to land in Saorstat Eireann.

As a further precautionary measure, the Department yesterday issued instructions to their veterinary officers at all ports in the Free State to resume the work of disinfection, on arrival at such ports, of dealers, drovers, and all persons likely to have been in contact with animals in Great Britain.

DISEASE DISCOVERED IN PIGS.

According to a Press Association telegram last night, two cases of foot-and-mouth disease have been confirmed in pigs in Holbeck, and in consequence a fifteen-miles area order has been put into force round Leeds. No market can be held for pigs within five miles of Holbeck. Markets outside that radius and within the area can only be held for the sale of fat stock, and these only by permission of the local authority.

Officials of the Board of Agriculture have established headquarters at Leeds and are prosecuting a full inquiry. The census of pigs in the area is a very large one, and the markets involved are Leeds, Bradford, Wakefield, Morley and Pudsey.

Sixty-eight pigs were to be slaughtered yesterday, but many others are expected to come under the ban.

BURNING 'PLANE IN DESERT.

AIRMEN RESCUED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PERTH, WESTERN AUSTRALIA, Sunday.

After having been reported as missing, the brothers Clarke, who have been attempting a flight to Sydney, are stated to have been seriously injured in a forced landing near the Colona Desert settlement in the Nullurbor Plain. Their machine struck a water-hole and overturned, pinning the airmen beneath it.

The wreckage caught fire, and the brothers would have been burned to death but for a camel driver, who came on the scene and pulled them out in time. Both were taken to hospital seriously injured, and their machine was destroyed.

BIRMINGHAM FIRE.

GREAT DAMAGE AT RUBBER WAREHOUSE.

Great damage was caused by a fire which broke out yesterday afternoon at a warehouse in Bellbarn road, Birmingham, belonging to the Goodyear Tyre and Rubber Company. The building, which is three stories high, contained large quantities of tyres and other inflammable material, which burned rapidly. The fire brigade was at full strength, but the firemen were unable to save the contents of the building.

FROM MILL-BOY TO M.P.

DEATH OF MR. W. MACKINDER.

ANOTHER BRITISH BY-ELECTION.

Mr. William Mackinder, M.P. for the Shipley division of Yorkshire, died in St. Luke's Hospital, Bradford, early this morning. He had been ill for over a month and was operated upon in August.

Mr. William Mackinder was one of those numerous members of the present Parliament who began work in a mill when only ten years old. He was born at Hull fifty years ago. When his family moved to Bradford he was educated at a local elementary school, and, then at the age of ten, he started work in a woollen mill in the district.

His varied occupations since that early start have included woolcomber, spinner, deep sea fisherman, trade union official, Parliamentarian and novelist.

In this last pursuit he produced only one book, a novel called "Bone Street." He had been a member of Parliament for the Shipley division of Yorkshire, adjoining Bradford, since 1923, and in Parliament he was known as one of the hardest working back-benchers on the Government side.

He was an official of the National Union of Distributive and Allied Workers, and was for many years prominent in the trade union movement.

During the war he was a member of the Wool Control Committee and of the Central "Profiteering" Committee. He was on the Departmental Committee on Anthrax from 1914, and workers in the wool textile trade were under an obligation to him for his efforts in helping to discover a means of preventing anthrax in the industry.

It was said of him that he risked his life during experiments carried out by him and others in an attempt to combat the disease.

His death causes a vacancy in the Shipley division. The figures at the general election were:—Mr. W. Mackinder (Labour), 18,654; Sir Robert Clough (Conservative), 13,693; Mr. F. W. Hirst (Liberal), 11,712. Labour majority, 4,961.

BELGIAN ROYAL GRANDSON.

HEIR PRESUMPTIVE TO THE THRONE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BRUSSELS, Sunday.

Princess Astrid, the Crown Princess of Belgium, has given birth to a son.

A hint that the happy event was imminent was conveyed by the announcement that Prince Leopold, the Duke of Brabant, who was to have been present at an unveiling ceremony at Dixmude this afternoon, had been recalled by urgent message to the Château de Stuyvenberg, where he and the Princess Astrid are in residence.

The baby was born at about 4.25 this afternoon. Both mother and child are doing well.

The King and Queen and Prince Leopold were at the Castle.

Princess Astrid is one of the most beautiful princesses in Europe. She has endeared herself increasingly to the Belgian people since she married Prince Leopold, Duke of Brabant, in November, 1926, and holds in the popular mind a similar place to that occupied by the Duchess of York in the esteem of the people of this country. Her daughter Princess Josephine was born three years ago.

A daughter of the King of Sweden, Princess Astrid has pronounced democratic tendencies, Having been accustomed to go about Stockholm on unaccompanied shopping expeditions, she wished to do the same in the Belgian capital rather than have an escort, and she delighted the people of Ostend when she chose that popular resort for a holiday with her baby daughter and her sister.

Although after the civil ceremony at the wedding of the Crown Prince and Princess the marriage was blessed by Archbishop Van Roey—the successor of Cardinal Mercier—the Princess Astrid remained a Protestant.

She accompanied Prince Leopold in 1928 and 1929 on a visit to the Dutch East Indies, with a view to studying the economic and social problems of the colony.

A salute of 101 guns at 6 p.m. announced the happy event to the people of Brussels. On receipt of the news a proclamation was issued by M. Max, the Burgomaster, declaring that the population of the capital had heard with joy of the birth of the baby Prince, which would secure the continuance of the dynasty, which, for a century, had ruled the national destiny, and had so powerfully contributed to the greatness and glory of the land. Special editions of the newspapers were literally torn from the hands of the hawkers by excited citizens. Brussels is giving itself up to celebrations to-night.

The Prince, who weighed nearly nine pounds at birth, was baptised this evening in the names of Baudouin Albert Axel Marie Gustave.

INDIAN RAILWAY OUTRAGE.

FOUR KILLED AND FORTY-TWO INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CALCUTTA, Sunday.

It is officially stated that four persons were killed and forty-two injured as a result of the derailment of the Dacca mail train at 1 o'clock this morning. One of the coaches, which fell into a culvert, is submerged in water. The condition of thirteen of the injured is more or less serious.

Until the coach is raised the railway administration is unable to say whether more persons have been killed.

It is stated that the killed include two Moslems. Fifteen persons have been taken to hospital, but the rest of the injured were allowed to go home after first-aid treatment by local and railway doctors.

The accident was caused by the removal of the bolts holding a fishplate, which resulted in the ends of two rails coming apart. The culprits have not been traced.

FORGED FOOD CARDS IN RUSSIA.

SIX DEATH SENTENCES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MOSCOW, Sunday.

Three traders and three employés of the co-operative institutions have been sentenced to death, and others to various terms of detention in a concentration camp, on charges of engaging in pernicious speculation.

They are alleged to have disorganised the food supply of the population by diverting goods from the co-operative organisations by means of tens of thousands of forged food cards and selling them at speculative prices.

BRITISH NAVAL OFFICER'S DEATH.

BURIED IN SOUTH AMERICA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

The funeral of Captain L. N. B. Bevan, commanding the British cruiser Dragon, who died in Valparaiso Hospital on Friday, took place at Santiago de Chile to-day, states the Associated Press Correspondent there.

Distinguished British and Chilean representatives were present, and the spectacle was a most imposing one.

LEAGUE COUNCIL.

OPENING SESSION TO-DAY.

M. BRIAND'S PET SCHEME TO BE DISCUSSED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GENEVA, Sunday.

By this evening all the European delegates who will participate in the discussions of M. Briand's plan for European Federation will have reached Geneva.

The first meeting of twenty-six European representatives, with M. Briand as chairman, will be held to-morrow afternoon, after the opening session of the League Council, and pending the arrival of the French delegation it is impossible at present to know whether the discussions of the French Foreign Minister's pet scheme will be held in private, as was the case last September when M. Briand outlined his idea of a European Federation, or in public.

POSSIBLE PROCEDURE.

Nevertheless, it is thought that the beginning of the sitting will be held with the Press and public excluded, and that the end of the sitting will take place in public. M. Briand, it appears, will confine himself at this meeting to giving an account of the developments of his plan since last year and reserve his full statement for the Assembly when the matter comes up for consideration.

It is further believed that after M. Briand's speech in the Assembly, Mr. Henderson (the British Foreign Secretary) will propose the formulation of a resolution referring to the Assembly the whole problem, and that M. Briand will agree to this procedure.

THE DESIRE FOR PRIVACY.

On the other hand, it is not impossible that Monday's sitting will be entirely private and that Tuesday's meeting will be held in public.

Generally speaking, the States who are less favourable to the French scheme are those who desire that deliberations should be held behind closed doors, so as not to give the appearance of ignoring the Assembly.

The Swiss Federal Council drew up yesterday instructions to its delegation to the League Assembly, which are of a general character.

PERSECUTION IN RUSSIA.

The question of bringing up before the Assembly a protest against religious persecution in Soviet Russia also formed the subject of consideration by the Swiss Federal Council, though the matter was left in suspense, as it seems doubtful whether such a protest would serve a useful purpose at the present moment.

It is known that during the annual session of the League Assembly hotels hoist the flags of the various countries represented at the Assembly. A local newspaper expressed the wish that this practice should be discontinued, which, it says, gives to the city the appearance of a public fair. The paper hopes that the various delegations will agree to abandon the practice of hoisting their flags.

Many hotel managers would be willing to abandon the practice, but they are unable to do so if the delegations insist on showing their flags.

PALESTINE REPORT.

FIRST ITEM ON THE AGENDA

M. Briand, with several members of the French Delegation, and Dr. Curtius, the German Foreign Secretary, and members of the German Delegation to the League Assembly, arrived here this evening. To-morrow's League Council will begin with a private meeting, when the order of the subjects to be dealt with will be decided upon, after which the session will be opened in public.

The first item on the agenda is Palestine, namely, the consideration of the Mandate Commission's report on last year's disturbances and the British Government's reply thereto. M. Van Rees, Vice-Chairman of the Permanent Mandates Commission, will attend the deliberations of the Council.

Much interest is attached to these proceedings, especially in Zionist and Arab circles. Indeed, the future of Palestine is the all-engrossing subject of conversation here, but all the signs point to a satisfactory disposal of the matter already at to-morrow's first sitting of the Council.

Sir John Chancellor, High Commissioner in Palestine, and Dr. Drummond Shiels, intend to return to London on Wednesday evening.

BRITAIN AND THE FEDERATION.

VISCOUNT CECIL'S OPINION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Saturday.

Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, in an article in the Petit Journal on M. Briand's plan for a European Federation, declares that the plan is particularly opportune, in view of the crisis which the League of Nations is at present undergoing and the slowing down of pacifist work.

"In my country," Viscount Cecil writes, "the old egotistical imperialism under a new guise is opposed to the policy of British participation in organising the peace of Europe and of the world."

After declaring that M. Briand's scheme would have to be brought to fruition within the framework of the League of Nations, Lord Cecil says that in any case a Federation of Europe to which Great Britain did not belong would be greatly inconvenienced by the omission.

"Lord Cecil, however, points out, and agrees with the British official view, that Great Britain is herself a Commonwealth of Nations, destined, perhaps, to become still more closely linked, at least from the economic point of view. She could not, therefore, join any Union having the appearance of a Continental bloc. If any scheme were to materialise, it would need to be in the form of a "European section of the League of Nations."

THE KING AND QUEEN AT CHURCH.

PRINCE OF WALES AND PREMIER ALSO PRESENT.

The King and Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester, and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the Prime Minister, were among the congregation at Crathie Church yesterday morning. Their Majesties, with the two Princes, drove together in a carriage, which was closed because of heavy rain. When they left after the Service the carriage was opened, and they acknowldged the salutations of a crowd of people who had gathered to see them.

Mr. Macdonald, Lord Stamfordham, and Sir Frederick Ponsonby occupied another carriage.

THE POPE AND RUSSIA.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Sunday.

The Pope has sent a telegram to the Congress of the Roman Catholic Press in Brussels thanking it for its endorsement of the Papal campaign against religious persecution in Russia, and announcing that the Apostolic Benediction will be accorded to all those who pray for the success of the work of obtaining the peace and liberty which is so ardently desired.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE WAVERING MIND.

TRADE UNION CONGRESS MOODS.

The Times of to-day observes in a leading article:—Neither too much nor too little should be made of the decisions of the Trade Union Congress at Nottingham last week. The Congress has at times the character of a deliberative assembly, but also at times the features of a mass meeting yielding to a demagogic spell. One mood succeeds another, and the Congress acts according to its moods. Last week there were frequent examples of the wavering mind. The Congress was swayed now this way and now that, sometimes by reason and sometimes by unreason. When the General Council took control of a debate, arguing with conviction and the force of a reasoned opinion, the Congress was stirred and stimulated to equal efforts of thought and judgment. When this leadership failed the Congress floundered in foolish sentimentalities. The vagaries of the Congress have their explanation in part, no doubt, in the constitution of the General Council, which is an executive body to the extent to which it is required to carry out the decisions of the Congress, but has not been endowed with the responsibility of directing and controlling the mind of the Congress, so as to produce a coherent and consistent policy.

The General Council led the Congress to its decisions on Empire trade and family allowances, adds The Times, but stood aside passively while the Congress, led by the Boilermakers' Society, gave instructions that the Prime Minister should be told "that it is the duty of the Government to take such emergency measures as will enable them to offer employment on trade union rates and conditions to the surplus able-bodied workers which capitalism fails to employ." All that need be said of this impracticable proposal is that it is an interpretation by the simple trade unionist of the obligation the Labour Party undertook when it gave "an unqualified pledge to deal immediately and practically with this question" of unemployment. That precise pledge, followed, it may be recalled, the long indictment in "Labour and the Nation" of the Unionist Government's failure "to check the occurrence of unemployment." It is not the "occurrence," but the enormous increase of unemployment that has induced the Congress to bring the Government face to face with what plain-minded men understood them to promise eighteen months ago.

RAILWAYMEN'S DEMAND.

Correction and guidance were not offered until too late. Mr Cramp's reproofs may, indeed, have been wholly his own, although he was at the time marshalling facts and arguments on behalf of the General Council against the proposal of family allowances. The General Council, with its wider knowledge, can write down the more extravagant of the resolutions to their true value, but the neglect to weed them out to-day may yield a crop of troubles to-morrow. Already a large conference of railwaymen has suggested pensions at sixty as a means of preventing the dismissals of staff which the London and North-Eastern Railway is obliged to make. Mr. Cramp will be obliged to convince the railwaymen of the impracticability of the proposal, as, no doubt, he convinced the Congress when he quoted £285,000,000 a year as the cost. It was partly on the ground of cost and partly on the ground of danger to trade unionism that he opposed family allowances, which, in the scale under discussion, would impose a charge on the Exchequer of £70,000,000 a year.

The warning that the Exchequer is not a bottomless purse into which the Socialist hand can dip as often and as deep as it likes was convincing by itself, and is more than ever needed to-day. Not less significant was the additional warning of the danger of teaching men to rely upon the State instead of trusting to their own efforts through the trade unions.

THE WEST INDIAN HURRICANE.

INCREASING DEATH-ROLL.

The New York Correspondent of The Times telegraphed yesterday:—

The extent of the disaster in the Dominica Republic grows worse with every report. The dead are now believed to number over 4,000, and it is feared that another 1,000 bodies are still in the ruins of the city. There are 5,000 injured persons besides, many of whom are expected to die. Altogether a quarter of the population of Santo Domingo were made casualties by the storm of three hours.

The army, police and volunteers are working with haste to collect and burn the corpses in order to keep an outbreak of plague from being added to the other horrors. The water supply plant was badly damaged by the hurricane, and the supply of safe drinking water is wholly inadequate.

The American Red Cross is sending to Miami, Florida, and thence by aeroplane to Santo Domingo, 165 lbs. of anti-tetanus and gangrene serums, but this supply cannot reach Santo Domingo before to-morrow. Relief work is being rapidly organised on a large scale in the United States, Porto Rica, Cuba and Haiti, and some of the advance guards are already in Santo Domingo.

A few of the dozen ships bearing medical supplies, food, clothing and beds have reached the city, but the current of the Ozama River has been too swift to let them dock, and they have had to use small boats to get the supplies ashore.

Mr. Ernest Swift, assistant director of foreign operations for the American Red Cross, who has had much experience with hurricane relief work in the Philippines, left Washington last night for Florida, and is expected to reach Santo Domingo by aeroplane to-morrow morning.

The President of the Dominican Republic has appealed to "all friendly countries" for help for his people.

ARGENTINA TROUBLE.

OFFICIALS UNDER ARREST.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

The former Chief of Police, Colonel Granerios, the former President of the Banco de la Nacion, Signor Botti, the Secretaries of the Chamber of Deputies, Senor Bonorino and Senor Zambrano, Senor Gonzalez, the Minister of the Interior, and others, are under arrest at the Central Police Department.

MOUNTAINEERING IN SWITZERLAND.

ENGLISHMAN MISSING.

Mr. W. S. Newton, of Gosforth lane, Dronfield, near Sheffield, who is prominently connected with the Sheffield cutlery trade, has disappeared while on a mountaineering excursion in Switzerland, and grave fears are entertained for his safety.

He left Sheffield on August 26 with a tourist party for Lucerne, but later left the party to do some mountaineering by himself at Andermatt. Last Wednesday he set out alone to explore the St. Thomas Mountain, and according to information received at Sheffield all trace of him has been lost.

It is presumed he lost his way in a fog. Search parties went out on Wednesday and Thursday, but could find no trace of him.

Mr. Newton is a widower, fifty-five years of age. He has visited Switzerland several times. Last Wednesday his family received a card from him posted at Andermatt on Monday, and stating that he intended to start for the snow line.

INDIAN CLAIM TO SECEDE.

VICEROY'S FIRM REPLY.

"NOT AN OPEN QUESTION."

SHARP FRONTIER FIGHTING.

NOTWITHSTANDING the failure of the negotiations with Gandhi, no change, it is said, is to be made in the arrangements for the Round-Table Conference in London on India, which will be opened next month.

In his recent conversations with the Indian peace intermediaries, the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, informed them that the question of India's secession would not be treated as if it were an open question. He expressed the opinion that it would be unwise for Gandhi to raise the matter at present.

Heavy fighting is reported from the North-West Frontier.

SECESSION CLAIM.

"VERY UNWISE."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
POONA, Saturday.

The question of India's right to secede from the British Empire was, it appears from the statement issued by the peace intermediaries, raised in their conversations with the Viceroy, on the one hand, and the imprisoned Congress leaders, on the other.

Reporting to the Nehrus on August 30 and 31 the result of their conversations with the Viceroy, the intermediaries told them that anyone could raise any point he liked at the London Round-Table Conference, but the Viceroy thought it would be very unwise for Gandhi to raise at present the question of India's right to secede from the Empire at will.

NOT AN OPEN QUESTION.

If, however, the Government of India were faced with such a question, the Viceroy would say that the Government was not prepared to treat it as an open question. If, despite this, Gandhi desired to raise the question, the Government would inform the Secretary of State for India of Gandhi's intention.

As regards the right to raise at the Round-Table Conference the question of India's liability for certain financial burdens, the Nationalist leaders were told that the Viceroy could not entertain any proposition amounting to a total repudiation of all debts, but it would be open to anyone to raise at the Conference the question of any financial liability of India and call for its examination.

THE SALT ACT.

As regards the Salt Act, if the Legislature were prevailed on to repeal the Act, and if any proposal were put forward to make good the loss of revenue, the Viceroy would consider the question on its merits, but open breaches of the Salt Act could not be condoned as long as it was law.

HEAVY FRONTIER ATTACKS.

TRIBESMEN BOMBED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SIMLA, Saturday.

Hostile tribes on the Kurram border, on Thursday night, launched a determined attack against the village and militia post of Kharlachi, which is on the Afghan frontier, about ten miles south-west of Parachinar, and also against picket positions held by village chighas (friendly armed villages) on both banks of the Kurram River.

The enemy's positions were strongly reinforced about five in the evening on Thursday. Militia guns were brought into action, and fired thirty-five rounds of shrapnel on the hostile positions before dark.

A NIGHT ATTACK.

The first shot registered a direct hit on an enemy picket, and the fleeing tribesmen came under heavy fire from the village chighas. Apparently the enemy's programme was disconcerted, and hostile fire ceased until 9 p.m., when a heavy attack was delivered. Towards midnight further hostile lashkars arrived and joined in the attack.

The enemy centre penetrated along the river for two miles, and inflicted some casualties on the chighas defending the river bank villages. The attack on Kharlachi was particularly heavy, and the chighas had a hard fight to defend the immediate vicinity of their villages.

BEATEN OFF.

About 1 a.m. several hundred of the enemy advanced to within close range of the Kharlachi militia post. The militia reserved fire until the enemy was only three yards distant. They then opened heavy rifle and machine-gun fire. By 1.30 a.m. the post was clear, and the enemy was retiring at all points. By 2 a.m. they were completely beaten off.

Our casualties during the night were seven chighas killed and seven wounded, and three of the Kurram militia wounded. The enemy casualties have not yet been ascertained, but they are certainly considerable.

The hostile tribesmen then retired across the border, but yesterday afternoon re-occupied their old positions on the border line and killed one military sepoy.

RAIDERS BOMBED.

Reports confirm the gathering of hostile tribesmen in the Peiwar area, just over the Afghan border. The necessary defensive measures are being taken. This morning the Kharlachi area was quiet, and it is hoped that heavy casualties have lessened the enthusiasm of the hostile natives.

Yesterday bombing operations were continued against the Khani Khel, Khwaja Khel and Chankanni sections by five squadrons of the Air Force. Two leading Khwaja Khel maliks (village headmen), against whose villages bombing attacks have been concentrated, were reported to be on their way last night to arrange for a settlement. These men are members of the Afridi Khilafat Committee and have been the chief cause of this section's sustained hostilities. Yesterday the Chamkannis handed over their fine and their rifles, and their hostages were released.

from Tirah to Gagh, where a jirga (native meeting) was in progress, and the Mohmand territory, where aircraft was again fired on by villagers in the vicinity of the Haji of Turangzai's home. The reconnaissances also patrolled the Kurram and Waziristan borders.

SNIPING RENEWED.

AN ATTACK THAT FAILED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SIMLA, Sunday.

The latest report from the frontier states that a reconnaisance aeroplane flying over the Upper Mohmand country yesterday was fired at by a small party within the Safi limits. A jirga of all sections of the Afridis was expected to be held to-day.

The hostile tribesmen on the Kurrum border do not admit a decisive defeat. They continue to occupy positions on the border opposite Kharalchi, and continued sniping yesterday until silenced by gun fire. They then made an attempt in the evening to renew the attack on both banks of the Kurrum river, but the attack did not develop. The concentration of a fresh lashkar in the Peiwar area is confirmed.

On the other side of the Kurrum valley the Massozais and one section of the Chamkanis have handed over the full number of rifles demanded as a fine for their recent misconduct, the other two sections of the Chanikanis have asked for time, and have been given three days in which to bring in the number of rifles stipulated for.

HINDU-MOSLEM FIGHT.

TWO DEAD AND MANY INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BOMBAY, Sunday.

About twenty persons were injured in an affray between Hindus and Moslems last night in the Dharavi suburb. A Hindu procession bearing the image of the god Ganpati is said to have caused the trouble by playing music in the vicinity of a mosque.

Ganpat is the Hindu god of Wisdom, and is represented in the head of an elephant. He is, therefore, worshipped at the commencement of every undertaking.

One Hindu and one Moslem have died as the result of injuries.

ALL-NIGHT POLICE VIGIL.

A strong police force stood by the scene keeping an all-night vigil. This morning the Hindus taking part in the procession insisted on carrying back the idol to the place from which they started, so that they could take out a fresh procession to follow the same route.

After protracted discussions, however, in which the leaders of both communities, as well as the police, took part, the Hindus were prevailed upon to carry the image to the sea for immersion.

CONFLICT RENEWED.

At 3.30 p.m. the Hindu procession, on returning from the sea, came into conflict with a crowd of Moslems who were waiting at the Mosque. The leaders of both demonstrations had agreed upon the Hindus returning by a route which would have avoided the Mosque.

It appears that when the Hindus approached the vicinity of the Mosque a number of Moslems, armed with bamboo staves and other weapons, rushed upon them. A vigorous conflict ensued, compelling the intervention of the police.

The contestants were persuaded to withdraw after the police had fired three volleys into the air. Half a dozen persons were injured in this scuffle.

Tense excitement prevails in this area of the city.

POLICING THE DISTRICT.

At 7.30 p.m. the Congress and Moslem leaders appealed to the excited crowds to disperse peacefully, whereupon the majority of the mob left the place, but about five hundred Moslems, armed with knives and other weapons, still remained on the scene. Congress and Khilafat volunteers are patrolling the disturbed area, and also a strong force of armed police, headed by twelve officers.

The situation now appears quiet.

BOMB OUTRAGE.

POLICE OFFICER ATTACKED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
RAJSHAHI (BENGAL), Sunday.

A bomb exploded to-day with a loud report in the compound of the house of Mr. Debendranath Chowdhury, a sub-inspector of police. Nobody was injured.

A man named Abhayapada Mookerjee was arrested on the spot while running away. The house of Mookerjee's father has been searched.

POLICE RAID IN A JUNGLE.

VILLAGERS FRIGHTENED BY RED CROSS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SHIRALA, Sunday.

The trouble at the village of Bilashi seems definitely to have ended, the raid by the police on Friday having had a salutary effect. Medical assistance from the Red Cross was hurried from Shirala to Bilashi. On the arrival of Red Cross lorries, the villagers fled in fright to the hills or locked themselves inside their houses, and only after much persuasion could they be induced to take treatment.

It transpires that fifty-five persons were injured in the course of Friday's raid, and the condition of two of them is serious. The police did not raid the village to-day. The District Magistrate has conferred with the leaders of neighbouring villages with satisfactory results.

FOREST REVENUE.

The payment of forest revenue is now assured. One village is to pay up immediately and others have undertaken to pay. It has been decided to shift the police camp to Bilashi, whither a police party are marching, and to stay there for a short while to restore quiet.

Official circles believe that there is evidence of organised resistance to authority in the Satara district. Volunteers in the past week have been preaching the triumph of Gandhi ("Raj," representing that Gandhi is the country's saviour.

ATTACKS ON OFFICIALS.

There were several instances last week of attacks on Government officials. A police officer's house near the present armed camp was stoned on Friday night, while earlier on Thursday a large crowd attempted to hoist the national flag in the vicinity of a Collector's camp. It is alleged that high officials were also hooted.

A few days ago the Assistant Magistrate was stranded. Jungle bullocks were unyoked from his car, which necessitated its being hauled by men from the nearest headquarters. A police superintendent was also attacked by infuriated villagers in an effort to rescue arrested leaders, and only a lathi charge succeeded in saving the police officer.

Another revenue officer who was camping in the premises of the Temple also had his things thrown out on hesitating to quit the premises.

SEDITIOUS DOCUMENTS.

The authorities this morning expressed the opinion that it was necessary for the sake of safety for at least two hundred men to visit Bilashi. The district magistrate could not obtain water at Bilashi yesterday.

A cyclist was captured last week with a note intimating to villagers in the neighbourhood that everything was complete in connection with the breaking of the forest laws.

ORDER RESTORED IN SMYRNA.

POLICE PATROLLING THE STREETS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sunday.

According to advices from Smyrna, order has now been re-established there, and there have been no new incidents. Police are patrolling the streets, and several groups of workmen who, it is stated, were planning to start a strike and to provoke trouble, were dispersed. It is reported that Communists were moving among the workmen inciting them to disorders. A number of arrests have been made, and certain buildings are under military surveillance.

Fethi Bey, the leader of the new Liberal Republican Party, whose supporters came into conflict with the Government supporters on Friday night when the trouble began, has sent a letter, consisting of fifteen pages, analysing recent events at Smyrna.

The new leader, it is declared, is everywhere the object of sympathetic demonstrations. Instructions have been sent by Ismet Pasha recommending the authorities to make the necessary arrangements to enable the leader and supporters of the opposition party to explain and develop freely and in all security their political opinions. These instructions have produced an excellent effect.

The speech of Fethi Bey is awaited anxiously by the people, who are basing great hopes on the economic programme of the new party. They are also hoping that the measures which have been suggested by Fethi Bey will contribute to remedying the serious crisis from which the country is suffering.

Note.—The disorders in Smyrna arose during a meeting held by the supporters of Fethi Bey, when they came into conflict with Government supporters. Later the supporters of Fethi Bey attacked the offices of the Government Party and the offices of a newspaper which is an organ of the Government Party. The gendarmes and police intervened and shots were exchanged between the police and the crowd.

FREE STATE AND THE LEAGUE.

MR. LEMASS'S COMMENTS.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
PORTARLINGTON, Sunday.

Speaking at a meeting held at Portarlington to-day, Mr. Sean Lemass, T.D., said that the delegation that was going to Geneva next week was going to attend the annual Conference of the League of Nations, at which Conference the Free State had decided to offer itself as a candidate for election to the Council of the League. Mr. McGilligan had issued a statement that the Free State was seeking election to the Council of the League of Nations as the representative of the British Empire group, but were "on merit alone." He (Mr. Lemass) trusted that the same statement would be made in equal force and clarity at Geneva. It had been generally believed that the Free State claim was based on the assumption that the seat to be vacated by Canada was a British Dominion seat, and that the Free State's candidature was, in effect, a declaration that there existed an identity of interests between the Free State and the Empire. Mr. McGilligan did not, however, think fit to state why the Free State was seeking election at all. The Free State Government should represented only two-thirds of Ireland. Its action in going forward for election to the Council of the League of Nations "on merit alone" implied that it regarded the twenty-six counties as a separate nation, an attitude to which no Irish Nationalist would subscribe. "What service," Mr. Lemass asked, "can the League render to us, or we to the League, when our very claim to be regarded as a nation at all is denied?" The whole foreign policy of the Government was based on the surrender of the national claim to complete independence and territorial unity.

They were told by people who should know better that they had the greatest Minister for Agriculture in Europe. They should judge the efficiency of Mr. Hogan's policy by the results it had produced. Between 1922 and 1929 there was a total decrease in tillage in the twenty-six counties of two hundred and thirteen thousand acres, and in live-stock of one hundred and thirty-nine thousand head. When he gave those figures at the Longford-Westmeath by-election the daily Press and every Free State Minister alleged that he was only trying to damage the National Loan then being floated. He had no such intention. He knew that the Government's friends were the moneyed classes, and that the loan was floated on terms so favourable to them that there would be no failure in subscribing to it. He was proved to be right.

CIVIL AVIATION.

Mr. McGilligan was also responsible for the development of civil aviation. Recently projects for such developments, under Continental auspices, had figured in the Press, but apparently had disappeared following a visit of the British Minister for Air to Dublin. The Free State was bound by the Treaty to enter into convention for the regulation of civil communications by air with the British Government. What was the position concerning the convention; was it to be assumed that the development of aviation in the Free State would not be permitted except under British control? The question was likely to become one of first class importance in the near future, and the public should be informed if any impediment existed to the fullest possible utilisation of our unique geographical position.

GRAND PRIX DE MONZA

VARZI WINS FINAL HEAT.

ROME, Sunday.

The Grand Prix de Monza was run to-day in four groups, with a final race between the leading cars in each group.

In the final heat there were 35 starters. Varzi, driving a Maserati, was first, completing the course in 1 hour 35 minutes 46 seconds, at an average speed of 150 kilometres per hour; Arcangeli (Maserati) second, and Ernest Maserati (Maserati) third.

The Crown Prince, who was accompanied by the Crown Princess (Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium), was the starter.

Volunteers were also captured with seditious pamphlets.

THE ARGENTINE.

Many policemen joined the revolutionaries as well as numerous civilians.

COLUMN 7,000 STRONG.

A column of over 5,000 civilians and 4,000 troops advanced on the suburbs of Palermo, where the 1st Infantry Regiment, which was recognised as one of the staunchest of President Irigoyen's forces, was lined up in skirmishing order. For a time it was believed that a conflict might occur, but a deputation of prominent civilians met the principal officers of the 1st Infantry Regiment, and after a brief conference the officers ordered their men back to barracks.

But shortly afterwards the 1st Infantry Regiment joined the cadets of the Military School and advanced towards the centre of the capital. As the attitude of some of the regiments at Campo Mayo was still doubtful, several of the revolting regiments remained in the vicinity to prevent any move by President Irigoyen's supporters.

The forces advancing on Buenos Aires joined near the Plaza del Congreso.

The majority of the cadets of the Military School arrived from Palermo in private motor cars belonging to wealthy families. By this time it was known that the white flag had been hoisted over Government House, and the news was received with cheers and "vivas" by the marching soldiers, who proceeded in triumph through the magnificent Avenida Mayo amid deafening cheers.

NUMBER OF CASUALTIES.

The greatest number of casualties occurred just after the triumphal march of the troops and civilians who had proceeded down the Calle Calla as far as the Congress Building and were marching through the Plaza towards the entrance of the Avenida Mayo, heading for Government House at the further end of the Avenida Mayo.

An eye-witness states that the procession presented the appearance of a "love feast" until it reached the Congress Building, when shots were suddenly poured into the revolutionaries from a group of the President's supporters.

The fire was hotly returned, and for some minutes there was a battle, which resulted in the success of the rebels.

The second serious conflict occurred when the troops reached the building of La Epoca, on the Avenida Mayo, halfway between the Plaza del Congreso and the Plaza Mayo. Mounted police tried to surround the building in an effort to capture the rebels' machine guns, which were mounted on motor lorries. The mounted police fired on the rebels from the rear and the revolutionaries replied with their machine guns.

Last night a crowd of youths wrecked the Café Molino, to which some of the President's supporters who had fired on the rebels had fled for refuge. The demonstrators were mostly students.

After a visit to the central police station they marched through the streets, proudly carrying banners and singing the Argentine National Anthem.

It was noticed that the students were dragging some heavy object through the streets. This object, on examination, turned out to be a bust of the deposed President.

Demonstrations of joy over the downfall of the Government continued all night in the capital.

Reports from the provinces state that the revolution has been acclaimed, but that the provincial authorities are still in power. In the city of Cordoba a demonstration of students came into conflict with the police, one of the former being killed. In the city of Santa Fe, the capital of the province of that name, which is governed by a Federal Agent, order was maintained by a decree of prohibiting demonstrations. It is reported that the city of Rosario received the news of the rebels' success with enthusiasm, but without disorders.

IRIGOYEN RESIGNS.

THE TOTAL CASUALTIES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

President Irigoyen arrived during the night in the town of La Plata, where he proceeded to the barracks of the 7th Infantry Regiment, accompanied by the Governor of the province.

He then and there signed his resignation.

The new President, General Uriburu, and the Minister of War have telegraphed orders for his release.

It is stated that only 15 persons were killed and 190 wounded in the revolution.

NIGHT OF CARNIVAL.

CELEBRATING THE FALL OF IRIGOYEN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

Following carnival-like celebrations during the night to celebrate the fall of President Irigoyen, the whole of the Argentine is in a tranquil state to-day.

According to the Associated Press Correspondent at Buenos Aires, the Provisional Government has begun to weed out sympathisers of Senor Irigoyen, and officials appointed by him, and new Governors have been appointed in Buenos Aires, Cordoba, San Juan, Mendoza, Jujup, Corrientes and Sante Fe.

The ex-President himself is still at La Plata Barracks, accompanied by his daughter. He is seriously ill. Two physicians are with him, as is also his "Man Friday," Scarlatto, whom Senor Irigoyen elevated from a bootblack to be his personal confidant.

The ex-President is no longer detained, but is voluntarily remaining in the barracks.

Senor Medina, the new Minister of War, ordered the cancellation of the detention as soon as he was informed of it.

Senor Irigoyen resigned only last night, and merely "retired" from the Presidency on Friday.

In his note tendering his resignation he said:—"In view of what occurred to-day I present my resignation as President."

A TOUCH OF DRAMA.

The resignation of Senor Martinez, the Vice-President, to whom Senor Irigoyen in the crisis delegated his powers, was more dramatic. Encountering the Acting President on arriving at Government House, General Uriburu informed him of the complete success of the revolution, and demanded his resignation.

Senor Martinez refused, saying: "Kill me, but I will not resign." The revolutionary leader replied: "I am not simple enough to make a martyr of you, but your resignation is indispensable to prevent bloodshed. Resign, or you will be imprisoned."

Following a brief detention in his office, Senor Martinez capitulated and signed his resignation.

THE FIFTEEN DEAD.

The fifteen now estimated to have been killed in yesterday's shootings include a cadet of the Military College. The wounded number 188.

The disorder occurred when the troops were on the final stage of their march through the city to Government House. When everything indicated that the passing of the troops through the Avenida de Mayo would be a triumphal march some unidentified civilians fired at them particularly in front of Congress House and the offices of the official papers. Taking advantage of the confused situation several men looted the Treasury Department of the State Railways, and shooting occurred among them when the moment arrived to distribute the booty.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald left Lossiemouth on Saturday for Balmoral.

THE ULSTER GRAND PRIX.

SUCCESS OF BIG MOTOR CYCLING EVENT.

FROM OUR REPORTER.
BELFAST, Sunday.

The weather did its utmost on Saturday to spoil the Ulster Grand Prix—the big motor-cycle race which attracts to Belfast the pick of the world's drivers. Rain fell all the morning, and later there was a thunderstorm.

The Grand Prix makes a great appeal to the sport lovers of the North. It is not one race, but eight, run simultaneously. There are Grand Prix trophies for the first man home in the three classes—250 c.c., 350 c.c. and 500 c.c.; handicap races in each class, a manufacturer's team race and a club team race. In all sixty competitors took part, the manufacturers' teams represented the Raleigh, Rudge, A.J.S. and Norton Companies, and club teams were entered by the Irish Motor Racing Club, Leinster M.C. and L.C.C., Southport M.C., Grantham and District M.C. and L.C.C., and the Ulster Motor Cycle Club.

The spectators numbered many thousands. All the morning, in spite of the drenching rain, they trooped to the course, the great majority selecting one or other of the danger points, where crashes might be expected—Clady Corner, Muckamore and Aldergrove—but the stand was well filled, and there was a great crowd to witness the start and finish. Over seven hundred marshals, three hundred police and four hundred volunteers were on duty to control the crowds.

The massed start, in spite of the rain, provided a great spectacle—sixty competitors jockeying for position. Arthur, on his Norton, was first past the stand, closely followed by McKane (Norton) and Dodson on his Sunbeam. Stanley Woods and Graham Walker appeared to be the favourites of the crowd until Walker was compelled to retire owing to magneto trouble.

The race is described in detail elsewhere. It was carried out without serious mishap. Gleave, in the 250 c.c. class, managed to beat the record for his class, establishing a speed for the course of 67.55 m.p.h., against 67.21 last year, whilst Guthrie (A.J.S.) brought the lap record up to 83.38 m.p.h.

MR. CHURCHILL AND TARIFFS.

LIMITS OF DIRECT TAXATION REACHED.

Mr. Winston Churchill, speaking at a Unionist demonstration in Dumbartonshire last Saturday, said that some impatient people declared: "Let us get rid of all the politicians, especially the ones who have any experience, and let us have new methods and new men."

"We should make a great mistake," said Mr. Churchill, "if we exchanged Parliamentary Government for newspaper Government. The newspapers play a most important part in our modern life; but when they step aside, outside their proper province, then they become an abuse which is dangerous to the Constitution and fatal to good Government."

The most unpopular Minister of any Government was usually the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"I expect you were very disappointed in me," said Mr. Churchill, amid laughter, "but now I am thankful to say that all that disappointment is transferred to someone else."

Very fierce fires, Mr. Churchill added, were now blazing upon Mr. Snowden, and, naturally, in Parliament they had criticised his harsh, untimely and one-sided Budget, and the narrow and often spiteful pedantry of his policy to industry. They had been justified by the aggravation of depression which had followed from it.

Mr. Churchill mentioned that a rumour had run round the City that Mr. Snowden had resigned, and immediately all gilt-edged stocks rose in value.

It was almost certain that Mr. Snowden's Budget would end in a deficit. The limits of direct taxation had been reached, and there was a measure of common agreement in all parties that a tariff for revenue upon foreign imported manufactured goods was bound to come.

The Conservative Party would go into action united upon such a policy.

OBITUARY.

SIR JAMES GUTHRIE.

Sir James Guthrie, the famous Scottish artist, died at Rowmons last Saturday afternoon.

For seventeen years Sir James was President of the Royal Scottish Academy. He was born at Greenock in 1859, his father being the Rev. Dr. John Guthrie, of the Greenock Evangelical Union Church. His early life was spent in London, but at eleven years of age his father went to Glasgow, and he was educated at the High School and University there. He studied for the Bar, but his interest in painting soon asserted itself, and in 1879 he began to devote himself seriously to art.

After a period of study in Paris and London he returned to Scotland, and became the leading spirit in the movement known as "The Glasgow School," an outcome of the Impressionist Movement, started by Whistler, Monet and others. The influence of Whistler is seen in many of Guthrie's works, notably his portraits of Mrs. Craig Sehan and Lady Maxwell Stirling.

A knighthood was conferred on the artist in 1909. He was elected an Associate of the Royal Scottish Academy in 1882, and President ten years later. His high artistic gifts were combined with a shrewd business acumen, and he was a director of the National Bank of Scotland, one of the trustees for the National Galleries of Scotland, and a member of the Scottish Ancient Monuments Board.

MR. C. R. FILGATE.

Mr. Charles Roden Filgate, of Fretty Corner, Northwood, who has died at Pinner, at the age of eighty-one years, was the youngest son of Mr. William Filgate, of Ardee, County Louth, and was educated at Cheltenham. He was called to the Bar in 1872, was a member of the Inner Temple, and later joined the Oxford Circuit. He was a member of the M.C.C. for over 60 years, and played for Gloucestershire for many years under Dr. W. G. Grace.

TWO DEAD IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS.

TWENTY-ONE PERSONS INJURED.

One woman was killed and ten people injured when a motor coach from Yarmouth came into collision with a tram standard early yesterday at a point where Woodford New road joins Lea-Edge road, North London. The woman, Miss Winifred Alice Radley (22), of Anmer road, Clapham Common, died from injuries in Whipps Cross Hospital, where the driver, Mr. J. S. Miller, of King street, Great Yarmouth, and two other people seriously injured were detained.

TRAMS AND LORRY COLLIDE.

A collision between an omnibus and a lorry at Willenhall, Coventry, last Saturday resulted in the death of one man in the 'bus and eleven other passengers being injured. The dead man was named Elsey, and he was aged 47 years. He received severe head and chest injuries, and died in hospital yesterday. The front wheels of the lorry were torn off, and the front axle was forced under the chassis. Its driver, David Heath, of Great Russell street, Birmingham, received face injuries. The 'bus driver, Wiliam Medcalfe, of Warwick, also was injured. Four women detained in hospital were making favourable progress yesterday.

CHINA'S NEW GOVERNMENT.

MANCHURIAN GOVERNOR'S DENIAL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NANKING, Sunday.

It is officially stated that Chang Hsueh-Liang, the Governor of Manchuria, sent a wire to Chiang Kai-Shek on September 5, categorically denying the latest crop of persistent rumours, that he was joining the Northern coalition in the establishment of a Government at Peking.

Chang Hsueh-Liang states that he has wired to General Yen Hsi-Shan (the Shansi War Lord) declining to participate in the new Government.

SEARCH FOR SUNK LINER'S GOLD.

STRONG ROOM KEY FOUND IN SAFE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BREST, Sunday.

The opening this afternoon of the safe recovered from the captain's cabin of the liner Egypt proved of greater interest than had been expected, for when the steel side of the safe was cut away with an oxyhydrogen blowpipe, a bag was discovered in which was a key, stated to be that of the strongroom in which the gold ingots were stored. This key will of course be useless, for the decks of the liner will have to be cut through before the gold can be recovered, but the presence of the key is a proof that the divers have located the Egypt without a doubt.

The safe also contained a mailbag, in which, much damaged by sea water, were British diplomatic documents, dated 1922, the year in which the liner foundered. The opening of the safe took place in the presence of the manager of the Salvage company concerned, and of representatives of Lloyds.

As the weather has now improved the Italian salvage vessel Artiglio is getting all ready to-night to return to the scene of the wreck of the Egypt.

JACK DIAMOND TO SUE POLICE.

ALLEGED "WRONGFUL ARREST."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

Jack Diamond's expulsion from Germany may have a sequel in the Courts in so far as he, through his Berlin solicitor, is bringing an action for damages against the Prussian police. Diamond demands damages not only for the time of his detention, but for the costs of the journey from and to the United States, and also for "loss of credit" caused by his arrest and the subsequent publication of the affair in the Press.

Diamond's solicitor supports this claim by accusing the police of having acted carelessly, as the New York police had no interest in his client's arrest. Moreover, he maintains that the Prussian police had no right to arrest his client or to expel him after the German Consul in New York, who had had plenty of time to make inquiries into Diamond's character, had given him a visa for his passport.

FIFTY THOUSAND POLES DEMONSTRATE.

DUMMY OF GERMAN MINISTER ON GALLOWS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WARSAW, Sunday.

A national demonstration of 50,000 Poles was held to-day at Poznan, Posen, Marshall Hindenburg's birthplace, to protest against German attempts to bring about revision of the Polish-German frontier, and in particular against recent speeches of members of the German Government.

In the procession of representatives of all the Polish political parties and organisations that followed, two dummies were carried of Herr Treviranus, the German Minister whose speeches in particular have given offence, one of these being mounted on a gallows, with a suitable inscription.

A resolution was passed demanding the fortification of Poland's western frontier, the deportation of German nationals resident in Pomerania, the liquidation of German property, and German organisations in Poland, the prohibition of the German Press, and the boycott of German goods.

PROTECTING IRISH INDUSTRIES.

MR. DE VALERA AND THE FREE STATE GOVERNMENT.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
DUNDALK, Sunday.

Speaking at a meeting in Grange, County Louth, this afternoon, Mr. de Valera said that the extraordinary reduction in the population of Ireland in the last ninety years was due to the rule of the stranger. The riches of this country had gone to make another country rich and to make another a powerful and wealthy country. England had set out to make her own land a great manufacturing nation. She had taken her people off the land and put them into the mines, merchant ships and factories, and by doing that had made herself a great and wealthy nation according to the accepted standards of greatness and wealth. Ireland had been of double use to England in that policy. Britain said to herself that she would destroy Ireland's industries, except agriculture, which would feed the British people. By having merely the one market Ireland was compelled practically to sell to England at whatever price she got. If the population was not to be further seriously reduced it would be necessary to reverse the British policy in Ireland. One would have thought that, even with the power which we had got to make our own laws, there would have been a reversal of the old policy and one of self-contained economics. But the Free State Government had had to be forced along the road of protecting Irish industries, and they had thrown every possible obstacle in the way of such a policy. An amazing fact was that Ireland, an agricultural country, imported considerably more food than she exported in 1929, and the imports included even bacon, butter and eggs. While Killaloe slates were good enough and cheap enough for houses in Glasgow they were not good enough to roof Irish houses, and we had to bring in tiles from Belgium.

Mr. de Valera said that we had in this country resources enough to supply us with all the fundamental necessities of life, and to supply them in such a measure as would give us reasonable comfort, always provided that we used them properly.

Mr. Frank Aiken, T.D., said that Fianna Fail had no objection to people who had been wounded getting pensions, or the dependents of men who had been killed getting pensions. They stood for that, no matter what side these people fought on; but they had the greatest possible objection in the present state of the country to able-bodied men drawing them.

WOMAN AND A BABY.

£50 FINE FOR GIVING FALSE INFORMATION.

Mrs. Violet Pither (35), the wife of a railway porter, of Upper Westbourne terrace, Paddington, London, was, at Marylebone Police Court last Saturday, fined £50, with the alternative of three months' imprisonment, on a charge of giving false information to the Paddington Registrar concerning the birth of "one Stephen Philip Pither."

The prosecution was a sequel to the report by Mrs. Pither that her baby had been kidnapped from its perambulator in Edgware road.

Evidence was given that the baby was the illegitimate child of another woman, and that when it was handed to her Mrs. Fither registered it as her own. She pleaded guilty, and the magistrate said that he gathered from what she had said that she was very anxious to have a son, and as that could not be she adopted this child.

A detective inspector stated that Mrs. Pither had been previously convicted for larceny.

Replying to the magistrate, she said that she seriously represented that her husband thought that this was her baby.

The magistrate—Then he must be a very extraordinary man.

COMEDIAN'S DEATH FROM DROWNING.

INQUEST VERDICT.

The inquest upon Stanley Arthur, the comedian of the "Rose Marie" Company touring the provinces, who was drowned when a party of the company journeyed from Cardiff to Lavernock to bathe on Thursday, was held at Penarth on Saturday.

The dead man, who took the part of Hard Boiled Herman, was formerly with Mr. Archie Pitt in the revue "Stop."

The Coroner, Mr. David Rees, returning a verdict of "death from drowning, due to an accident," said that Arthur must have struck his head on a rock, and must have been drowned before regaining consciousness.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE STRONG

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Saturday.

Following a firm opening some week-end selling appeared, but with operators for a rise emboldened by the meagre success of the mid-week bear campaigns bulls drove shorts to cover, causing prices to advance substantially in brisker trading. The advance embraced most of the important groups, with the exception of Oils, U.S. Steel crossing 173 for the first time since June, while nervous shorts hastened to buy back shares even in long-depressed Coppers. The weekly mercantile reviews reported better wholesale buying, and speculative sentiment retained the more cheerful attitude noted yesterday. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, New York Consolidated Gas, Kennecott Copper, Cero de Pasco, General Electric, American Can, Industrial Alcohol, American Telephone and Telegraph and New York Central rose 2 to 5 points, and Ingersoll Rand, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse Electric gained 4 to 8 points. The market closed strong. Government Bonds dull. Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 1,407,000 shares.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

SIR OLIVER LODGE'S CONFESSION OF FAITH.

SPIRITUAL WORLD DOMINATES MATERIAL.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM.

BRISTOL, Sunday.

Several gatherings were held in connection with the meetings of the Association to-day.

Sir Oliver Lodge pronounced a personal confession of faith when he delivered an address at the David Thomas Memorial Church, Bristol.

"These are," he said, "the general conclusions to which I have been led by the facts known to us. We are incarnations of spirit, here and now, spiritual beings in contact with inert matter for a time, living on this planet for something under a century.

"Earth-life appears to be an episode of considerable importance in the history of a soul, and in many cases appears to be the beginning of an individual existence or personality. Certainly the individual continues thereafter, and carries with him his power, his memory, and his affection.

"These have developed in connection with matter, and have become the property characteristic of the individual. These are his inalienable possessions, and all else of the material order he has perforce to abandon and leave behind. The process of growth continues, continues apparently without limit, and so long as his friends continue their struggle with a material organism he is able to help them, and occasionally under certain conditions communicate with them.

"The Universe is a more spiritual entity than we had thought. We are surrounded by a cloud of witnesses and helpers, beyond the range of our sense organs, and our terrestrial activities form but an insignificant portion of the whole of existence. We have concentrated too much upon matter, and have attended too little to the possibilities of space.

POWER IN EMPTY SPACE.

"Already science is discovering that all activity, all energy, all spontaneity, is to be traced to the properties possessed by what we call empty space; and that the matter that appeals to our senses is a comparatively trivial interruption of its continuity, with a function purely demonstrative.

"The atoms of matter show what is going on in space. They have no initiative of their own, they are pushed hither and thither, and take the path of least resistance. All the genuine activity has hitherto eluded us. We have been studying pointer-readings, and are only now beginning to realise the immensity of the powers which move those pointers and bring about all the phenomena, some of which we are familiar with, and others that so far only a few believe in.

"The real fact is that we are in the midst of a spiritual world, that it dominates the material. It constitutes the great and omnipresent reality, whose powers we are only beginning to realise, whose properties and functions exhaust all our admiration. They might indeed be terrifying, had we not been assured, for our consolation, that these tremendous energies are all controlled by a beneficent Fatherly Power whose name is Love.

"In that faith we can face any destiny that may befall us in the infinite future."

Earlier in his address Sir Oliver said that the British Association in its 98th year had not in its corporate capacity admitted the existence of any world or mode of being other than the material one which affected our present senses. Nevertheless, the poets and saints of the race had often felt and expressed the view that the universe contained a great many more things than were open to the senses, and that there might be whole unexplored regions not yet touched by science. The time would assuredly come when some of those avenues would be explored by science.

There were a few individuals in the scientific camp bold enough to deny the existence of any such regions; not only did they shut their own eyes to them, but they resented the incursions of others.

The more violent of this group regarded it as a kind of blasphemy against the spirit of science to pay any attention to what they thought was submerged under an atmosphere of fraud and superstition.

The milder variety considered that these other regions, though possibly existent, were not to be explored by the methods of science; so that as scientific men they held aloof.

THE SPIRITUAL WORLD.

The existence of a spiritual world was one of those themes which individuals appeared able to accept privately in their unscientific aspect. So it happened that on British Association Sunday, when the Mayor and Corporation and other dignitaries assembled in a cathedral church for Divine Service, they were accompanied by such members of the British Association as held themselves at liberty to regard with equanimity, if not with approval, these incursions into an immaterial world—a world alien to their own researches, in which the methods of science were inapplicable, but in which a traditional body of doctrine had been handed down under expert teachers, who were actuated, not by recognised methods of inquiry, but by human instinct and a corporate faith.

Within the last century there had been sporadic instances of scientific men who felt that the spiritual region was not so closed as they had been taught. They felt that science was a body of organised knowledge acquired by methods too valuable to be limited to any one aspect of the universe, and they would like gradually to bring the whole under the methods of science. They were not deterred by the ridicule or contempt with which their efforts were met, but were content to go on in faith that a sincere inquiry into truth, even of an unusual kind, would be ultimately justified.

Some of the general public were interested in their research, and produced continually fresh facts for investigation. These were the spiritualists, who had become acquainted with a number of phenomena and had formed their own conclusions.

They were not hampered either by the scientific or the religious tradition; they felt free to travel whithersoever the facts led them. Some of them accordingly were unbalanced and made mistakes, and, on the whole, they needed curbing rather than encouraging.

Already it had been discovered that mind could operate independently of brain, that a person was not necessarily limited to the performance of the organs of his body, that there existed individuals who could send messages mentally, and other individuals who could receive them. Though "telepathy" was not yet accepted by orthodox science, the fact that ideas could be thus somehow transmitted was becoming more and more recognised by reasonable people.

The pioneers did not stop there.

They said that if mind could operate apart from matter; if mind and brain could be thus disconnected, then the mind might continue its existence after its bodily organ had been destroyed; and they adduced much evidence that this was actually the case. They asserted that they were in touch with people who had lived and who had departed this life.

Whether that evidence amounted to proof was still a matter of opinion. Scientific proof was a serious thing, not lightly to be testified to, but the evidence was certainly very strong, and for practical purposes had convinced some of the pioneers of the fact that they and their friends would survive, and that death was an incident in life rather than a termination of it, and no more, and, perhaps, no less puzzling and unintelligible than birth.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

LABOUR'S ATTITUDE "AN INJUSTICE."

Sir Richard Gregory[illegible] who is attending the British Association meetings, vigorously defended science from various unjust opinions, which he contended, Labour was liable to have of it, when he addressed the Bristol Branch of the Independent Labour Party.

"When Labour associates science with degrading industrial consequences," said Sir Richard, "it does a grave injustice to a great group of earnest inquirers, whose only aim is the discovery of new truths in nature.

"Labour resents science as being responsible for every labour-saving machine, and it fails altogether to distinguish between work done for the advancement of knowledge and the use afterwards made of it.

"While Labour has asserted its claims to a full share of the profits of industry, science has continued its inquiries with little consideration of adequate reward. It is possible to-day to secure a highly qualified scientific man at a salary less than that of a municipal dustman, and there is no union of scientific workers with anything like the power of many trade unions to remedy this state of affairs.

"The fact is that, whereas in scientific circles the pursuit of truth and the revelation of new knowledge are the sole standards of achievement, in the workshops and labour organisations the objects of union are to secure increased benefits from the profits of industry.

"With the creative ideas or inventive enterprise by which industries are developed the trade unions are apparently not concerned. Labour may officially express approval of scientific and technical research, but if it desires to promote material as well as social progress, its activities should not be limited to securing the greatest possible advantage from the results.

"In the days of Darwin, Huxley and Kingsley, science was associated with Labour in the common fight for freedom from traditional doctrine and assertive authority. That battle has been won; but the two allies, instead of becoming closer knit together by their struggle in a common cause, seem to have drifted further apart. In Labour circles generally, science seems to be regarded either as an intellectual recreation pursued by a few unworldly naturalists, or as an agency by which human beings are sacrificed to machinery and poison gas. No justification for this attitude can be found in the records of any scientific society.

"Unsatisfactory social conditions are not a necessary consequence of the advance of science, but of incapacity to use it rightly. Whatever may be said of captains of industry or princes of commerce, scientific men themselves cannot be accused of amassing riches at the expense of labour.

"Power—financial and political—has been in the hands of people who know nothing of science, and it is they who should be arraigned at the bar of public justice for their failures to use for the welfare of all the scientific knowledge offered to all.

"Science should dissociate itself entirely from those who have thus abused its favours, and not permit the public to believe it is the emblem of all that is gross and material and destructive in modern civilisation."

SCIENCE AND RELIGION.

The Bishop of Oxford preached the sermon at the official Service at Bristol Cathedral yesterday. Members of the British Association and representatives of the Bristol University and the Bristol Corporation attended in State.

The Bishop said that the British Association had no necessary connection either with religion or with the Church of England. "The meeting in church for Service and worship, however, is a reminder that separateness of function does not necessarily imply hostility, and there is between these two lines of thought and action a real underlying unity of aim. The study of natural science has opened up fields of truth hitherto unknown and unsuspected, and in the process many ideas about the world once supposed to be impregnable have disappeared for ever."

Religion, too, had suffered many changes. If at the present time religion was less universally professed it had a clearer programme, a more systematic form, and was more articulately recognised as a way of thought and life. This change in religion was part of the same intellectual movement as had taken effect in natural science. It might have been expected that one result would be that the two lines of study would draw nearer together, but that had not come about.

"What man wants," said the Bishop, "is to be sure his life has some permanent nature value and significance. It is not enough that he should be part of the material out of which a perfect world may some day be put together. It is in the comprehensiveness and power of Divine love that all desires of man are satisfied."

THE PLAIN MAN AND SCIENCE.

Sir Josiah Stamp dealt with the plain man's shares in scientific progress in an address at the Central Hall, Bristol, last night.

"Time was when the meetings of the British Association were felt by the religious bodies to be almost an attack within the citadels of religious truth itself," he said. "The man in the street scented a pretty scrap between bishops and physicists, and science versus religion was staged, so to speak, as a mild entertainment. For a time, then, the local pulpits resounded with dissents and counter-attacks, warning and defiance.

"Nowadays we welcomed the scientists into sermon-making. It does science good to be asked to lift its head from its microscope and differentials and take its bearings in all experience and all knowledge of which the loves and hates and ambitions and passions and purposes of a never-ceasing scheme of human life are not the lesser part."

Referring to the industrial situation, Sir Josiah said—"The age distribution in the next ten years will have important effects upon industrial employment. We have been passing through a period when one hundred and fifty thousand more people have come up into the field of employment yearly than have gone out of it. Shortly the entry and the exit will nearly balance and the shortage of new labour will be very marked."

The plain man could not leave progress to science. "All the advances of science in industry will turn to ashes if we cannot achieve industrial peace, and that is the plain man's contribution to it," he said.

MOTOR CYCLIST INJURED.

FINGERS CUT OFF NEAR DUNDRUM.

Four fingers of a man's hand were found lying on the road at Goatstown, Co. Dublin, yesterday morning. The matter was reported to the Civic Guards at Dundrum, and inquiries were made. The police discovered that the fingers had been cut off the right hand of a young motor mechanic named Savage, of Woodbine terrace, Rosemount, Dundrum.

Savage and his brother, it seems, had been out motor cycling on the previous evening, and stopped to examine the engine. They put the machine up on the stand. The injured man was working with a chain on the cycle when his hand was caught. Not knowing that the fingers were cut off, the brother wrapped up the injured hand in his cap, and both hurried off to Dr. Neary, Dundrum, who attended to the wound. Savage then went home, and on Sunday morning he had the wound dressed again at the Meath Hospital.

Repayments to date amount to £1,273,755, together with £110,941 accrued interest.

YEAR'S SALARY UNCOLLECTED.

When, at the monthly meeting of the LOUGHDERRY Rural District Council, on Saturday, the Clerk intimated that he had made out a cheque in respect of a year's wages for a man who looked after the stand pipes at the Collon, Mr. Kitson, the sanitary officer, said that this man and his family had left the country. The Council decided to relodge the cheque to their credit.

STILL-HOUSE DISCOVERED.

A still-house was discovered on Thursday by Sergeant White and Guards Hurley and Fox, CLONMANY, at the foot of Dunaff Hill, the north-eastern extremity of Lough Swilly. Having reached the foot of the cliff, the Guards found a cave, nine feet high and extending under the cliff for thirty feet. Inside the cave were found a still, two still-heads, a copper worm, fuel, paraffin oil in a bottle, two barrels, containing eighty gallons of wash, and other stilling equipment.

MARKETING OF EGGS.

Samuel Gailey, merchant, CASTLEDERG, was, at the local Petty Sessions on Saturday, fined £1 and costs for enclosing in three cases of eggs dockets which did not give correct particulars as to the contents of the cases. It was stated that in one case containing thirty dozen there were only dockets for twenty-seven, while in another case there were dockets for twenty-five, and in a third dockets for forty dozen, although the case only contained thirty dozen. Defendant said he had done his best to comply with the regulations, but sometimes it was rather difficult.

NEW MAIL SERVICE.

It is announced that on and after the 10th inst. letter mails from BELFAST will be despatched by the direct steamers (Ulster Imperial Line), and will consist of letters for delivery in Liverpool. The mail will be made up Monday to Friday inclusive, and letters posted at the Belfast head office up to 8.0 p.m., or with an additional late fee of 1d. up to 8.30 p.m. in the special late fee box, will, it is expected, be delivered in Liverpool by the first post on the following day. The new service is additional to the existing despatches via Heysham and Larne and Stranraer.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY.

Dr. O'Doherty, Bishop of Galway, opened and blessed yesterday Ozanam House, named after the founder of the Society of Saint Vincent de Paul, for whose Galway branch the building will be used as headquarters. The building is situate in Bishop's Court, and was formerly a British ex-Service men's club. Sir Joseph Glynn, President of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of Ireland, attended, and said it was important that Catholic young men should be trained for the lay apostleship, so that when, especially in large cities, they met men preaching Communism and opposing religion they could give an account of the Catholic faith.

AMERICAN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

An American tourist, Mr. Frank M. Mares, of 2722 Throop street, Chicago, who was to have returned yesterday as a tourist cabin passenger on the White Star liner Baltic, was taken ill on Saturday evening as he was about to partake of his lunch in the States Hotel, Queenstown. Dr. Hegarty was immediately called in attendance, and had Mr. Mares taken to the local infirmary, where he expired a few hours later. Mr. Mares, who was aged 66, formed one of a party of five who had just completed an extensive tour of Europe, including a three weeks' visit of the Irish Free State. The body was placed aboard the steamer Baltic yesterday for burial in the United States.

AMERICAN YACHT'S VISIT.

Flying the burgee of the New York Yacht Club, the steam yacht Kihna arrived in Cork Harbour late on Friday evening, and moored to the man-o'-war buoy opposite the premises of the Royal Cork Yacht Club. During the following day the owner, Mr. J. Fuller Feeder, of New York, his wife and daughter, made a visit of the surrounding district. At six p.m. on Saturday the Kihna sailed from the port to continue her cruise Eastwards, her ultimate destination being Deauville, the fashionable seaside resort on the French coast. The Kihna is a vessel of 575 tons, and sailed from the Scilly Isles on Sunday evening. She was built in Southampton and has been one month in commission. She is manned by an English crew.

WATERFORD ACCIDENT.

Mr. Patrick Byrne, WATERFORD, sustained fatal injuries in an accident on Saturday morning. Mr. Byrne was starting his motor car at the railway station, when it moved off, dragging him across the road, where it collided with a wall. Mr. Byrne had been a sergeant in the Royal Irish Constabulary.

NO NAMES ON CARTS.

Contradictory evidence was given at CASTLEDERG Petty Sessions on Saturday in a number of prosecutions by the police against farmers in the district for unlettered carts. Several of the farmers appeared, and swore that the names were printed on their carts, while one produced the name-plate. In all cases penalties were imposed, the Chairman stating in one case that he believed the defendant was making a genuine mistake.

FIREARMS PROSECUTION.

Joseph Henry Belaght was prosecuted at CASTLEDERG Petty Sessions for shooting game on Sunday, for the possession of a gun without a firearms certificate, and for carrying a gun without a licence. For failing to have a firearms certificate he was fined £10, mitigated to £2 10s., and a further reduction recommended. He was fined 10s. for not having a licence and 2s. 6d. for shooting game on a Sunday.

ASSAULT AT FAIR.

An assault in Irvinestown Fair, County FERMANAGH, on 8th ult., was described at the Petty Sessions on Saturday, when Frederick Joseph Bennett, Kilskeery, was charged with assaulting Thomas Collins, Tiveny. Constable Brownlee said that an argument arose in the fair and the defendant hit Collins on the face. There was no provocation. Collins said that he was hit on the eye and lip and his face was blackened. Defendant was fined £1 and £1 costs.

INSURANCE PROSECUTION.

For failing to pay National Health Insurance contributions in respect of Patrick Holden, an employe, Richard Murphy, farmer, Pleberstown, was fined £3 and costs at THOMASTOWN. Mr. P. McCloskey, Inspector, said that the defendant's sister was inclined to be abusive when he called to the house. District Justice McCabe said that if it required a District Justice, State Solicitor, and an Insurance Inspector to force people to comply with the law they must be made pay for the luxury.

GRADING OF APPLES.

Mr. H. W. Stevens, Chief Marketing Inspector, Free State Department of Agriculture, addressing a meeting of the fruit-growers of County Kilkenny at PILTOWN, said that the amount of apples imported into the Free State from January 1, 1929, to December 31, 1929, was 9,460½ tons, valued at £224,584. If they wanted to make a reputation for themselves in the Dublin market they should pack their apples in barrels of a given size, graded properly, and have them labelled with the name of the variety. The position in the Dublin market was that the purchasers got the salesmen to empty the contents of a box into another before buying. In a great many cases it was found that the apples were not true to type. They could not expect the price to be the same as the price paid for foreign apples, where it was certain that every apple would be the same size, true to type and numbers. He recommended that they follow the Department's leaflets when growing fruit. Mr. T. J. Murphy, Gowran, said that the Department should prohibit the importation of foreign apples from August 1 to December 31 of each year. A deputation was appointed to wait on the Dublin salesmen and also on the railway company in regard to freights.

"SCENE" AT A SEIZURE.

A "scene" which occurred at Killen, CASTLEDERG, on the 16th July last, when bailiffs proceeded to execute a decree at the house of Mrs. Mary Caldwell, was described at Castlederg Petty Sessions on Saturday, when Sarah Caldwell was charged with assaults on Sergeant Flanagan and Constable Dickson, who accompanied the bailiffs to afford protection, and Mrs. Mary Caldwell was charged with abusive and threatening language towards the police. Sergeant Flanagan stated that when he went to Caldwell's to afford the police protection Sarah Caldwell obstructed the bailiff, and when witness went to protect the bailiff she hit the bailiff with a brush on the back of the neck. As witness took the brush from her she struck him on the mouth with her fist, and also cut Constable Dickson on the neck with her nails. Mrs. Caldwell was armed with a long stick, with an iron bar at the end of it, and she also threatened the police. Mr. W. E. Orr, solicitor for the defendants, said their contention was that the decree had been already paid, and the police, instead of affording the bailiffs protection, were illegal participants in an illegal seizure. The magistrates fined Sarah Caldwell £2, and placed her under a rule of bail, and they also placed Mrs. Mary Caldwell under a rule of bail.

THE SOUTH DUBLIN DAIL VACANCY.

NO ELECTION UNTIL AFTER CHRISTMAS.

Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, T.D., was the principal speaker at a Cumann na nGaedheal meeting, held yesterday afternoon at Rush, County Dublin. Other speakers were—Mr. G. O'Sullivan, T.D.; Mr. Batt O'Connor, T.D., and Professor M. Tierney, T.D.

Dr. O'Higgins said that the electors were approaching a most important phase in their lives. They would shortly be called upon to appoint a managerial staff or Municipal Council and also a County and a Borough Council to look after their interests. In the near future they would also be called upon to elect a representative to the vacancy caused by the death of Major Bryan Cooper, T.D. The people were now in a position to control absolutely their own interests, and they should consider these matters on a broad basis, and elect representatives to support the policies which they thought best in their own material interests.

A POWERFUL NEIGHBOUR.

Referring to the Shannon scheme, Dr. O'Higgins said he had been speaking to American capitalists, and it was their view that industrialists would invest money in this country if stability were assured. Mr. de Valera had spoken of another round with England, but in this country they could not afford to fall out with a powerful neighbour. What effect would Mr. de Valera's statement have on any business man who was thinking of coming to this country? Mr. de Valera might be put into power at the next election, and was he going to carry out his statement?

"This country is a member of the League of Nations, and is now going forward for a seat on the League Council. Only five nations may hold seats on the Council, and this little country is now going forward for a seat."

The Fianna Fail Party had adopted tariffs as their policy. The Government believed in tariffs, and had always believed in them. They had removed heavy tariffs from tea and cocoa, but they were not going in for a whole-hog policy, which would throw a burden on the Exchequer and increase the cost of living.

Mr. Batt O'Connor, T.D., intimated that the election of a member to Dail Eireann in place of the late Major Bryan Cooper would not take place until after Christmas.

SCHNEIDER TROPHY DISPUTE.

HOPES OF SETTLEMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Saturday.

It is understood that determined efforts are being made to overcome the difficulties that have arisen with next year's competition for the Schneider seaplane trophy, which should be held in British waters. The trouble arises, it will be recalled, out of the conflict between the Committee of the International Aeronautical Federation, the governing body in the international aviation matters, and the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain, which is the holder of the trophy, and is responsible for the organisation of the contest. On the complaint of certain nations, headed by Italy, the Committee decided to reduce the amount of the deposit required as entrance, formerly £1,600 for each machine, to £40.

The Royal Aero Club, taking the view that the alterations should not operate in the case of the race now under preparation, have refused to accept the entries of France and Italy, which were accompanied by only £40 for each machine.

France and Italy have got round the deadlock by sending their entries direct to the Federation, the presumption being that this body should take over the organisation. The Federation, however, is desirous of seeking a solution which would meet with Great Britain's approval, and negotiations are proceeding in this sense.

The report current in Paris that a settlement had already been reached by a compromise, by which the race will definitely take place in Great Britain, was regarded in official quarters to-day as premature, it being stated that the matter is still a subject for discussion.

The death is announced, in New York, of Mr. Simon William Straus, the banker. Mr. Straus, who was born in 1856, was the president of the firm of S. W. Straus and Co., and president of the American Society for Thrift.—(Reuter.)

FIANNA FAIL ACTION CRITICISED.

"TRYING TO DEMORALISE THE COUNTRY."

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

MANORHAMILTON, Sunday.

At a meeting of the North Leitrim Executive of Cumann na nGaedheal, held in Manorhamilton to-day, Mr. G. M. Dolan, T.D., Parliamentary Secretary, said that if they reviewed the work done by the Government during the past eight years there was no reason to be dissatisfied. Most countries were suffering from depression. The Free State would have made more progress if it had not been for the opposition of a section of the people. Everything possible would be done for those in Leitrim who suffered by the recent floods.

Mr. Roddy, T.D., said that in no country had an opposition party sunk so low in their method of opposition as the Fianna Fail Party had done. That party was trying to demoralise the country by lying propoganda, and were trying to sap the initiative of the people. Fianna Fail was using every power they possessed to gain control. They were good organisers, and were leaving nothing undone to secure success at the next general election.

Mr. Roddy said the Government had made sacrifices for the purpose of bringing about the development of the country, and he was sure the people would not allow a party like Fianna Fail to catch the reins of Government.

Germs may destroy teeth and tissues

Remove FILM twice every day

IF you brush your teeth for better protection . . to remove stains . . we want to send you a remarkable development in tooth pastes. In ten days you will see results that ordinary brushing failed to bring.

Germs on teeth are difficult to reach. A dingy, glue-like film holds them in contact with teeth. Film gets into crevices. It clings stubbornly.

So Pepsodent was developed. It curdles film, then removes it.

Your dentist will tell you that when Pepsodent removes film it plays an important part in tooth protection. Use Pepsodent twice daily. See your dentist twice yearly.

That is the surest way to lovely, healthy teeth. Write for free 10-day tube of Pepsodent to The Pepsodent Co., Dept. 231, 8, India St., London, E.C.3.

ARSON CHARGE.

COUNTY CAVAN MAN FOR TRIAL.

At Shercock (Co. Cavan) District Sessions, Arthur Parker, Corravilla, was charged with burning a dwellinghouse, the property of Mr. T. D. Vance, solicitor, Bailieborough.

Superintendent Murray prosecuted and Mr. Morrow, solicitor, defended.

Mr. Vance, solicitor, deposed that he purchased a house and farm of land, the property of the accused man, in the townland of Annafarney. This farm was sold under an order of the Circuit Judge, and the accused man was evicted by the Sheriff.

John Farrelly deposed that on the morning of August 17 at 5.30 he saw from his bedroom window the house on fire. The defendant told him two years ago that if a man named Cappy got the house he (defendant) would burn it.

John Farrelly, junior, deposed that on August 16 the accused man asked him about work that was going on at the farm. The defendant also said: "I am going down there to-night." Witness said: "That is all right." The accused man replied: "It is the only home I have now." Parker appeared to have drink taken.

A FOOT MARK.

Sergeant Mahoney deposed that he visited the scene next day and found the track of a man's boot in the field about thirty yards from the burned house. He took a cast of the foot mark. Witness subsequently took possession of the defendant's left boot. Ten studs on the boot corresponded in every detail with the cast which he had taken.

Alexander Parker, brother of the defendant, deposed that the accused man called at his house at 12.45 on that night. Defendant said to witness that he had to go to another place. He told witness that if anyone made inquiries next day not to say that he was there. He was like a man who had drink taken, but he was steady.

Lena Parker, daughter of the defendant, deposed that her father came in about 3 o'clock in the morning. It was five by the clock, but the clock was two hours fast. (Laughter.)

Superintendent Murray—Some one must have put on the clock to new time a couple of times as well as yourself. (Laughter.)

Frank Reilly deposed that he saw the accused man about 11 p.m. on that night. He appeared to be the same as ever he saw him. He was sober.

A STATEMENT.

Guard Hogan deposed that he was present when Parker made the following statement to Inspector Neville:—

"On Saturday night I was rather the worse of drink. When I was going home I passed my old house that I was evicted out of. I thought I would go in and have a sleep. I brought some straw up to the loft, and lay down on the straw. I woke up after some time, and lit my pipe. A few minutes afterwards I saw the straw lit below my feet. I saw the loft catch fire. I tried to put it out; but could not, and I came down and went away. I did not intend to burn the house at all."

Sergeant Mahoney, recalled, said that there was straw in an outhouse near the place, but the straw was not disturbed, and there were no traces of straw from the outhouse to the burned house.

The Justice returned the defendant for trial to next Circuit Court in Cavan, and admitted him to bail.

Superintendent Murray said that since the accused man was remanded he was arrested on a fresh charge of burning an out-office at the same place. The Guards were investigating this charge, and he asked for a remand.

The defendant was remanded on bail to the next Sessions.

THE TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

According to the Matin, M. Costes' flight, and the preparations for it, cost five million francs, of which the State contributed a part in the form of premiums. Thus, for M. Costes' "record" in a straight line a million francs has been awarded, and for his "record" in a closed circuit half a million francs.

It is understood that the prize of £5,000 offered by Colonel William Easterwood for a successful Paris-New York-Dallas flight will be presented in Paris in order to avoid double income-tax.

A Reuter's telegram from Valley Stream, near New York, states that Major Costes and Lieutenant Bellonte arrived there from Dallas, Texas, on Saturday.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

A new group is being formed in Dublin to put forward candidates for the Corporation, who will discuss only business matters at meetings of the Council.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

An outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has been confirmed at Holbeck, Yorkshire, and the Department of Agriculture in Dublin have suspended the importation of livestock from England and Wales.—(Page 7.)

Speaking at a meeting in Dumbartonshire, Mr. Winston Churchill said that the limits of direct taxation had been reached, and that a tariff, for revenue, upon foreign imported manufactured goods was bound to come.—(Page 8.)

At the annual meeting of the Executive of the Boys' Brigade in Liverpool, on Saturday, it was decided to change the headquarters from Glasgow to London.—(Page 4.)

ABROAD

Malicious damage to the railway line resulted in the derailment of the India mail train to Dacca yesterday morning, and the deaths of four people.—(Page 7.)

A son has been born to the Crown Prince and Princess of Belgium.—(Page 7.)

In the recent conversations with the Indian peace intermediaries the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, expressed the view that it would be very unwise for Gandhi to raise at present the right of India to secede from the Empire at will.—(Page 7.)

As the result of a revolution which broke out in Buenos Aires on Saturday, President Irigoyen has resigned, and a new Provisional Government has been set up by General Uriburu.—(Page 7.)

The first item on the agenda of the League Council, which will open at Geneva to-day, is the consideration of the Mandates Commission report on the disturbances in Palestine last year.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Proudstown Park on Saturday Lady Heath won the September Plate, Maureen Aroon the Balsaw Plate, Follow Me the Boyne Plate, Odd Cat the Town Plate, Irish Play the Directors' Plate, and Tais Toi the Bachelors' Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Manchester Oletta won the Prince Edward Handicap Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Folkestone Nestorian won the Stayers' Handicap Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Money Market on Saturday was offering loans till Monday at 1 per cent. Discount rates were steady. The Bank sold £27,900 in bar gold, and exported £4,000 in sovereigns. The pound in New York fell sharply.—(Page 12.)

The price of rubber in London on Saturday fell to the new low record of 4¼d. per pound. Compared with Friday's close, the quotation is down 5-16d., being the largest net decline in one day for a considerable period. The fall followed the receipt of a cable from the East intimating that the Governor of the Straits Settlements had made an adverse announcement regarding restriction. This stated that the Government of the Straits Settlements has informed the representatives of the Malayan Rubber industry that it has decided that economic laws must be allowed to take their course, in the hope that by this means stabilisation of prices in the industry will be realised.—(Page 12.)

The closing was strong on the New York Stock Exchange last Saturday.—(Page 8.)

Folly and Facts.

Mr. Gandhi and his colleagues have announced that "they see no meeting ground between the Government and Congress." Without hesitation we agree with them. The "unofficial" negotiations which, under the ægis of Simla, have been conducted by Sir Taj Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar with Gandhi and the Nehrus in their prison, have failed. Not only were they doomed to failure from the start, but, if the inconceivable had occurred, their success would have been an unmitigated calamity and disgrace to the British Raj. Congress's demands had one merit; they were simple and uncompromising. If a political amnesty were granted—except in certain cases of violence—if confiscated property were restored and all special ordinances were repealed, then, and then only, the prisoners of Yeravda were prepared to consider an agreement which would have reduced the Indian Government to nothingness. Before they would agree to call off the civil disobedience campaign and to send representatives to the Round Table Conference, they demanded that a complete national Government should be accorded, with full control of defence and economic policy. Above all, they claimed that India's right to secede from the Empire must be acknowledged. When we remember that this attitude of Gandhi and his associates has been implicit in every declaration that they have made, we may marvel that the men responsible for India's safety expected any useful result from conversations with their avowed enemies.

Undeterred, if not untroubled, by this result, Britain's Labour Government, as we are told, refuses to entertain any idea of interference with the Round Table Conference. On October 20th, therefore, unless the date is altered, some ninety individuals, representing everybody except those responsible for India's present troubles, will assemble in London to debate India's future. Sir John Simon will be excluded, presumably because he knows too much. The Indian princes, who also know their country, doubtless will be given a polite hearing, while their recommendations will be received with suspicion by a Cabinet that was reared on the catchwords of trade unionism. Of course, the Conference will go the easy way of such affairs. Civil servants, Ministers and a few stray babus, amiably supposed to represent "moderate opinion," will chatter pompously, will produce a "liberal" programme, and will offer a peg on which every faddist in Europe and Asia may hang his own views about the proper management of India. The Simon Report is sufficiently wide in its scope to admit of any interpretation by such people. A strange superstition persists that at any moment the Mahatma and his friends may be filled with a sudden desire to undo their work and to become willing agents of Eccleston square if a sufficiently concessive demeanour is adopted by authority.

It is not thus that India can be governed. Indeed, it is not thus that India wishes to be governed. The peoples that still revere the memory of their Mauryan and Mogul emperors, who ruled and did not argue, have enjoyed or despised the spectacle of the King-Emperor's Viceroy in counsel with the prisoners of Yeravda Jail. While sovereign princes are ignored or heard with impatience, a low caste and self-appointed Mahatma is treated with every respect. The results of such conduct upon the Indian mind easily may be imagined. Until lately—indeed, even now things are not altered much—Gandhi spoke only for the few. The great mass of Indians are not disloyal, and every recruit that Congress has gained during the last few months has been won as much by the weakness of the Government as by its own efforts. A round table conference, therefore, while daily telegrams from India speak of new outrages, ought to be unthinkable. The first necessity is to reduce the country to order, and, if need arises, Gandhi and the Nehrus must be handled sternly. While they are holding forth on the subject of Indian liberty, tens of thousands of their fellow-countrymen are suffering untold miseries as the result of the boycott which they have fomented. There must be no talk at present of Dominion status or further degrees of self-government for India. When India is peaceful again the matter can be considered.

Pillage of Houses.

The motive that impels American millionaires to pillage old European houses of their furniture and appurtenances is not entirely despicable. There is even something pathetic about such vandalism. It implies a desire for the man-made beauties which a new country cannot give, and amounts to an honourable and decent admission of cultural inferiority. Of such more or less well-meaning vandals Mr. William Randolph Hearst is a high priest. This magnate of the American Press, when he wearies of the United States and France wearies of him, seeks peace at his castle of St. Donat, in Wales. Mr. Hearst's castle is Norman in architecture, but cosmopolitan in every other respect. He has crammed it with art treasures ransacked from every quarter of the world and dating from every century of the Christian Era. The latest addition to this residential bouillabaisse is the great dining-room of Gilling Castle, in Yorkshire, which will be dismantled and re-erected at St. Donat's, that Mr. Hearst may take his ease therein. Mr. Hearst's conduct can be pardoned. It is dictated apparently by a sincere love for beautiful things, since no man so wealthy as he is requires to purchase for mercenary ends. Compared with the vandals who within a century have pillaged Dublin's great houses of their treasures, Mr. Hearst is an apostle of good taste. At the time of the Union, before the cream of Irish society had begun to drift Londonwards, those houses were pre-eminent in splendour. Traces of their beauty still may be discerned even where they have been converted into tenements, but with every year the traces become fewer. In the shabbiest quarters the eye still is taken by gorgeous mouldings, exquisite oak panelling or the stately loveliness of an Adam's mantelpiece. Soon the ravages of avaricious dealers will have removed the last of these things, and they will shine henceforth in a new setting. We grant that an Adam's mantelpiece accords ill with a tenement-house, but we deplore the type of mind that pillages for profit and steals the soul of a noble house for twenty pounds. The difference between these iconoclastic dealers and Mr. Hearst may not seem clear; yet a world of difference exists. Mr. Hearst dismantles a house in the hope, however deluded, that he will build something new and lovelier with the fruits of his piracy. The Dublin vandal regards nothing save the prospect of a market, and destroys without a qualm of conscience or a thought to the future of his pillages. In comparison, the taste of the screen idol who supported an entire Irish cottage to Hollywood, and equipped it with a lapis lazuli swimming-pool and a marble floor, is enlightened to the point of fastidiousness.

The Basques and Spain.

In their origin and language the Basques are nearly as mysterious as the Hittites, but, while the Hittites have left only a few tombs and inscriptions, the Basques are "very much alive." Spain has 375,000 Basques; France has 150,000, and neither country breeds a hardier or more virile race of men. Every Rugby enthusiast in Ireland can measure the French game's debt to Basque players. Until the thirteenth century the southern Basques maintained a proud independence and acknowledged a highly democratic code of laws, which were called the Fueros. Then they decided to throw in their lot with Spain, but, in giving allegiance to the Crown of Castile, they insisted on the recognition of their old laws; and every new sovereign was required to "swear the Fueros." In the Carlist wars of the early nineteenth century many Basques supported the losing cause, and thereafter the autonomous régime began to be impaired. To-day the Basque country is governed in accordance with the general interests of the Spanish nation. Nevertheless, the old spirit of independence survives; the Basques never have relinquished their claim to the Fueros; and they have been encouraged by the leniency of General Berenguer's Government, which permits the official use of the regional tongue and flag. Now, as we learn from a writer in The Times, the Basque organisations have decided to re-open the question of autonomy; and it is being discussed at a Basque Congress in the Province of Guipuzcoa. The three Basque provinces do not seek separation from Spain, but they desire complete self-government in their domestic affairs. Their claim will be laid before the Spanish Parliament when it assembles; and party views—such as the conflict between monarchy and republicanism—will not be set forth, although the Republican groups are in general sympathy with the Basque demand. In the meanwhile there is much agitation for the more extensive use of the Basque language and for its inclusion in the syllabus of all schools in Basque territory. A petition in favour of bilingual education has been submitted to the Government.

Naval Films.

The Soviet authorities are planning a grand scheme of advertisement for the Red Fleet. Authors and painters will attend the coming manœuvres, and the Sovkino (Soviet Cinema Organisation) has been commissioned to make film scenes for exhibition in all parts of the world. We may suppose that Moscow, which has installed propaganda as a religion, has been inspired with its latest project by the example of the United States Navy. It is hardly too much to say that the cinematograph, not less than the Treaty of London, has raised that Navy to its present heights. In former years the British Navy "showed the flag" in every great port of the five Continents. To-day, so far as advertisement is concerned, the United States Navy has swept it from the seas. There is not a harbour in the world—nay, there is not a village in Ireland, Poland or Burma—which is not familiar with the minutest details of life in the United States Navy. This fame is due to Hollywood, which, as it appears, has free entrée to all United States warships at all hours of the day and night. Naval pictures flood the films, with the result that millions upon millions of people in all lands have seen the United States flag saluted a hundred times and are intimately at home with the white-capped American tar. By its patriotism and enterprise Hollywood has secured an immense popularity for the United States Navy. Is any other navy so human, so humorous and so sentimental? In any other navy would petty officers set a booby-trap for the captain, or would any other navy put a battleship at the service of a distressed heroine? We doubt, however, the Sovkino's ability to emulate Hollywood's success; we fear that the light touch will be wanting. The Bolsheviks are a grim folk, and we shall be pleasantly surprised if their navy can produce a solitary low comedian.

LONDON WEDDING.

LIEUTENANT A. H. TRAILL AND MISS B. DAVID.

A wedding of Irish interest took place at the Church of All Souls, Langham place, London, W., on Saturday. The bridegroom was Lieutenant Henry Austin Traill, R.N., of H.M.S. Courageous, the youngest son of Lieutenant-Colonel W. S. Traill, D.S.O., D.L., and Mrs. Traill, of Ballyclough, Co. Antrim, and a grandson of the late Mr. Anthony Traill, LL.D., Provost of Trinity College, Dublin. The bride, Miss Bronwyn David, is the daughter of the late Archdeacon David and of Mrs. David, and a niece of Colonel Sir Edgeworth David, D.S.O., who went with Shackleton to the South Pole.

The church was decorated with white flowers, chrysanthemums and gladioli, and Bishop Fyffe, former Bishop of Rangoon, with Father Buckell, of St. Saviour's, Ealing, W., officiated.

Mr. E. B. David, the bride's twin brother, of Jesus College, Cambridge, was chief usher, and others were brother officers of the bridegroom. The best man, Lieutenant Barrington-Moore, of H.M.S. Norfolk, was at one time an officer of H.M.S. Courageous.

Flying-Officer A. M. David, a friend and shipmate of the bridegroom, gave his sister, the bride, away. She was an attractive figure in a gown of soft cream satin, the skirt falling long and full to her ankles. The simple, long-sleeved bodice was gathered into a wide hip-yoke, and the dress had a train of old family lace—lent by a cousin, Miss Kington Blair-Oliphant—falling from the shoulders. Over all fell a veil of cloudy white tulle, very fine and soft, and held by a filigree silver fillet of leaves and orange blossoms. She held a generous sheaf of Madonna lilies, and was attended by two dainty bridesmaids:

Miss Sylvia Piccinino and Miss Isabel Antice wore long modern frocks of blue lace and net, the upper parts and sleeves being of the lace, and the full flared skirts of net. There were little double capes of the net at the shoulders and wide picture hats were to match, trimmed with little coloured flowers, to match those at the hip-line of their frocks. They held bouquets of cream roses.

As the bride and bridegroom left the church, round which a crowd of onlookers had gathered, the naval officers formed a guard of honour, their swords gleaming in the rays of a bright sun. A reception was held by the bride's mother, a gracious figure in black lace, at the Langham Hotel near by. Mrs. Traill, the mother of the bridegroom, wore a toilette of brown lace and georgette.

Later in the day the bride and bridegroom left for Scotland, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Among those present were:—Lieutenant-Colonel W. S. Traill, D.S.O., D.L., and Mrs. Traill; Mrs. David, Mr. E. B. David, Miss Barbara David, Mr. Herbert Williams, the Misses Williams, Mrs. Peter Denny, Mr. E. Denny, Captain and Mrs. A. O. B. Traill, Mrs. Willink, Mr. H. U. Willink, Miss Ethel David, Miss Kington Blair-Oliphant, Mrs. Evelyn Grey, Mrs. Buckland Taylor, Mrs. and Miss Mackmaster, Miss Evershed, Miss Skipton, Lieutenant Margetts, R.N.; Lieutenant and Mrs. J. Brett, Mrs. M. Jefferies, Mrs. Powys-Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jacques, Miss Cowan, Miss Buckell, Mrs. Eyffe, Miss Nathain, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. J. L. Wight, Miss H. and Miss N. Wight, Mrs. J. R. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frizell, Miss Alex. Frizell, Lieutenant and Mrs. Conway, Miss M. Graham, Lieutenant-Commander Malleson, Mr. and Mrs. White-Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. H. Wright, Lieutenant and Mrs. R. C. Giles, Lieutenant and Mrs. H. P. Sears, Flying-Officer Fair, Lieutenant W. S. Thomas, Lieutenant N. Kennedy, Lieutenant A. McKillock, Canon and Mrs. Hannon, Lieutenant T. S. Jackson, Lieutenant J. C. Richards, Lieutenant J. E. Fenton, Mr. Stewart Moore, Miss W. Lamb, Commander Legge, Mrs. F. C. Drake, Miss S. Drake, Mrs. H. E. Hills, Mrs. and Miss Ellis, Mr. Digby Grist, Mrs. Mackintosh, Miss Lambert, Miss Seary and Mrs. Darbyshire.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

For some time a gentleman, who signs himself "A Layman," has published, at his own expense, in the "Irish Christian Advocate," the weekly organ of the Methodist Church in Ireland, a series of excellently drawn-up advertisements appealing for a large increase in the allowances paid to the retired ministers and ministers' widows of the Church. An English Wesleyan layman, noted for his princely generosity to religious and charitable objects, was so impressed with these advertisements that he sought fuller information from some of the Irish representatives at the recent British Conference in Leeds. As a result he has sent, through the Rev. W. H. Smyth, M.A., of Belfast, £1,000 to the Supernumerary Ministers' and Ministers' Widows (Ireland) Fund. If this gift is invested, as it almost certainly will be, it will mean that the fund in less than seven years will have added to its capital upwards of £20,000, while during the same period it has increased its allowances to retired ministers and ministers' widows by one-third. Surely a marvellous accomplishment in days of financial strain!

The death of Mr. Thomas Dooly, of Roscrea, leaves a gap in Irish Methodism which will long be keenly felt. A typical Irishman, brimming over with geniality and good nature, Mr. Dooly was beloved by all who knew him. The annual Conference of the Church has not seemed the same since failing health made it impossible for him to take his usual part in it. The attendance at the funeral was a wonderful tribute to the place Mr. Dooly had won for himself in the hearts of the people of Co. Tipperary, of every creed and class.

The removal to England of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Duncan is deeply regretted in Kingstown and in Methodist circles generally. Mr. Duncan is a gifted local preacher, and a musician of considerable ability, having done much for the choir in connection with the Methodist Church, Kingstown. The members of the Kingstown Methodist Church, with a few other friends, presented Mrs. Duncan with a valuable writing case and Mr. Duncan with a well-filled wallet of currency notes as a tribute of esteem and affection.

Mr. William Treanor, of Roscrea, who is in his ninety-second year, took the Services in Birr on Sunday last, preaching with all his old-time mental and physical vigour.

In memory of the late Rev. John E. Green, some nephews and nieces who live in Kansas City, are erecting a memorial window in Donegall square Church, Belfast, of which Mr. Green was the minister many years ago. The church will be re-opened for Divine worship, after extensive renovation, by the Rev. W. H. Heap, Chairman of the East Anglia District, on October 12th.

The Civic Guards (Depôt) Band will play at BRAY Esplanade on Wednesday from 7.45 to 9.45 p.m.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

ST. LEGER DISCUSSED.

THE THREE YEAR OLDS IN THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

OLETTA'S MANCHESTER VICTORY.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Sunday Night.

It is likely that the field for the St. Leger on Wednesday will not be large, and it cannot be said that it will be in any way distinguished. The latest defection is the winner of the Irish Derby, Sir Mathew Wilson's Rock Star, whose trainer, Walter Nightingall, has taken him out, as there was no time to get him properly ready for the race after his bout of coughing. The French colt, Lovelace, who was just beaten in the Eclipse by Rustem Pasha, has also gone out, and I imagine that the muster on the Town Moor will be less than a dozen.

DIOLITE'S TRIAL.

From the details I have heard of Diolite's gallop with the Ebor dead-heater, Coaster, it hardly sounds good enough to win the St. Leger, even in a year like this, and there is always the doubt about his stamina. There are only two hard-pulling horses in the race whom I can see making the pace: fairyhot ones.

The trial of the Manton colt Rameses the Second with Paul Caret sounds to me a much better one than that of Diolite, and there is no doubt that all connected with Mr. Singer's colt are very hopeful, indeed. When we consider the chance of Rameses the Second we have to remember that Singapore was giving him 10lb. at Goodwood when he was only just beaten.

Rameses the Second has been coming on well, but there is no reason for believing that in the same period Singapore has been standing still. Captain Hogg, who trains him, has never been a super-optimist, but on this occasion he is fairly confident that Singapore will be good enough to win.

Gordon Richards is a very firm believer in the merits of the colt, and tells me that he cannot see anything beating him. Lord Glanely, his owner, has been having wonderful luck with his horses this season, and that is always a point to take into account.

The race run by Parenthesis at York was all right as far as it went. He probably could have beaten British Sailor instead of dead-heating had Fox punished him, but the performance was hardly impressive enough to make him out to be anything like a good thing. Rustom Pasha is an interesting candidate, but one can hardly visualise him staying the distance.

A LIKELY ONE.

His stable companion, Ut Majeur, is a likely one to get the course well, but he has never quite shown himself to be a classic colt. Seer will get the distance, but he seems to be rather below classic form. However his trainer, J. H. S. Cannon, has a considerable regard for his chance.

Christopher Robin will be in the field, but he is another whose stamina has to be taken very much on trust. So far as I can see at the time of writing, the most likely colts in the race are Singapore and Rameses the Second.

Nearly all of us have been this season accusing the three-year-olds of being a moderate lot, but it has remained for the Jockey Club's handicapper, Mr. T. F. Dawkins, to point out the lost stone. In framing the weights for the Cambridgeshire, he has given Xandover, the winner of the French Two Thousand Guineas, 8st. 13lb., and has given Diolite, the winner of the English Two Thousand Guineas, 8st. 6lb., which is to say that the English form this season is 7lb. behind the French.

I believe the French people do not rate their own three-year-old form very high this season, and Mr. Dawkins has certainly given British bloodstock a bad advertisement in his handicap.

The Cambridgeshire Handicap is a very attractive one. The colt whose weight everyone was most interested in is The Recorder, who has been given 8st. 7lb. At Ascot Ballyferis tried to give him 17lb. and was not beaten more than a length and a half. At Newmarket The Recorder is set to give Ballyferis 7lb., which means that the Irish colt can meet him on no less than 24lb. better terms than at Ascot. For all we know The Recorder may be easily the best three-year-old miler in the country. When big horses like him start coming on it is very hard to set a limit to the measure of their improvement. A personal opinion is that Fair Isle—on her day—is the best three-year-old filly in England, and Mr. Dawkins would appear to share this view, for she is only allowed 11lb. from Diolite and nothing from The Recorder. Palais Royal II. is top weight in both the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire, but I believe that Frank Bullock does not want to run him any more. He won the big race at Ostend last Sunday very easily from the three-year-old Potiphar, who has been given 8st. 5lb. in the Cambridgeshire.

A GREAT TRAVELLER.

There are few horses one can admire more than Palais Royal II., who must be cast iron. He came here to win the Cambridgeshire as a three-year-old, and few horses in training can have done more travelling than Palais Royal II. between Paris and Deauville and Ostend, with Cambridgeshire, Gold Cup, Jockey Club Cups and what not in this country thrown in. That he should have retained his form and won as he did in Ostend, with a good horse like Hotweed behind him, is a wonderful tribute to his hardiness.

A French-bred filly came to Manchester yesterday and won the Prince Edward Handicap. She is called Oletta, and is owned by Mr. A. K. Macomber, who won the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire in the same year with Fersetti and Masked Marvel. Oletta is a daughter of Odel, whom I can remember in France some years ago as a great stayer. Oletta won races in France last year over distances, and came to Newmarket in the winter to be trained by Sam Darling. She is a very wiry-looking filly, and the stable must have had a good deal of confidence in her yesterday, for she was backed down to 11 to 2 in what proved to be a very good betting race. It was only in the last twenty-five yards, however, that she got up to beat Boss of the Show, the best staying son of The Boss that we have seen in this country, by a head. The race was run in a downpour of rain and a thick mist, so that not a great deal of the details could be seen. We could see, however, that Cacao, who went down better than anything else, was left at the post, and virtually took no part in the race. Last year's winner, Medarlin, went off in front again, but Boss of the Show closed with him, and headed him below the distance, but was in turn caught himself, and beaten by the French filly. Oletta is engaged in the Cesarewitch, where her 5lb. penalty brings her weight to 7st. 13lb. She will have to meet Joyous Greeting, who was third yesterday, four lengths behind the second, on 11lb. worse terms. Arctic Star finished fourth, without ever having looked dangerous.

EASILY WON RACES.

Some of the other races were easily won. In the first event of the day, the Wilton Handicap, Gordon Richards made all the running on Frolsome, and finished five lengths and a head in front of Tiggol, a filly in training of Issgirt and Tom Tit III. Then Culotte, a filly by Stratford, also made the running all the way for the Yarn Maiden Plate, which she won by a length and a half and the same from Boy Bachelor, and Redfellow. Portland, who is now seven years old, and was such a useful performer, both in Ireland and in England, is now trained in Yorkshire by F. Armstrong. He started a strong favourite for the Egerton Handicap, in which he was ridden by Wing, but he began last, and finished last of the five runners. The outsider, Blue Drift, got up close home to beat Mouchon by a neck.

Tiggol, a filly by Tetrameter, trained by V. P. Hobbs, who was so long connected with the late Jack Robinson at Foxhill, won the selling nursery comfortably from Leg Puller, and then, in the last race of the afternoon, Lord Derby's filly, Spun Yarn, upset the odds laid on Spinner's Cottage, who was her only opponent. She headed him when they had gone half-way, and beat him by four lengths.

GALTEE MORE.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

J. Kirby Injured.

J. Kirby, the jockey, was riding the three-year-old Warmingham in a canter with others of Macnee's team at Lambourn on Saturday morning, when the horse fell, and Kirby sustained a broken collar-bone and was badly bruised.

Oletta's Cesarewitch Penalty.

By winning the Prince Edward Handicap at Manchester on Saturday, Mr. A. K. Macomber's four years old filly Oletta incurred a 5lb. penalty for the Cesarewitch. This brings her weight to 7st. 13lb. Boss of the Show, who was second, has not been nominated for the long-distance Newmarket Handicap. Joyous Greeting, who finished third, can meet her on 11lb. better terms in the Cesarewitch.

Lovelace II. Scratched from St. Leger

The scratching at 11.57 a.m. on Saturday of M. E. Esmond's Lovelace II. from the St. Leger did not come as a surprise, as M. Esmond had stated earlier in the week that Lovelace II. had had some hard racing at Deauville, and that he did not think that the horse would take part in the St. Leger.

CYCLING.

FINN BREAKS THE IRISH RECORD.

In winning the hundred miles championship of the Southern centre of the Irish Road Club yesterday, W. J. Finn, one of the veteran members of the club, did a ride which will rank with the many meritorious performances of the present season. He covered the distance in 5 hours 3 minutes 30 seconds, beating the professional record of 5 hours 11 minutes 20 seconds, which has stood to the credit of Grubb as the best performance done in Southern Ireland since before the war. He also beat the time made by McCartney, of the Northern centre of the club, a year ago—namely, 5 hours 8 minutes.

The race lost a good deal of interest by J. P. Woodcock, the holder of the championship, puncturing on the latter would have required to have been at his best to have beaten Finn yesterday, as his best hundred is 5 hours 14 minutes.

The race carries with it the possession of the perpetual challenge cup of the centre, and Finn's name has already appeared on it more than once. This race was held over the new course, and as well as being very fast, it proved to be in excellent order. The riders faced a strong breeze on the outward journey, but had the benefit of it for the last forty miles.

The times of the half-dozen finishers were as under:—

	H.	M.	S.
1—W. J. Finn (Gold)	5	3	30
2—W. J. Mooney (Silver)	5	26	57
3—J. J. Killean (Silver)	5	32	52
4—H. J. Quinn (Silver)	5	34	39
5—D. Doyle (Bronze)	5	37	19
6—C. T. McNally (Bronze)	5	0	17

Three tandem pairs took advantage of the checking arrangements made for the race to go for standard medals, and did the following times:—

	H.	M.	S.
J. D. Galavan and J. J. Gunning (Silver)	4	53	30
R. J. Hunter and M. A. Coleman (Silver)	5	18	27
J. Murphy and J. Nash (Silver)	5	7	27

PROUDSTOWN PARK.

TWO TRAINERS' DOUBLES.

CAPT. CORRY RIDES TWO WINNERS.

FAVOURITES FAIL.

Those who visited Proudstown Park Racecourse on Saturday for the first time were loud in their appreciation of the course, its surroundings and the racing. By lowering the admission prices to almost the minimum, and arranging for cheap 'bus services from the city, the executive succeeded in attracting more Dublin folk than usual, and the majority of these, being pleased with the experience, will, we believe, go to the meeting again. Except for a couple of showers, the weather was of an enjoyable kind, and the surrounding country looked at its best. Backers had anything but a good time, Irish Play being the one solitary favourite to score.

MAUREEN BAWN'S HALF-SISTER.

Mr. Norman Sykes, one of the most enthusiastic of racing men and manager of a small stable of horses, had a most successful time of it. He brought only three horses to the meeting, and won with both Lady Heath and Maureen Aroon, both half-sisters to that useful mare, Maureen Bawn, who won many big steeplechases for E. L. Lloyd some years back. Lady Heath won the September Hurdle Race in easy style from The Coyle and Glorious Diligence, and, being only a three-year-old, the achievement ranks her as a promising recruit to the jumping branch of the sport. Maureen Aroon, the property of Mrs. Sikes, put up even a better performance in beating Hakeen at a difference of 14lb. in the weights for the Balsaw Steeplechase. This six-year-old may well go on to emulate the performances of her distinguished relative. Both winners were ridden by Captain D. Corry, a versatile rider, who is equally proficient at show jumping.

ODD CAT'S SIXTEENTH WIN.

Sunnyside Paul, the third hope of the Sikes's stable was travelling as well as anything else in the three miles steeplechase for about two miles, but then it looked as if something happened to him, and he dropped completely out of reckoning, leaving Odd Cat and Acting Master to fight out the issue. Not that there was any great fighting about it, for Odd Cat always had the measure of Mr. G. P. Gilpin's horse, and won comfortably. This was old Odd Cat's sixteenth win, and we understand he will run again at Naas on Wednesday.

Three two-year-olds filled the leading positions in the Byrne Plate, a five furlong race for maidens, which was of so open a character that 4 to 1 was laid against the field by the bookmakers. Follow Me, the property of Mr. M. M'Veagh, and trained by C. Donnelly, led all the way, and scored cleverly from Cherry Blossom and Tagala. The winner's starting price was 6 to 1, but those fortunate enough to wager with the tote received odds to 15s to 1. In most of the other races also the tote prices were much more favourable to backers than those laid by the bookmakers.

TAIS-TOI'S IMPRESSIVE WIN.

Another trainer to score a double event was Mr. H. Wragg, who after winning the Directors' Plate with his own horse Play then saddled another Achtoi horse named Tais-Toi, who ran away from a big field of horses in the Bachelor's Plate. Tais-Toi is the property of Baron F. de Tuyll, a consistent supporter, and first racing, and everyone was pleased to see his colours carried first past the post. Tais-Toi won with ridiculous ease and may be a useful horse, but the opposition in this race was very moderate. Details:—

FOLKESTONE TO-DAY: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

PETER MURRAY FOR CHIEF EVENT.

Although the actual jumping season began at Newton Abbot and the Isle of Wight on August Bank Holiday, the season proper does not come into being until the end of the flat racing season, but with no racing under Jockey Club Rules this afternoon the minor jumping fixture at Folkestone will command attention. Backers will be well advised to tread warily, as at this early stage in the new jumping campaign "form" takes a back seat to fitness. The Ramsgate Handicap Steeplechase is the centrepiece of the programme, and recent form points to the chance possessed by Peter Murray, who was a well backed favourite when third to Irish Dolly and Grayswood at Southwell.

The Margate Handicap Hurdle may provide a further winning opportunity for Candlemas. Gamefellow has a pull in the weights with Candlemas, and the chief danger to this pair may be Gallina, who failed to justify his favouritism last time out, but who is expected to show to better advantage here.

Bonar Bridge may not be capable of holding the recent Southwell winner, Irish Dolly, in the Westgate Handicap Steeplechase; and in the absence of anything more confident news about any of the remainder in the Shorncliffe Three-Year-Old Hurdle choice falls on Toi-Même, who was only narrowly beaten at Southwell last Monday.

Broadstairs Steeplechase—Burning Bush.
Seabrook Selling Hurdle—Montpelier (nap).
Ramsgate Handicap Steeplechase—Peter Murray.
Margate Handicap Hurdle—Candlemas; if absent, Gallina.
Westgate Handicap Steeplechase—Irish Dolly.
Shorncliffe Three-Year-Old Hurdle—Toi-Même; if absent, Blitzen.

BRITISH TEAM'S BIG WIN.

THREE-QUARTERS BRILLIANT.

NOVIS' GREAT SPEED.

BRISBANE, September 6.

The British touring team in Australia to-day beat an Australian team by 29 points (4 goals, 2 penalty goals, and 1 try) to 14 points (1 goal, 1 penalty goal, and 2 tries).

For Queensland's greatest sporting attraction since the cricket test of 1928, a crowd of 20,000 filled the ground, and were rewarded with a fine, exciting game throughout.

The brilliance of the British three-quarters was the outstanding change after their unfortunate eclipse in the Test match at Sydney. Paul Murray, who had played at scrum-half since the injury to Solomon, returned to his usual position in the three-quarter line, and knowles occupied the other centre position. Novis and Jones Davies on the wings were a constant source of danger to the Australian defence. Indeed, Novis, in attack and defence, was at his best, and moved with great speed. He is a worthy opponent for the Australian Sergall, who had many interesting duels throughout the match. The failure of Laxton to hold Spong, who had done so well at Test level, was a blot on the Australian backs. The British standard of play resembled in the liberty Lawton allowed his centres, and went the game well open. Spedding, Bonner, and Jones Davies on the wings were always dangerous, both in accuracy of passing and in tackling safe. Hard but fair play was the keynote among the forwards ended with the honours even. The hooking of the lighter Australians was quite a feature, but the British heavies were always on the ball.

AUSTRALIANS OPEN SCORING.

Much interesting change was made in the Australian team. Banks (Queensland) resigned the captaincy, and Fihelly (Queensland) was appointed British captain, who had a very successful game, scoring one try and converting another. Malcolm (Queensland) played several times before passing to Lawton, and was very safe in defence. Row (then gave Britain the lead with a pleasing run and pass to Bonner. Jones had no difficulty in scoring the second try. Australia were not to be denied, however, and going over for a try, Sergall converted. Fihelly was responsible for a brilliant try by Lawton, and Bonner added a second immediately. Malcolm (Queensland) and

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

ALLIANCE TRUST CO.—Interim dividend declared on the Ordinary Stock for the quarter ended July 31 last at the rate of 25 per cent. per annum, less tax. This is at the same rate as in the last four years, when the total distribution has been 75 per cent., less tax.

AMALGAMATED ZINC (DE BAVAY'S).—Dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for the six months ended June 30th. (Same.)

DE GESTETNER.—Profit for year £151,871, against £147,201. Dividend repeated at 20% per cent., while £45,000, against £75,000, goes to reserve, leaving £30,240, against £30,118, to go forward.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY CORPORATION.—Interim dividend of 4 per cent., less tax, on the Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM.—Dividend of 25 cents, United States currency, per share, equivalent at par of exchange to 1.0½ per share, payable at above rate of exchange.

LINOTYPE AND MACHINERY.—A further dividend of 9 per cent. on the Preference Shares for eighteen months.

LONDON FIR AND GENERAL TRUST.—Covering the year to July 31st, the second report of the London Fur and General Trust shows a net profit, after charging a loss on realisation, of £23,215. This follows a net balance of £34,854 for the first period of fourteen months. The fixed Preference dividend of 8 per cent. takes £9,538. Income tax deducted from dividends, etc., received requires £5,903. The reserve fund again receives £5,000, and £2,000 (against £1,926) is written off preliminary expenses, the balance of £3,099 (including £2,124 brought in) being carried forward. For the first period a dividend of 12½ per cent. was placed on the Ordinary. Notwithstanding the fact that the investments of the Trust have suffered severe market depreciation, the Board is of the opinion that it should recommend the payment of the balance dividend on the Preference capital, inasmuch as the income received largely exceeds the amount required. It is stated that the Trust has not participated in any underwriting during the year, the Board having preferred to adopt a cautious policy during these difficult times; it is intended to pursue this course in the best interest of the shareholders. Investments are at a cost of £261,076. In their report the auditors state:—"The Stock Exchange prices of the quoted investments are below cost, and no specific reserve has been made in respect thereof."

WILLIAM WHITELEY, LTD.—An interim dividend of 10 per cent., less tax, on the 25 per cent. Cumulative Ordinary Shares. This is unchanged on last year's interim, which was followed by a final of 15 per cent., making 25 per cent. for the year.

AMERICAN MONEY WITHDRAWN.

CAUSES OF THE FALL IN STERLING.

An important feature of the week has been the fall in the American exchange. The immediate cause of the depreciation of sterling was the raising of call money rate in New York in the middle of the week to 2½ per cent. Funds were immediately withdrawn from the money market in London and transferred to America, and selling of sterling continued until by the close of the week the rate had fallen to 4.86.08. In face of this new development the result of Friday's Treasury bill tenders can only be considered as disappointing (says The Observer). Discount rates in London admittedly should have been higher than has recently been the case in order to accord more closely with the international position. The poor advance that has been achieved is summed up in the rise of the Treasury bill rate on the week from £2 0s. 6d. to £2 1s. 8d. per cent.

The discount market itself is fully aware of the unsatisfactory level bill of rates. The low rate for the Treasury bills, however, is attributed to the pressure of money seeking employment at short term. For some time past the banks have been down on their minimum rate of 2 per cent. for daily call money. Surplus funds have been placed in short bills, while outside the clearing circle 1½ per cent. has been the usual rate which lenders have accepted for the use of overnight credit.

While the raising of the call money rate in New York, however, was the first cause of the depreciation of sterling, it has to be remembered that we are now negotiating what is usually the difficult period of the year, when the demand for dollars is at its zenith. Up to the present there has been little evidence of the autumn pressure owing to a steady bidding for sterling on American account for investment on this side.

The change in the direction of short-term money, and it is also suggested in exchange circles profit-taking in the gilt-edged market on American account, has exposed the exchange to the force of the autumn pressure, and to this has now been added the new movement of money. So far the new development has left both the money market and the Stock Exchange unaffected.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES.

THE MONETARY FACTOR.

POSITION OF ARGENTINE SECURITIES.

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

Hitherto the bill brokers have found it impossible to raise discount rates to a level more in accordance with the international financial situation owing to the plentiful supply of credit and the scarcity of bills, but with the recent movement in the New York exchange it is to be expected that rather higher rates will rule in the near future, especially as there is absolutely no chance of a reduction in the official minimum. The establishment of discount quotations at a higher level will probably be reflected in prices of fixed interest stocks which already are displaying a reactionary tendency. There is, indeed, an almost general belief that the appreciation in these securities has passed the peak. As previously stated, there is no reason why holders who are satisfied with the yields given should sell, but those who had been contemplating a purchase might be well advised to wait at least for a time.

TRADE AND COMMODITY PRICES.

An improvement in trade would mean an increased demand for credit and itself cause a hardening of discount rates. Candidly, however, it is difficult yet to discover convincing signs of a coming trade improvement, and the views upon this point represent little more than a pious hope. As indicated by the fresh low record price reached by rubber last week, the fall in commodities has not yet been arrested, or the recovery is too feeble to encourage a belief in better conditions in the near future. Probably the improvement when it comes will be so gradual as to be almost imperceptible and this would really be better than a violent rise in commodity prices which, for a time at least, would be certain to have a disturbing effect.

HOPEFUL STOCK EXCHANGE OUTLOOK.

While it is difficult to find encouraging features in the trade outlook, the prospects for Stock Exchange business are hopeful. As indicated above, a reaction in gilt-edged stocks seems likely, but this will not hurt anybody, while it will be welcomed by those wishing to get in at a lower level. As regards other markets, an important point is the cessation of liquidation, which previously had such a depressing effect. This has been replaced by a moderate amount of buying on public account, which, coupled with bear covering, has led to a substantial recovery in values. In the absence of liquidation there is little floating stock in the market, so that any fresh buying has an undue effect. It is not likely that prices will go back to the previous level of depression, and, that being so, holders who otherwise might have been inclined to sell will hold aloof—at least until values have been established on a higher plane.

ARGENTINE SECURITIES.

As far as can be judged from the somewhat meagre reports from the other side, there is no reason why holders of Argentine securities should be perturbed by recent events. Economic conditions there, as is well known, have been affected by bad harvests and the serious fall in prices of the country's products. It would be only natural if this created some unrest among the extremists in the political world, necessitating the adoption of strong measures by the authorities. Reports of a political crisis may represent no more than a healthy escape of hot air. Conditions otherwise are promising, for the outlook for the current harvest is good, and the exchange has already recovered sharply from the lowest. So far from there having been justification for sales of Argentine Stocks, it is considered that the low quotations now current afford an excellent opportunity of acquiring an interest on favourable terms. This applies more particularly to the Railway securities. The market for these is rather limited; for, although it has been difficult at times to sell without depressing quotations substantially, now it is difficult to buy except at a materially higher level. Those interested, of course, must be prepared for reduced dividends in several cases in respect of the year to June 30 last; but an improvement in economic conditions, which would come if current expectations of the next harvest are realised, would make a tremendous difference both to the railways and the country itself. The chances are, therefore, that the recovery in quotations noticeable towards the end of last week will become more pronounced.

COMPANIES AND THEIR SHARES.

It is a pity that the chairman of Singer and Co. has allowed himself to be so much concerned about what he considers the unduly low market valuation of the ordinary shares. Whether he is right in this view need not be considered, though a good deal could be said about the possibility of a difference of opinion, even among experts, as to the valuation of a particular set of assets. The point is that it is scarcely the business of a board of directors to concern themselves with fluctuations in share prices. If such a practice became at all general, company boards would not find time to carry out their ordinary duties properly, and if it is proper that a chairman should tell shareholders that the Stock Exchange valuation of the shares is unduly low (which we do not concede) it would be equally proper for him to tell them when the price is too high. During the memorable industrial boom of 1928-29 ordinary shares generally reached a level that was not justified, yet no company chairman thought fit then to tell his shareholders this. Even if the chairman of Singer and Co. is right, and the shares of that concern are unduly low, it is difficult to see what advantage accrues to the company from drawing attention to the fact in public, and, if subsequent experience should prove that the view was wrong, the shareholders would certainly not thank the directors for their action. The matter is best left to the judgment of the Stock Exchange and the investing public. Not infrequently events show that a particular share had been unduly low or unduly high, but speaking very generally, it may be taken that the valuation placed upon a security by the Stock Exchange is a fair representation of intrinsic merits and is approximately correct.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS.

It is rather surprising that stocks of investment trusts have not responded more to the recent improvement in market conditions. These companies are not large holders of ordinary shares, so that they are not likely to have suffered from the heavy depreciation in that group this year. On the other hand, it is possible that they have taken advantage of the low prices to acquire interests on very favourable terms in some of the soundest concerns, which should give them a good return in the future. This procedure, too, might have been accompanied by the realisation of fixed interest stocks, which have risen substantially above their values. Altogether, the next reports should show satisfactory results, and the Ordinary and Deferred Stocks of the best companies may be considered excellent investments at present prices. British Steamship Deferred may be taken as an example. During this year the price has been 185/-, and in 1928 it touched 207/-. But the present quotation is only about 165, so that on the basis of the 11 per cent. dividend paid on the last occasion the yield is £6 13s. 3d. per cent. The company is no longer largely interested in shipping securities

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

There can no longer be any reasonable doubt that the worst of the depression on the Stock Exchange has been seen and that better times are ahead for the investor. The recovery will not continue without a pause, and the cessation of bear repurchases on the one hand, and profit-taking by those who bought for quick speculative turns on the other, may easily cause a severe set-back (writes The Sunday Times). But public confidence has revived, and markets are not likely to be thrown back permanently into the Slough of Despond. It is significant that the industrial revival has been practically confined to high-grade shares. Much of the buying was in large lines, which, it is believed, will be taken off the market and retained for investment by financial trusts, insurance companies, and other large holders. It is only natural that such investors should be seeking a higher return than is obtainable from gilt-edged stocks, but it may be assumed that they would not abandon the safety-first principle unless they foresaw the restoration of better economic conditions within a reasonable period. Importance is rightly attached to the address of the Trades Union Council president as indicating a sane and helpful attitude on the part of the leaders of labour, and with this and the determination to free trade from the burdens of excessive taxation and unequal foreign competition, there is some reason for regarding the future hopefully. To pay for industrial investment there has been some selling of gilt-edged stocks, but the slightly lower prices at which these are obtainable are bound to tempt fresh buyers. Ease in money is so pronounced that the rivals on British Government securities are still attractive. Owing to the resumption of the gold drain to France and the set-back in sterling, a decline in Bank rate is hardly to be expected, since this is the period when demands for financing the world's crops usually tend to raise the level of money. But this year is abnormal, and there is no sign of a break in the long spell of cheap money. While this lasts the tendency of gilt-edged stocks must be to rise to still higher levels.

THE ARGENTINE CRISIS.

The unrest which has been simmering in the Argentine has come to a head with the resignation of Dr. Irigoyen, the President. For the moment the Government is in the hands of Senor Martinez, the Vice-President, and martial law has been declared. There has been some street fighting, in which the university students have been prominent. As one authority in London expressed it, this is to be expected, for in these Latin countries it is always the intelligentsia among the students which displays fanaticism. So far as British investments in Argentina are concerned, the position is not regarded as warranting serious anxiety (says The Observer). It is thought, indeed, that the resignation of the aged President may lead to a more energetic policy, and ultimately prove advantageous. No doubt, railway stock prices will be affected by the selling of nervous holders during the continuance of the crisis, but the advice given in Anglo-South American circles in London is to ignore market fluctuations in stocks and await events.

LESS WHISKEY.

At a meeting of the Highland Malt Distillers' Association, held in Elgin, it was agreed to reduce the amount of whiskey to be manufactured during the ensuing season by 25 per cent. This is due to a decrease in the amount of consumption and overstocking during the past two or three years.

ALLIANCE TRUST.

In accord with the intimation given in the last report the directors of the Alliance Trust Company have decided to make a free issue of Preference shares. These will be allotted as a bonus of 10 per cent. to the Ordinary shareholders, and letters of allotment will be issued, together with the warrants for an interim dividend at the rate of 25 per cent. per annum, less tax. Last year's interim was at the same rate on £907,500 stock, the final payment of 25 per cent. per annum being made on the increased amount of £1,000,000.

SUGAR STOCKS IN JAVA.

It is estimated that the sugar stocks in Java on September 1 amounted to 1,493,000 tons.

SPHINX ELECTRIC.

A meeting of creditors of the Sphinx Electric was held at the offices of the company, Hatton Garden, London, E.C. It was stated that the issued capital was £149,275, but the company had carried on business at a loss, and on 1st July last a petition was presented for compulsory liquidation. Efforts were made to carry through a reconstruction, but the shareholders, when consulted, refused to entertain the proposals submitted and passed a resolution in favour of a voluntary winding up. The petitioning creditors had intimated that they desired to proceed with their petition, and they were being supported by the largest creditor. A resolution was unanimously passed by the creditors in favour of a winding-up order being made by the court.

STANDARD TRUST SHARES TO BECOME STOCK.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of Standard Trust, Ltd., is to be held on September 12th to consider a resolution, that the 150,000 5½ per cent. Cumulative Preference and 100,000 Ordinary £1 Shares be respectively converted into Preference and Ordinary Stock. The authorised share capital is £1,000,000, of which £750,000 is issued and paid up. In 1927 the shares were converted into stock. The 150,000 Preference and 100,000 Ordinary were created in February, 1929.

The above figures do not include notes deemed to be Consolidated Bank Notes in accordance with Section 60 (4) of the Currency Act, 1927. On the 23rd August, 1930, these amounted in the aggregate to £2,161,012.

TIN INTERIMS.

On Thursday we announced that the Malayan Tin Dredging had declared a first interim dividend on account of the year to June 30, 1931, of 5 per cent., which compared with a payment of 10 per cent. at this time last year. The boards of this company and Southern Malayan Tin Dredging, Ltd., and Southern Perak Dredging, Ltd., are identical, and on previous occasions distributions by all three companies have been announced on the same day. In view of the fact that the Malayan announcement made its appearance alone, it seems to be a fair assumption that Southern Malayan and Southern Perak shareholders will not receive a dividend on this occasion. Interim payments by the Southern Malayan Company in respect of the year to June 30, 1930, have been as follow:—August, 1929, 7½ per cent.; December, 1929, 7½ per cent.; March, 1930, 7½ per cent.; May, 1930, 5 per cent. In the case of the Southern Perak Company, interims for the year to June 30, 1930, have been as follows:—August, 1929, 5 per cent.; December, 1929, 5 per cent.; March, 1930, 5 per cent.; May, 1930, 5½ per cent. For the year to June 30, 1929, the total distribution was 30 per cent., compared with 181 per cent. to date for 1929-30.

A fire that broke out in the residential part of CAPPOQUIN Railway Station, occupied by Mr. Frank Meade, Stationmaster, was quickly subdued by Mr. Meade, with the assistance of Sergeant Vaughan, Guard Lee, and other volunteers.

BUTTER STRONGER.

A stronger undercurre orted in the butter trade, and, whi anish official quotation has been wire oner higher, spot prices for mo otions are above this figure. Until the true position appreciated there can be no healt ket. So far as bacon ned there is no doubt that there is feeling that the reports of large s in Denmark for the past few week use a quieter tone to prevail. The on recorded this week by the local Boco is 2s. in Swedish, all other con ing unchanged. Present weather co s by no means conducive s, and buyers are acting very sly in consequence. A good demand d for Cheshire cheese, but weathe ons are by no means favourable r qualities and over-heated stuff h Blowers at the value. A sharp adv ded in lard, both English refined an an being substantially dearer as co with last week. So far as eggs ar ed, there was a marked improvemen the close of the week, and, although reports from the Continent were pessimistic, there was a strong ly obtainable. Poultry, however, fully equal demand, but offerings of both grou ere still somewhat irregular.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL.—There is little improvement in the business of selling either yarns or wools. Both are in favour of buyers, more especially so, and much of the trade done is of a practically unremunerative nature. Fine wools are the most asked for, but here again prices are low, round about a shilling, and in some cases a penny less. Coarse wools are very slow to move. The hosiery trade remains dull.

HIDES AND LEATHER.
(SPECIAL REPORT.)

There was good competition for the hides offered at auction this week, and better prices were often secured. First clear ox were unchanged to 1st higher at 7½d. for 70/75lb., whilst seconds were, occasionally 1d. dearer. First watbled ox were unchanged to 1d. up, with 90lb. up again sold at 7d. First cows were unchanged to 1d. higher, but bulls exceptionally fell 1d. Calf were unchanged to 1d. higher in both firsts and seconds, with 40lb. and under in first sold at 10½d. Light were 1d. to 1½d. up, with firsts done at 6d. Foreign hides were in fair request at generally steady rates. Recent business included B.A. Americanos at 7½d., and first dry Capes at 7½d. Business in leather showed a slow, but steady, improvement, and a better inquiry was experienced for all descriptions, with all leather of quality maintained at firm rates. Most of the sales were in small lots for immediate use, there being a continued reluctance to operate far forward. In the offal section, bellies were easier, there being considerable pressure of supplies, whilst there was little done in shoulders, apart from cheap stout selections. In the rough leather department conditions remained quiet and unchanged. Upper leather has a quiet trade with a moderate turnover in willow calf and reptiles, but otherwise business was sluggish.

IRISH FAIRS.

BALLYMONEY (CO. ANTRIM), September 4.—This was a small fair, chiefly composed of about 130 store cattle, as against 178 at the August fair. The trade for store cattle was slow, but a clearance was effected at about ruling prices. The ten fat cattle on offer were sold at an average price of 41/- per live cwt. in contrast to 42/- per live cwt. a month ago. In the dairy cattle section there were 25 springers and four milch cows, both of moderate quality, as compared with a similar number of springers and five milch cows at the previous fair. The best trade of the day was done in this section, where all the springers were sold at lower prices, and all the milch cows realised improved rates. The attendance in the sheep section was composed of about 90 lambs, 55 store sheep, and ten fat sheep. Sheep of all descriptions experienced a slow trade. All the lambs realised from 30/- to 45/- each; about 45 store sheep were sold at prices ranging from 40/- to 55/- each, while all the fats made 50/- each. The offering of 200 young pigs was similar to that at the previous fair. Suckers met a dull demand, and about 150 found purchasers at unchanged prices.

BALLINA (CO. MAYO), September 5.—Small cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Store cattle, 580; springers and milch cows, 55; calves 25. Some 100 lambs and 50 fat sheep were also offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of 1st and 2nd class polled Aberdeen Angus stock. Small attendance of buyers and all classes of store cattle with condition and quality met a moderate trade, choice bullocks being in special request. Thin and rough lots met a very slow trade. Prime springers and milch cows met a fair inquiry at about late rates. Fat sheep and lambs changed hands at recent quotations. Range of prices per head:—Calves under six months, £2 10/- to £5. Store cattle—Six to twelve months: 1st class £8 to £10 10/-, 2nd class £6 to £7 15/-; one to two years: 1st class £12 10/- to £14, 2nd class £10 to £12 5/-. Two to three years: 1st class £16 to £18 10/-, 2nd class £13 to £15 15/-. Springers (cows and heifers)—1st class: £20 to £26, 2nd £15 to £19. Milch cows (down calved)—1st class £19 to £23, 2nd class £15 to £17; milch cows, £20, £18, £17 and £15, according to age, etc., fat cattle, two-year-olds, £16 to £18; weanlings from £9 to £12; store cattle £10 to £15; calves under six months, £2 to £3. The pig fair was very large, but demand was slow, and pigs were bought at prices ranging from about £3 per cwt., a drop of some shillings since last fair. Bonhams £1 10/- to £2 10/- each.

FERMOY (CO. CORK), Sept. 1.—Medium-sized cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Store cattle 850, fat cattle 140, springers and milch cows 45.Some 900 lambs, 700 store sheep and 550 fat sheep were also offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of shorthorn stores. All classes of stores met a slow demand, except well-conditioned young heifers for breeding and handy-weight polly bullocks; tough lots were hard to cash, even at reduced prices. Some 60 per cent. of the sales were for export. Fat cattle met a moderate request at slightly lower values; cows and bulls sold slowly at reduced rates. Choice springers and milch cows were readily cashed at high quotations. All classes of sheep and lambs met a steady inquiry at late rates. Range of prices per head:—Store cattle—Six to twelve months: 1st class £8 10/- to £10 10/-, 2nd class £7 to £8 7/6. 3rd class £5 15/- to £6 15/-; one to two years: 1st class £12 10/- to £14, 2nd class £10 to £12, 3rd class £8 to £9 10/-; two to three years: 1st class £15 10/- to £17 5/-, 2nd class £13 to £15 5/-, 3rd class £10 to £12 10/-; three years and over: 2nd class £16 to £17 10/-, 3rd class £12 to £15. Fat cattle—Two to three years: 1st class £18 to £22, 2nd class £15—£17 10/-; three years and over: 1st class £22 to £26, 2nd class £17 to £21. Cows and bulls—2nd class £11 to £13, 3rd class £8/£9. Springers (cows and heifers)—1st class £21 to £26, 2nd class £16 10/- to £20. Milch cows (down calved)—1st class £20 to £24, 2nd class £17 to £19 10/-. Lambs (under 12 months)—Lonz wools 52/6 to 56/-, downs and cross-breds 37/6 to 54/-. Store sheep—One to two years: long wools 50/- to 56/-; two years and over: long wools 65/- to 72/-; two years and over: long wools 47/- to 77/6.

ROSCOMMON, August 30 and September 1.—Medium-sized cattle fair, held on 1st September, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Store cattle 1,050, fat cattle 40, springers and milch cows 50, and calves 20. Average sized sheep fair, held on 30th ultimo, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Lambs 400, store sheep 2,200, and fat sheep 300. The cattle offered were composed chiefly of two and three-year-old Shorthorn stock, with some lots of Hereford and Aberdeen Angus crosses. Good attendance of shippers. Stores suitable for shipping were in request at high prices, but thin and inferior sorts were hard to cash. Practically all the fat stock were purchased by local victualliers. Springers and milch cows were in good demand, and almost 80 per cent. changed hands. The sheep fair was composed chiefly of ewes suitable for fattening, which met a slow trade, but some 70 per cent. were eventually cleared. Fat sheep and lambs met a moderate inquiry at about recent rates. Calves (under six months), £5 to £4 10/-. Store cattle: 6 to 12 months —1st class £7 to £9, 2nd class £5 to £6 10/-; 1 to 2 years—1st class £13 to £15, 2nd class £10 to £12 10/-; 2 to 3 years—1st class £16 10/- to £18 10/-, 2nd class £14 to £16; 3 years and over—1st class £19 to £22, 2nd class £16 to £18. YACHTING.

A LAST DAY.

On Saturday the Dublin Bay Sailing Club finished its programme, and now only one more race remains—that for the Smalldridge Challenge Cup of the Seapoint R.C. When it has been decided the season will be over at Kingstown.

On the whole it has proved nothing to boast about. The weather of July and August was the cause, and Saturday was typical of what was the rule this year. There were samples of every sort of condition except storm, and all day long the westerly wind was extraordinarily fluky and patchy. For example, one boat would be sailing with a nice little breeze, and another in the near neighbourhood would be stuck in a calm, or nearly so.

The finishing times reflect this well. Furthermore, the end came in a fierce rain squall, all those caught out getting a drenching.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

Fortunately the last day decided the two ties which were standing over. Punctilio taking the Irish Times prize and Inisfallen the "Kismet" Prize, and in a decided fashion in each case.

"A" CLASS CRUISERS. HANDICAP (Start, 3.5 p.m.).—Punctilio led Mavis out of harbour. They picked up a nice breeze off the east ends and carried it to the Rosbeg. Here Mavis was well within her proportionate handicap, but got becalmed in a calm. So did Punctilio, the latter was lucky enough to sail out of here, while Mavis was held up for over an hour, and was only driven in after. She finished after the time limit had expired, and one and a half hours behind Punctilio. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Punctilio (winner) — Messrs. Newsom and Stephens (Scr.)	6 6 51
Mavis—Mr. W. Kearney (13m.)	not timed.

21 FOOTERS. HANDICAP (Start, 3.10 p.m.).—Geraldine led the Bar buoy, but was passed by Inisfallen and Garavoge going to Bullock, and by Oola on the reach up then to harbour. For once in a way, indeed, Geraldine was clean out of it, luck being dead against her, and both she and Maureen dropped out at the close of the first round. The others went to Bullock and back, and got the worst of the rain squall. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Inisfallen (winner)—Dr. J. T. Wigham (3m.)	5 34 7
Garavoge (2nd prize)—Mr. L. Gower (1m.)	5 35 14
Oola—Mr. F. E. Bermingham (5m.)	5 40 10
Geraldine—Mr. W. McDowell (scr.)	retired,
Maureen—Mr. J. Rae (4m.)	retired.

17 FOOTERS. HANDICAP (Start, 3.15 p.m.).—The gaps showing between the starters were testimonies of the fluttering nature of the breeze. Here drew out a striking lead. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Hera (winner)—Dr. G. E. Nesbitt (scr.)	5 4 42
Bobolink (2nd prize)—Mr. A. McMullen (2m.)	5 16 48
Pauline—Dr. H. J. Wright (scr.)	5 17 40
Deilginis — Captain O'Brien Twohig (7m.)	5 25 11

SMALL CRUISERS. HANDICAP (Start, 3.20 p.m.).—There were only two, and Eileen was the leader away. She never allowed Hyacinth to get any distance ahead, and so saved her time on it:—

	H. M. S.
Hyacinth—Mr. J. de B. Donovan (16m.)	5 29 5
Eileen (winner)—Mr. J. A. Magauran (19m.)	5 31 58

Water Wags. Handicap (start 3.25 p.m.).—Barbara got first start, followed by Coquette, Marie Louise and Tomboy, and at the close of the first round Tomboy was leading, with Coquette next, both being well clear of Pansy, Barbara and Marie Louise. In this order they went to Bullock. After the return Pansy was leading. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Pansy (2nd prize)—Dr. J. H. Stephens (5m.)	4 55 30
Barbara (winner)—Dr. J. T. Wigham (5m.)	4 56 29
Coquette—Mr. G. B. Jones (5m.)	4 56 41
Tomboy—Messrs. Barrett and Donnelly (5m.)	5 0 38
Marie Louise—Mr. E. G. Peake (13m.)	5 6 40

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

Mercia III., sailed by Mr. S. Smalldridge, won the Dalkey Island Cup on Saturday, she sailing on this occasion one of the best races of the season. For a moment, at the start (3.35 p.m.), Alethea led, she, Mercia, Bonita and Sho Shi being nearly crowded together, but almost immediately Mercia drew away, and led for the remainder of the race. They carried the breeze—a very flukey one—round Dalkey Island, and were able to fetch harbour after from the Muglins. Cruising in this harbour carried away her gaff in the rain squall. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Mercia III. (winner)—Mr. W. J. Smalldridge (4 m.)	5, 10 14
Bonita—Messrs. Hartnell and McGoogan (scr.)	5 12 43
Sho Shi—Messrs Carey and Hegarty (3.m.)	5 17 40
Alethea—Mr. J. Kelly (1 m.)	retired.

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

It was a pity there was not a steadier wind on Saturday for the annual Crews' Race at Howth, but fluky conditions prevailed along the coast line, and finishing times bring this fact out well. But, even so, the winner in this match (Zaida, sailed by Mr. F. Bonnar) deserved her success, for she led nearly all the time.

At the start she was second to Rosemary, with Mimosa, Rita and Anita astern. The wind was on the North mark she was leading Rita and Leila. Off Balscaddan, the breeze, or, rather, the airs, were coming from all points, and here it was that Zaida drew out her big lead. It was only towards the close of the last round that the wind came fresh and strong from the West. Finish:—

	H. M. S.
Zaida (winner)—Mr. A. Horne	5 25 24
Leila (2nd prize)—Mr. C. Brownlee	5 35 7
Rita—Mr. B. O'Reilly	5 37 21
Anita—Mr. W. Horne	5 39 38
Rosemary—Mr. A. Nicholl	5 41 14
Mimosa—Mr. W. McCracken	retired.

IN

A DUSTY AND NOISY PILGRIMAGE.

MODERN CRAZE FOR SPEED CONDEMNED.

The modern craze for speed and "jazz" was condemned at an Industrial Welfare Conference at Oxford on Saturday by Dr. W. M. Childs, late Vice-Chancellor of Reading University.

"I think that the Victorians were greater people than we are," he said. "Our civilisation is in a state of restless flux. The conditions in which we live, and under which we have to determine our behaviour, have changed with a velocity and a shattering effect to which the historic past affords no parallel. These changes are very disturbing.

"It has not been proved that the human mind and spirit are capable of adjusting themselves without real injury and loss to the requirements of an age which has staked its all on machines. We talk too much; we see too much; we listen too much, and we rush about too much. We, all of us, live under a cascade of temptations of that kind. We are proceeding on a dusty and noisy pilgrimage."

GAELIC GAMES.

THE HURLING FINAL.

TIPPERARY WIN A GREAT GAME.

SECOND HALF DASH.

(BY PAT'O.)

TIPPERARY ..... 2-7 DUBLIN 1-3

Finding their best hurling in the third quarter, as has been their wont during each stage of this year's championship, Tipperary set about putting the result beyond all doubt.

Just as they won against Waterford, Clare and Galway on their road to the All-Ireland final, they won yesterday at the third stage. It is not difficult to understand this faculty of the Tipperary men. They come from a race of hurlers, who never lose confidence until the last whistle has blown. The 1930 champion team are closely related in blood to the champion hurlers of the past. The old Tubberadora and Thurles men were many times down at the fiftieth minute of a championship final and yet won through their aggressive consistency. The present champion side apparently do not care to leave it so long.

HURRICANE TACTICS.

From the opening of the second half against Waterford, Clare, Galway and Dublin they adopted hurricane tactics and established such a sound score that they could rest on their laurels and hold opponents out to the end.

They were up against a skilful, though ageing, team in Dublin yesterday. Dublin were in attack for two-thirds of the first half. So well did Dublin play that a little luck would have turned the game in their favour. Then Tipperary came along with Kennedy's goal and led by a narrow margin. Tipperary raced through Dublin's backs in ten minutes of the second half and established such a lead that Dublin's late recovery did not suffice. Spectators watched an honest, rugged match. The lead changed three times in the first half, and Dublin's disappointing hurling after the resumption was another feature of a year of surprises. Dublin had the better of the first half-hour, though down by the odd score in eleven.

Croke Park pitch was slightly slow after the heavy rains, but played well. The attendance was almost 25,000.

The teams were :—

Tipperary — O'Meara (goal); McKenna, O'Loughlin, Ryan; Maher, Purcell, Butler, Lanigan, Treacy; Cahill, Leahy; Callanan (capt.), Cronin, Harney, Kennedy.

Dublin — Dwyer (goal); O'Meara, McEgerney, McMahon; Campion, Teehan, Walsh (capt.); Gill, Finn; Byrne, Quinlan, Leeson, Burke, Power, Griffin.

THE GAME.

Tipperary broke away and forced a free. Cahill made it fifty yards away and shaved the cross-bar. Power, following O'Dwyer's drive from the goal, was busy. He was so closely marked that he drove wide. Hurling was fast and fierce, and tackling was close. O'Meara and Dwyer saved when onslaughts came from either attack. Both goalkeepers were good. Through the field James Walsh and M. Gill were very prominent. Treacy burst through the Dublin midfield, and from the seventy yards mark hit a great ball through to set Tipperary two points up. McEnerney and Kennedy stood shoulder to shoulder in front of Dublin's goal. Long to shoulder in front of Dublin's goal. Long hitting, with occasional misses in which might not be expected with such tried hurlers on a good sod, followed. Byrne was playing well for Dublin, and it was a crossing ball of his which reached Burke, who narrowed the gap. Dublin 1 point, Tipperary 2

Teehan for Dublin, and Purcell for Tipperary, hit some long balls at either end, whilst the sound work of the goalkeepers and backs (McKenna and McEnerney) kept the scores low. We marked some great duels between Walsh and Cahill on the wing. Power, well covered by the improving Tipperary backs, was wide with his next. Dublin continued aggressive, and a neat pass of Griffin's was trapped by Power, who goaled with a low, hard shot, which O'Meara could not stop. So were Dublin in front. Cahill, playing with all his speed and skill, next broke through on Tipperary's right, and his point set the score—Dublin 4, Tipperary 3. Treacy was injured but resumed. Leeson, Quinlan, and Griffin set Dublin again in attack. O'Meara was at his best. Well covered by McKenna and his supporting backs, the Tipperary keeper lived up to his reputation and stopped three hard drives from Griffin, Power and Burke.

At this stage the game was in Tipperary territory. Walsh, the Dublin captain, was feeding his front line well. Gill, Byrne and Power rained in fast balls, but McKenna, Maher and O'Meara held their goal clear. Purcell was outstanding in Tipperary's centre back, and so a fast, sincere half-hour ended with Tipperary in the lead by 1 goal 3 points to 1 goal 2 points.

THE SECOND HALF.

McEnerney, McMahon and O'Meara had a rough passage when Tipperary bore in from the resumption. Dwyer again did well, but he was unable to resist these fast-moving Tipperary men. Cahill was fast, aggressive and elusive. He pointed accurately from a placed ball. Dublin backs staggered when Tipperary brought all their power to bear on them, and the margin widened. Treacy and Lanigan held Dublin's mid-field well, and when the City mid-field was closely pressed Tipperary's forwards proceeded to weave their way in. It was a brilliant goal of their captain—Callanan—which proved decisive. A misunderstanding between Dublin's mid-field and backs brought Tipperary tearing down, and one could not blame O'Dwyer. Minor injuries occurred and stoppages were frequent in the last half, depriving the game of much character. When Walsh raced up near the end and scored for Dublin a close finish was expected, but Dublin's front line failed to beat a good and carefully-prepared Tipperary back section. Kennedy and Callanan added to Tipperary's lead, and they were sound winners.

MINOR FOOTBALL FINAL.

SECOND HALF RALLY BY MAYO NEARLY BRINGS VICTORY.

DUBLIN ..... 1-3 MAYO 5

Dublin went in from the start, but met a great defence in Acton and Donoghue. O'Boyle crossed for McGoff to shoot wide. McLaughlin and Sharkey cleared, in turn, for Dublin, but Mayo kept pressing. Burke opened the score with a neat point. Barry and O'Toole put Dublin in, a hard drive from Markham being punched over the bar. Dublin's first minor. A second point followed when a well-placed ball by O'Toole was finished by Quinn. The Dublin posts had a narrow escape. McLaughlin conceding a "50," which was cleared. Hatch put well in, and Markham missed narrowly. Following a quick return from Diffney, Fallon boxed into the net, which left Dublin leading by 1-2 to 1 point at the interval.

Dublin forced a "50" on resuming, which was cleared. Mayo came away, and a close free was pointed by Burke. O'Donoghue (Mayo) was injured, and replaced by Creshan. A spell of hand passing by the Mayo forwards was finished by Burke for a clever point, and the same player, from a second free, added another. A moment later he equalised the score. Great football was witnessed in the concluding portion. Markham, O'Toole, and Hatch combined splendidly, and the last-named scored the best point of the match. Mayo, with two frees towards the finish, had chances, but the Dublin defence prevailed.

INSURANCE FEDERATION GOLD MEDAL—HURLING.

Banba 2 goals. Civil Service 1 goal.
Patrick Moran's 4 goals, Conn na Geal 0.
Erin's Isle 4 goals 8 points, Gaelic League 3 goals, 1 point.

RACING DRIVER KILLED.

BROOKLANDS ACCIDENTS.

Mr. A. Walter, a member of the Brighton and Hove Club, was killed at Brooklands last Saturday in the first heat of the Brighton road race, when his M.G. Midget struck a sandbank directly in front of the stand and overturned.

H. Waldron, of Easthourne, who was riding a Velocette motor cycle in one of the final sections of the relay race, was seriously injured when, in full sight of the crowd on the stand, his motor cycle crashed as the result of a speed wobble opposite Vickers' sheds on the finishing straight.

Waldron was travelling at a very high speed, and had just forced his way to second place when he came off. He rolled along the track, and his motor cycle struck him once or twice while he was on the ground. An ambulance was soon on the scene, and he was taken to Weybridge Cottage Hospital with severe external injuries.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

THE WEEK-END LEAGUE GAMES.

ROVERS WELL HELD BY DOLPHIN.

BELFAST CELTIC GO DOWN AT DERRY.

Features of outstanding interest in connection with the week-end "Soccer" were the success of Drumcondra at Dundalk, the result of the match at Milltown, and the overthrow of Belfast Celtic and the heavy scoring in the Shelbourne-Jacobs match.

The Drumcondra forwards outplayed the Dundalk defence, and won 4-1, and Shamrock Rovers were considered fortunate when they effected a draw with Dolphin at home. Belfast Celtic went to Derry unbeaten in the Irish League, but returned defeated 3-1, and at Shelbourne Park Shelbourne scored at will against Jacobs. Hair netting six of their seven goals. Bohemians, likewise, had an easy victory over Brideville (3-0), and Bray Unknowns, against the run of the play, beat St. James's Gate 2-1, while Cork showed improvement in the match with Waterford, which they won 4-1.

BRIDEVILLE ADOPT WRONG TACTICS.

BOHEMIANS WIN A POOR GAME.

BOHEMIANS ..... 3 BRIDEVILLE 0

At Harold's Cross Park last Saturday, Cleary, Redmond and Dennis were the scorers.
